ROOSEVELT MAY ASK U. S. RULE OF ALL INDUSTRIES

Control Board Plan Before Him.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 2.—[Special.]—A new plan for the regimentation of industry under federal government supervision, worked out by the Roosevelt professoriat, was submitted to the President today.

The bill, which is to be entitled the "National Industry Recovery Act," provides for complete control of industry through a federal board similar to the war industries board of 1918.

It proposes to set aside the anti-trust laws, the federal trade commission act, and the Clayton act, empowers the national board to designate any industry as one affected with a public interest, permits price fixing directly and wage regulation indirectly under government supervision, and provides for the self-organization of industry through trade associations.

Industry Approves Major Items.

This proposed legislation is approved in its major features by the National Association of Manufacturers and by Henry I. Harriman, president, and other officers of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. If Mr. Roosevelt decides to make it an administration measure it may be substituted for or combined with Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins' bill instituting the 30 hour week and extending an ironclad bureaucratic control over the production and wage scales of industry.

The Perkins bill has encountered such opposition on Capitol hill that Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the senate, says it will not be passed at this session. The President has made it known, however, that he is still in favor of the bill and wants it passed. Representative William P. Connery Jr. [Dem., Mass.], chairman of the house labor committee, said the bill would be reported favorably to the house and he would press for its immediate passage.

In view of the opposition that has been aroused, however, Speaker Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.] and Representative Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee, the Democratic leader of the house, agreed that the session should not be prolonged in an effort to pass the bill.

Railroad Bill Next.

The railroad rehabilitation bill is the next measure the President will advance. This will be followed by the bill providing a vast public works construction program to cost from 2 to 5 billion dollars.

It was learned today that the President has discussed with the cabinet members drafting the public works bill the question of amortizing the bonds that will be floated to finance this project. Numerous new taxes are being considered, among them taxes on tea and coffee, increased corporation taxes, gross income taxes, and a "processing tax." The processing tax would involve a 5 per cent levy annually on the construction industry, half on materials and half on contractors' profit.

A new bureaucracy of several hundred thousand federal agents on top of the present bureaucracy of 800,000 civil employés would be required to supervise industry under the national industry recovery bill, nationalized agriculture under the farm relief bill which is about to be enacted, and under the public works bill.

Sets Up Board of Seven.

The industry bill sets up a board consisting of seven members headed by the secretaries of commerce and labor. The others are to be spokesmen for commerce, finance, labor, agriculture, and the public.

The plan sanctions the formation of industrial and trade associations which shall work with the national board to correlate production with demand, establish prices of commodities at fair levels, and stabilize markets.

Each trade association will have on its governing board a representative of the supreme body of seven. Before the government, through the national board, can approve prices and trade arrangements set up by the trade associations, the national board must be in complete possession of the facts which will be obtained through its own agents and through the data submitted by the trade association.

Loans but no subsidies are provided for private industry, according to the plan. The national board will be empowered to certify to the Reconstruction Finance corporation any plant that may require a loan.

A higher price level which will be

GERMAN TRADE UNIONS SEIZED BY NAZI TROOPS

3,000 Labor Leaders Are Arrested.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
(Picture on Back Page.)

BERLIN, May 2.—Germany today entered what Chancellor Adolf Hitler terms the second phase of the National Socialist revolution. The chancellor sent his Nazi storm troopers into all towns of the nation to seize free trade union premises and labor banks. The arrest of all union leaders also was ordered.

"This clears the path for the new National Socialist state in which labor will form a part of society, divided and grouped according to professions," said Dr. Robert Ley, Nazi president of the states' council, who directed the raids. "Guilds like those of the middle ages will be formed."

Smashes Labor Unions.

Today's action smashes the German free trade unions, which in 1920 numbered 8,000,000 members. Now they have slightly more than 4,000,000. Together with the Christian [Catholic] labor unions they formed a solid bulwark against bolshevism in the years following the war when Red emissaries vainly attempted to establish sovietism in Germany.

In Berlin alone 400 union leaders were arrested, including former Minister of Labor Rudolf Wissell and such prominent Socialists as Peter Grassmann and Theodor Leipardt. It is estimated that 3,000 persons were placed under "protective arrest" throughout Germany as a result of the raids.

Minor employés of the unions were permitted to carry on.

Smash Marxist Unions, Aim.

"We intend to develop the unions into an organization to take care of the interests of workers more adequately than the laborites ever did," Dr. Ley said. "We want the worker to form a part of the nation and unless we smash the Marxist unions the Marxists again might arise and knife the German people in the back the way they did in 1918."

Dr. Ley warned that the Christian unions must fall into line and accept Hitler's leadership or face dissolution. Henceforth, he said, only one labor union front with one union for each branch of industry and each profession will be permitted.

Orders Labor Rally.

Hitler has ordered a mass demonstration of workers in Berlin before the former kaiser's palace for Friday. The first great labor congress will assemble at the former Prussian house of peers in Berlin next Monday under the personal supervision of the chancellor.

Political circles report that Hitler intends to appoint a labor union commissar. It is expected that membership in the unions will be made compulsory.

The free trade unions were accused tonight of sending large sums of money abroad. Dispatches from Munich said that Nazis had seized the bank account of Paul Loebe, former president of the reichstag. The bank account consisted of about $750,000 and presumably consisted of funds of the Socialist party.

30 Professors Fired.

BERLIN, May 2.—(AP)—Bernhard Rust, Prussian education minister, today summarily dismissed 21 professors from Berlin university and nine from Cologne university.

The number dismissed from the Berlin institution included the eminent cancer specialist, Ferdinand Blumenthal; Friedrich Franz Friedmann, tuberculosis specialist; Eugen Mittwoch, orientalist; Walter Norden, philologist; Issai Schur, mathematician, and Julius Pokorny, Celtic expert.

Among those dismissed at Cologne were Leo Spitzer, Romanist, and Eugen Schmalenbach, political economist.

Goebbels May Represent Germany at Chicago Fair

BERLIN, May 3.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—The Volkischer Beobachter, organ of the National Socialist party, today announced the likelihood that Dr Joseph Goebbels, propaganda minister, would represent the German government at the opening of A Century of Progress exposition in Chicago.

WIFE BATTLES BULL THAT TRAMPLES HER HUSBAND TO DEATH

Seymour, Ind., May 2.—[Special.]—Mrs. William Hughes, living near Pleasant Grove, fought an enraged bull for three hours while dragging her fatally injured husband from the field where the attack took place.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes were driving through their farm in a wagon when they noticed the animal was out of its pasture. Mrs. Hughes went for a hammer to tear down part of a fence. When she returned she heard her husband crying for help and found the bull trampling him. She attacked the animal and drove it off. Then began a long fight. She dragged her husband a few feet at a time between halts to fight the animal off.

Mrs. Hughes finally got her husband to a safe place and went half a mile for help. He died several hours after his rescue.

Woman Upsets House Debate by Her Shouts

Washington, D. C., May. 2.—[Special.]—A woman, who gave her name as Beatrice Richmond of Chicago, threw the house debate on inflation into an uproar today. Rising to her feet in the gallery in the midst of an impassioned speech by Chairman Henry B. Steagall of the banking and currency committee, Miss Richmond shouted in strident voice:

"In a million years you'll never get the country out of the depression, the way you're going now."

Representative John J. Cochran [Dem., Mo.], presiding at the time, pounded for order, shouted for the sergeant at arms, yelled for the capitol guards. Representatives rose and turned to stare toward the gallery, or, remembering the pistol waver of last session, scurried for cover.

She Grants an Interview.

Of all those present, Miss Richmond was least perturbed. One last contemptuous look at the gentlemen on the floor and she flounced hastily from the gallery and made for a nearby stairway to the street floor. At her heels in full cry was the press gallery. At the head of the stairs she paused, leaned nonchalantly on the marble railing and granted an interview.

She gave her name, but declined to give her street address in Chicago.

"Why," she was asked, "did you get up and try to speak from the gallery?"

"Well, I've got a lot of good ideas for curing the depression," she declared, "and I just wanted to tell those people about them. My ideas are so good that the millionaires and bankers in Chicago wanted me to come down here months ago and tell congress about them, but I wouldn't do it. I wanted to wait and come when I felt like it."

"Who were the bankers?" she was asked.

"O, I don't think I ought to tell their names," replied Miss Richmond, adjusting her veil. "It wouldn't be just right to tell who they are."

"What is your occupation?" some one inquired.

Jill of All Trades.

"O, I've got ten trades. Besides, I'm a business woman. I've been stenographer, bookkeeper, saleswoman, correspondent, secretary. Right now I'm in the automobile radio business in Chicago."

"Now, my idea," she went on, "is that there has got to be a moratorium on everything. You can't throw the farmer off his farm. And this thirty hour bill will cripple the business man. It would ruin industry. We have just got to have a moratorium on everything."

BLIND LION FROM PARIS ZOO IS KILLED AND EATEN AT BANQUET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 2.—Over the almost violent protest of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Sultan, famous lion of the Paris zoo, was converted into filet de lion and eaten at a restaurant here today.

Sultan had been blind from birth. Somebody recently decided that his was a life of misery. The presidentess of the local S. P. C. A. prevented a public execution, but failed to prevent the merchants of Place de la Nation quarter from obtaining the lion to grace the table at the opening luncheon of their annual carnival.

The guests, consisting of an actress, municipal aldermen, newspaper men and three lion tamers from a visiting circus, as well as Mariner, Sultan's private trainer, were waiting around the festive board when Sultan was borne in on a huge silver platter.

Sultan was printed on the menu as "filet de lion a le grand veneur," in the great hunter's style, with thick gravy, tinctured with burgundy wine. He proved good eating, the majority opinion being that he looked like veal and tasted like game.

BISHOP CANNON SPEAKS IN GARY ON EVILS OF 3.2

Bishop James Cannon Jr. spoke last night on the evils of 3.2 per cent beer and liquor generally at a rally in the City Methodist church, Gary. The meeting, attended by 500 persons, was held under auspices of the United Drys of Lake county, Indiana, in an effort to swing sentiment for the election of dry delegates in the June 6 repeal election.

The southern bishop described the 3.2 beer legislation as a "snooping and sniping nullification policy which made disgusting nullificationists out of congress, legislatures, and even the President."

"There is no more disgusting drunk than a beer drunk," said Bishop Cannon at one point. "I know, because I've held many of their heads."

The clergyman added quickly that he referred to his college days, when he helped put to bed many who had drunk too much beer, which he did not touch.

Former Federal Attorney Arrested on Fraud Charge

Edward A. Wickey of East Chicago, Ind., a well known lawyer and a special assistant attorney general in Washington, D. C., from 1921 to 1929, was arrested yesterday in East Chicago on a charge of misappropriating United States treasury checks. He was released in bond of $25,000 posted in South Bend. Wickey was indicted by the federal grand jury in Fort Wayne. The indictment charges that Wickey converted to his own use checks totaling $1,679 intrusted to him in the administration of three estates in California.

A Tax Petition Gets the Ear of Ald. Schulz

Complaints by County Assessor J. L. Jacobs that precinct captains in the 47th ward had promised to have personal property taxes canceled for those who would vote for Albert F. Schulz for alderman caused a telephone call to be made last night to the office of the now duly elected and installed Ald. Schulz.

"Is this Ald. Schulz?" asked the caller, who had dialed Juniper 1004, the phone number of the alderman's office at 2558 Wilson avenue.

"Yes," came the reply.

"This is Mr. Joe Josefson over on Seeley avenue," the caller said. "I have a personal property tax bill for $47 and I was told you would take care of it for me."

"Bring it over to the headquarters at 4420 North Ashland avenue and we may have it cut if we can't have it canceled," the caller was advised.

Precinct Captain Accused.

A resident of that vicinity said that during the aldermanic campaign Frank Karl, 4811 North Hoyne avenue, Democratic captain of the 22d precinct, had solicited the personal property tax bills of the residents of the precinct, promising exemption from payment in return for votes for Schulz. The new alderman defeated former Alderman John J. Hoellen by 159 votes.

Former Alderman Hoellen said he had been told of the tax campaign.

"Before the election I received frequent reports that the workers for my opponent were offering to fix personal property taxes, although I am sure they did so without Mr. Schulz's knowledge," said Mr. Hoellen. "If any of my workers did the same I don't know about it and I would not have stood for it."

Practice Widespread—Jacobs.

Assessor Jacobs said he had sent a number of investigators into the ward and had found that the practice of "picking up tax bills" had been widespread. It was charged that the Democratic ward committeeman, Joseph H. Donahue, who is also a state representative and a member of the Cook county civil service commission, had directed his precinct captains to make such promises.

"Yes, it's true," said Committeeman - Representative - Commissioner Donahue recently when asked about the report. "The Hoellen crowd started picking up personal property tax bills and then our workers had to do the same thing. I work in the county building and I knew nothing could be done about the bills so, after election, I told the precinct captains to take them back to the people they got them from."

Special Audit Promised.

"I don't know who started the practice," Assessor Jacobs said, "but by election day there was hardly a small personal property tax bill left in the ward. The offers to fix were usually confined to bills of $25 or under. I took up the matter with County Treasurer McDonough and he said he would have a special audit made of tax payments from the 47th ward and would make special efforts to collect on all delinquent bills."

"With the 1931 assessment we have started a definite program for the collection of personal property taxes," said Treasurer McDonough. "Any such action as is reported from the 47th ward is undermining the collection of taxes and will not be tolerated."

Among Charity Masquers Some Burglars Also Dance

Denver, Col., May 2.—(AP)—Among the 250 peasant-garbed masqueraders who danced at the Paul T. Mayo home here Saturday for the Katherine Mayo milk fund were some who had another purpose. Police learned today that four or six of those who, disguised as Bavarian peasants, frolicked with the social elite took away valuable vases, table ornaments, a horse show trophy and an expensive bag.

HUGE DYNAMITE THEFT BARED AS BLAST OCCURS

Teamsters Throw Off Gang Rule.

Shortly after police had revealed that 500 pounds of dynamite had been stolen and was probably in the hands of labor racketeers the seventh bomb in two days was exploded early today in the rear of a west side dairy products company. Although only small damage was done, detectives began an investigation on the theory that the blast was a continuation of the six other bombings which were obviously of labor origin.

The newest attack occurred at the rear of the Galloway-West Company, Inc., 1529-39 West Van Buren street, makers of condensed milk and an affiliate of the Borden Farm Products company. A door was smashed and windows in several nearby rooming houses shattered. Sixty-five Borden company trucks stored in the building garage were unharmed. Joseph Lembeck, 1633 Mohawk street, the watchman, said he saw no one near the plant before the explosion.

Deny Labor Difficulties.

Frank Frandsen, 6203 North Artesian avenue, sales manager for the Galloway-West company, told police the Borden company was 100 per cent unionized and had no labor difficulties. The condensing company moved into the Van Buren street plant only two days ago from 2825 Lexington street, he said.

The revelation of the theft of the dynamite and the new bombing were the latest developments in a tumultuous forty-eight hours involving a fight for control of the outlaw Chicago Teamsters' union. Earlier in the day, gangland's open rule of the union was threatened by the revolt of ten leaders of the coal drivers and hikers' union who forcibly took charge of the headquarters, turned out two officers and announced plans to join the Federation of Labor.

Stolen from Lemont Magazine.

The stolen explosives, packaged in 1,000 sticks weighing half a pound each, were stolen over the week-end from the magazine of the Burton Explosive company at Lemont, in southwestern Cook county, Chief of Detectives Schoemaker disclosed. He expressed belief that part of the loot went into the five bombs which rocked downtown Chicago early Monday and into the one which terrorized a teamster union meeting in Lake Forest Monday night.

William Delantey, official of the explosive company, notified the chief of the dynamite theft. Detectives were sent to the plant, where they found a fourteen inch hole cut through the zinc and wood wall of the magazine through which the loot had been removed. The thieves also hauled away 2,200 feet of fuse, but got no percussion caps. The percussion caps were not in stock, the detectives were told.

Search for Fingerprints.

Part of the zinc inner sheath of the magazine was cut away and brought to the detective bureau on the slim chance that the thieves might have left fingerprints thereon. Close search of the magazine premises turned up no cards, foot or tire prints, nor other clews.

The bloodless revolution in the teamster headquarters was led by George Roy Baker, charter member of the coal drivers' local. Unanimously elected president of the local at a police supervised meeting two years ago, he had been trying since to get the courts to confirm his title.

Prior to their march on headquarters at 1 p. m., Baker, his attorney, Charles Schreiber, and the others on the slate elected at the 1931 election had conferred with Prosecutor Mal Coghlan and Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's office.

They explained that, following the 1931 election, John Sheridan, general secretary of the union, had procured an injunction from Superior Judge William J. Lindsay restraining Baker from taking office in the local or replacing Jack Sheridan Jr., whom his father had put in as president of the local. After twenty-one months, they added, the Appellate court had voided the injunction last December.

Walk In Unarmed.

Coghlan and Capt. Gilbert heard the plan of invasion through and advised Baker to go ahead, providing he did not break the law. Informed that Murray [Hump] Humphries and William [Klondike] O'Donnell, two of Sheridan's main supporters, were taking the rest cure at Hot Springs, Ark., Baker and his men went unarmed. They found Sheridan Jr. and the union treasurer, Milton Booth Jr., in charge at headquarters.

"You're out, Jack," Baker shouted to young Sheridan. "You've cleaned out the sick benefit fund to keep your mobsters on the pay roll and you're all caught up. Get your hat and coat. You're on your way."

Sheridan tried to remonstrate, but Baker thumbed him toward the door. Beckoning to his treasurer, Booth, Sheridan took his hat from a peg and left, vowing with Booth to come back. Within ten minutes the pair returned.

They had enlisted a police squad at the nearby Maxwell station. The policemen entered alone, parleyed a few minutes with Baker, and rejoined Sheridan and Booth outside.

"Possession is nine points of the law," the squad men informed Sheridan. "Baker and his men seem to have taken possession peacefully. As long as Judge Lindsay's injunction was in force you had a right to police help in staying in. Now that the injunction has been dissolved you seem to be out of luck."

Muttering imprecations of a "frame-up," young Sheridan caught a cab and took his troubles to his father in his downtown office in the City State bank building. Sheridan Sr. was reported to have called a conference of his legal staff, comprising Attorneys Everett Jennings, W. W. Smith, and Milton Smith, to determine their next move.

Can't Reach Fur Sammons.

It was reported that he also telephoned Humphries and O'Donnell at Hot Springs, but was unable to reach another of his allies, James [Fur] Sammons, machine gun marksman, whom Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of Woodstock withdrew from a life sentence in Joliet prison nine months ago and who has since been free on Judge Shurtleff's writ of habeas corpus. A state Supreme court ruling on the legality of the writ is expected shortly, it was said, pending which Sammons has been observing the operation of the Cuban regulars and revolutionists in Havana.

Another of Sheridan's allies, Willie (Three Fingered Jack) White, was before Judge James F. Fardy in Criminal court on a gun toting charge and could not respond. W. W. Smith was there to represent him and won a continuance to May 15 over objection of Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Daugherty.

White Walks Out of Court.

Then, notwithstanding an order from Chief of Detectives Schoemaker to arrest White, O'Donnell, and Humphries on sight, the defendant walked out of court under the eyes of a dozen policemen, including Lieut. Frank Johnson of the state's attorney's staff.

"I hadn't heard about the order," Lieut. Johnson said. "Anyway, there'd be no point in pinching White. He never talks when he is in custody."

Call Ratification Meeting.

"We're calling a special meeting of the membership next week to ratify the change," Baker said. "From the condition of the sick benefit fund, the ratification ought to be unanimous. Later we'll ask for a charter in the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and affiliation with the American and the Chicago Federations of Labor."

Sensing hostility from officials of the ice wagon drivers, ash wagon drivers, and other locals under Sheridan's wing, Baker and his forces last night decided to move and establish headquarters elsewhere. While they were loading records into cars, Attorney Schreiber received notice from one of Sheridan's legal staff, Attorney James Nicholas Lorenz, that he would go before Judge Lindsay this morning asking renewal of the injunction the Appellate court had dismissed.

"We've beat them before and we can beat them again," Attorney Schreiber said.

Going through Sheridan's desk, the new officers found an old bank book disclosing that the union had $110,000 on deposit in the Reliance State bank when that institution closed and was now carrying an account with the Northern Trust company.

Also discovered was a certificate for a new incorporation of the teamsters' union, dated July 1, 1929, and bearing the names of George [Red] Barker, Capone desperado, now dead, and Daniel Cain, Barker's brother-in-law and former president of the union. Baker said the papers would be held as evidence for the state's attorney in the event of a grand jury investigation of union racketeering.

With no more than 50 sticks used in the bombs planted Monday night at the Willett Teaming company, Illinois Bell Telephone company, Hibbard-Spencer-Bartlett company, Sprague, Warner company, and the Marshall Field & Co. cap and uniform plant, Chief Schoemaker regarded the great bulk of powder presumed to be in the gangsters' hands as a menace.

Lake County Prosecutor Busy.

Prompt stamping out of racketeering among Lake county teamsters was promised by State's Attorney Charles Mason at Waukegan yesterday after questioning William A. Metzger, business agent of the Lake county local of the International Teamsters' brotherhood, whose Lake Forest home was bombed during a basement meeting of his executive committee Monday night.

Prosecutor Mason announced he would summon leaders of the county local affiliated with the Sheridan group today. Among those to be questioned, he said, will be James G. Farmer of Maywood, president of the Sheridan affiliate, and Fred Waldt and Benjamin Hughes, business agents. He declared he would also call in contractors who, Metzger charged, had discriminated against his union, either through fear of or in collusion with the Sheridan crowd.

During the day Metzger conferred in Chicago with Daniel J. Tobin, president of the international brotherhood, and Steve Sumner, secretary of the milk wagon drivers' affiliate of the international, and others. Metzger said he pledged continued allegiance to the international, and the brotherhood leaders promised him full support in turn.

Metzger was questioned about the bombing two weeks ago of $25,000 worth of road machinery of the Waukegan Construction company, working on State Highway 59A in western Lake county. The Waukegan firm has been employing members of the Sheridan local. Metzger denied that his union had any knowledge of the bombing.

New York Business Man Loses $560 to Bandits

Sam Alvin, 44 years old, president of Elder's, Inc., 239 West 39th street, New York City, makers of women's wear, was robbed of $560 last night by three bandits while he was in the company of a young woman. The robbery occurred in the hallway of the home of Miss Estelle Robinson, 28 years old, 2611 North Sawyer avenue. Alvin had visited her father, Samuel Robinson, a friend, and was taking Miss Robinson out when the robbers appeared.

TWO THIEVES SENT TO CELLS.

Stanley Becker, 20 years old, 1224 Ohio street, and Joseph Kubo, 19, of 650 North Morgan street, who were arrested while taking plumbing and wiring from a vacant building at 218 West Erie street, were sentenced to four months in the Bridewell yesterday.

NINE INDICTED IN COLLAPSE OF CITIZENS' BANK

President Charged with $37,109 Embezzlement.

True bills were reported to have been voted by the grand jury yesterday against nine officials of the defunct Citizens' State bank, 3228 Lincoln avenue, which closed May 25, 1932, with an estimated loss to depositors of $2,000,000.

Charges contained in the true bills are embezzlement, receiving deposits while the bank was insolvent, making false reports to the state auditor and conspiracy. Seven true bills, in which various officials are named, charge that they juggled the accounts of the bank prior to its closing.

Accuse 2 of Embezzlement.

The embezzlement true bills are directed against John G. Squires, president of the bank, who is accused of diverting $37,109 of bank funds to his own use, and Nicholas L. Schank, cashier, who is charged with taking $5,500. Assistant State's Attorneys Wilbert Crowley and William J. Touhy said that these and other illegal acts by the officers were responsible for the huge loss to depositors.

Other officers named in the true bills are:

Sale of Worthless Notes.

Prosecutors Touhy and Crowley said that at the trial they will show that the defendants defrauded depositors by selling worthless notes and securities to the bank a short time before it closed.

Two true bills charge that Squires, MacFadden, Bernahl, Schank, Landry, and Cooper allowed deposits to be taken into the bank when they knew the institution was insolvent. In one case, in which J. H. Barnett, 3546 North Oakley avenue, is complainant, it is charged that the bank accepted a deposit of $100 from him, at the same time refusing to honor his personal check.

The other insolvency true bill is based on the complaint of Mrs. Mollie Grote, 2924 Giddings street, who deposited $333 the day before the bank closed. This was the same day Barnett made his deposit.

Calls Reports False.

Two call reports made to the state auditor prior to the closing were false, according to the charges made in two other true bills, which name Squires, Gondolf, Schick, and Schank. The reports for the periods ending June 30, 1931, and Dec. 31, 1931, did not show the true financial condition of the bank, the prosecutors said.

TWO WOMEN BATTLE OUTSIDE COURTROOM AT KIDNAPING TRIAL

Peoria, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—The trial of eight alleged kidnapers under the new federal law enacted as an aftermath of the Lindbergh case was enlivened here today by a fight between the wife of the government's star witness and the sister of one of the defendants.

During a recess in the cross-examination of Fred Defilippi of Spring Valley Mrs. Defilippi and Miss Mary Varaslona, sister of Joe Varaslona, a defendant, clashed in the courtroom corridor when Mrs. Defilippi, who had listened to her husband on the witness stand tell of his experiences at the hands of the kidnapers, called Miss Varaslona a "kidnaper" and "wop."

Clinging to his story of his abduction by the group of alleged kidnapers Defilippi, of Spring Valley, withstood the questioning of counsel for the defendants.

A. N. TIFFANY, G. O. P. LEADER, KILLED BY TRAIN

Albert N. Tiffany, former member of the Illinois board of pardons and paroles and long a leading figure in Republican politics in Lake county, was struck and killed by a fast North Shore electric train at the Brookside crossing in Waukegan late last night.

Rain was falling at the time, and Mr. Tiffany hurried across the tracks with his head down, according to Motorman William Rydell. Mr. Tiffany was on his way to the home of his son, Charles, at 514 North Butrick street, nearby, with whom he lived.

Mr. Tiffany was 71 years old. Appointed to the pardon board by Former Gov. Emmerson, he retired from the board only a few weeks ago. He was a member of the Lake County Republican central committee for the last 25 years, and a member of the executive council until recently. He was a former chairman and member of the Lake county board of supervisors. Twenty years ago he served in the state senate, representing the 8th district.

Surviving Mr. Tiffany are three sons and five daughters. They are Charles, Albert, Homer, Susan, Mary, and Deede Tiffany, Mrs. Hazel Sibley, and Mrs. Olive Burke.

SONSTEBY SAYS HE WILL ACCEPT PAY REDUCTION

Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court declared yesterday that he would accept a reduction of four days' pay a month as provided by the city council pending the passage of the 1933 city budget. The pay rolls for his office, he said, have been based on the four days' reduction that was in force during 1932.

"As for the thirty-six judges of the court," said Judge Sonsteby, "their salaries are fixed by statute and can be reduced only by their own individual action."

REBELS CAPTURE ARMY POST IN CUBA, IS REPORT

BULLETIN.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, May 2.—(AP)—Two soldiers died and several were wounded in a brush with rebels near San Luis, Oriente province, tonight.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, May 2.—It is reported on good authority that Lieut. Aristides Aguero of the Cuban air service, one of the pilots sent to Oriente province Saturday to quell the rebellion there, was shot down from ambush yesterday and his plane destroyed by fire. Air force officials refuse to confirm or deny the report.

It is understood that Cuartel Monteagudo, a small military post in Santa Clara province, has been captured by rebels, and 30 soldiers were taken prisoner. It is impossible to communicate with the post, and officials are silent. The reported killing of thirty persons in Jiguani, Oriente, is unfounded, according to advices from Santiago.

Troops Kill Three Rebels.

HAVANA, May 2.—(AP)—The finding of a body of a rebel who had died of his wounds today raised to fifteen the death toll of four uprisings in Oriente province last Saturday. Three rebels who participated in a raid on the civil guard post at San Luis were surprised and slain by federal troops last night.

A dispatch in today's Heraldo de Cuba said four rebels who figured in the assault at San Luis had surrendered and accused Sergio Carbo, magazine editor now in political exile, of having inspired the Oriente outbreak. Official circles scoffed at the report.

Authorities also denied the story of two 16 year old boys that they witnessed the killing or wounding last midnight of two soldiers and five policemen after the former arrested the city officers.

A telegram received by the government telegraph office tonight said three bandits last night attacked the Santa Clara province estate of Nicholas Hueff, said to be an American.

PICK SEVEN MORE TAX DODGERS FOR RECEIVERSHIPS

1931 Collections Improve Over 1930.

The names of seven more tax delinquent properties against which County Treasurer McDonough plans to proceed under the Skarda act, taking over the properties as receiver and collecting the income to pay back taxes, were disclosed late yesterday. Taxes owed on the seven properties amount to $524,624.

Those in the new list and the 1928, 1929, or 1930 taxes owed on each follow:

Delaware building, 34-40 West Randolph street	25,501
Winthrop Terrace hotel, 5734 Winthrop avenue	20,383
McClurg Building corporation, 218-224 South Wabash avenue	83,372
I. Perlman, 29-35 South Wabash avenue	65,787

The work of selecting the names of large income-producing properties was proceeding slowly yesterday because of the necessity of checking closely to determine the ownership of the properties. The assistance of the assessor and the county recorder was enlisted in an effort to obtain the names of owners of tax delinquent properties who are genuine tax dodgers and who can offer no excuse for delinquency.

File First Suits Today.

Attorney Thomas D. Nash, representing the county treasurer, plans to file the first suits today under the new law. They will be directed against properties named in a list published Monday, which have made no attempt to come to a settlement with the treasurer concerning unpaid taxes. Representatives of three of the properties named in the first list already have conferred with the treasurer and promised to pay $186,000 immediately and the remainder in monthly installments.

Barnet L. Rossett, chairman of the bondholders' committee of Straus Brothers, late yesterday paid $50,000 to the treasurer on 1929, 1930, and 1931 taxes owed on eighty-seven pieces of property in Chicago. He announced that he would pay $100,000 more on 50 similar pieces of property tomorrow. He complimented the county treasurer on his activity in the last few days in enforcing the collection of back taxes.

County Treasurer McDonough expressed himself as greatly encouraged at the increased collection of taxes following publicity given to his intention to proceed under the Skarda act. He pointed out that the collection of 1931 real estate taxes now shows a better percentage than the 1930 collections as of the respective penalty dates.

Paying by Installments.

The 1931 collection amounts to $60,837,000 or 33.54 per cent of the total taxes extended, he pointed out. This is actually equivalent to 65 per cent, he said, because the 1931 realty taxes are being collected for the first time in two installments. The second is not due until Sept. 1.

The 1930 realty tax collection up to the penalty date was $106,783,000, he declared, or 48.22 per cent of the total tax extension.

The Skarda act went into effect April 26. Treasurer McDonough presented the following table of tax collections on similar days for 1930 and 1931 to show the beneficial effect of the law:

April 26	$ 27,843	$155,815
April 27	28,093	176,932
April 28	116,713	183,440
April 29 and May 1	176,045	512,272

The 1931 personal property tax deadline ended at Monday midnight. Approximately $15,500,000 was paid in personalty taxes before the deadline, but a huge amount of mail is yet to be opened. Country town collectors have not yet reported their collections.

Turns Over Tax Money.

The county treasurer yesterday turned over $10,550,000 in tax collections to the major local governments. Of this amount, $6,000,000 went to the city and schools, $2,500,000 to the county, and the remainder to the various park districts, the sanitary district, and forest preserves.

A delegation of school teachers, headed by John Fewkes, Tilden Technical High school teacher, called upon the county treasurer yesterday and thanked him for his coöperation in helping them towards payment of salaries by insisting upon the collection of back taxes.

They also asked for a list of large delinquent tax properties, declaring that they planned to send delegations to each owner and ask him to pay up his back taxes.

TAX DELAYS PUT STOP TO $50,000 OAKWOOD BEACH

Plans for a new $50,000 beach at Oakwood boulevard and the outer drive were postponed indefinitely at a meeting of the south park board yesterday forenoon. Mayor Kelly, who is also president of the board, presided.

The board's action was taken because of delays in tax receipts. Several other beach projects will be commassociation.

The proposed Oakwood boulevard beach was to have been completed in time for the opening of A Century of Progress. Considerable opposition to the beach developed and a mass meeting of property owners was called for last night at the Green Gables hotel by the Oakland Business Men's association.

Among other business yesterday, the park board approved the street car line extension in East Cermak road.

EDUCATORS, OFFICIALS DEBATE WAYS TO GET MORE SCHOOL MONEY

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—Tax problems and their relation to education were discussed for hours at a conference in Springfield today, but without any immediate decision on pending proposals for obtaining additional school revenues. A resolutions committee which was appointed to consider a "platform" for the conference asked for further time to complete its work.

The committee consists of William Bogan, superintendent of Chicago schools; John C. Watson, representing the farm bureaus; Mrs. Holland Flagler, president of the Illinois congress of parents and teachers; Philip Lovejoy, representing civic organizations; Mrs. Laura Hughes Lunde of the Illinois League of Woman Voters; C. P. McClelland, president of MacMurray college, Jacksonville; Walter W. Williams, Benton, representing chambers of commerce; Robert C. Moore, secretary of the Illinois Teachers' association, and Scott W. Lucas and S. P. Leland of the Illinois tax commission.

Gov. Horner addressed the conference and suggested that he would welcome practical suggestions for dealing with the revenue subject.

MAYOR TO FILL 5 SCHOOL POSTS, GAINING CONTROL

Mayor Kelly announced yesterday that he expects to appoint five school trustees at the next session of the city council, May 10. He has begun a study of the qualifications of several men and women, but has declined to reveal the names of those whom he has under consideration.

"I do not know yet who the new school board members will be," said the mayor, "but I do know the character of men that I want to serve the schools. I want practical men who will be able to meet the problems that arise in the administration of the school system and who have knowledge of the requirements demanded by the people."

If the trustees are named and confirmed at the next council meeting, control of the board of education will pass into the hands of the Democratic administration, which will have nine of the eleven members.

PUSH BILL FOR OUSTING SCHOOL BOARD LAWYER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—Thomas V. Sullivan, Republican attorney for the Chicago board of education whom Democrats call a "carpetbagger" brought to Chicago to ballyhoo a former Republican city administration, can be removed from office if a bill pending in the legislature is passed. His term of four years still has several months to run.

Applying both to the office of school attorney and that of business manager—the latter post now being held by Howard P. Savage, former national commander of the American Legion—the bill is now being considered in both houses. In the senate is was sponsored by Francis J. Loughran [Dem., Chicago]. In the house Representative Joseph L. Rategan [Dem., Chicago] is pushing it.

Mr. Rategan is expected to ask advancement to third reading tomorrow. Senator Loughran succeeded in having the measure approved by the committee on corporations and municipalities today and it will probably be sent to second reading tomorrow.

Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton of Chicago, who drew the bill and is here this week in the interests of it and other legislation, said it was sponsored by the present city administration. Under the present Otis law such removal can only follow trial before the board.

"In other words," Mr. Sexton said, "the Otis law, which was designed to do away with politics in the schools, has been used as a means of playing politics. The new bill will enable an incoming administration to place officers in these positions who will be in harmony with the new administration and not working against it, as is often the case under the present law."

CHICAGO BARGES START MAY 31 TO NEW ORLEANS

St. Louis, Mo., May 2.—(AP)—Barge service from Chicago to New Orleans, including the use of the recently completed Illinois waterway, will be started May 31 by the Federal Barge lines, J. P. Higgins, traffic manager, announced here today.

Officials of the St. Louis chamber of commerce also announced that President Roosevelt and Secretary of War Dern will be invited to St. Louis to attend a celebration of the event.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO GUARD PENSIONS WHEN TEACHERS QUIT

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—Unpaid Chicago school teachers will be permitted to quit their jobs when their pay is 90 days in arrears, without loss of tenure rights, if a bill passed by the house today obtains senate approval and Gov. Horner's signature.

Pushed by Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago], at the request of teachers' organizations both downstate and in Cook county, the measure carries an emergency clause and would become immediately effective if approved.

The bill provides that in case the Chicago board of education fails to pay wages or salaries of its teachers and other employés for 90 days, in money or warrants redeemable upon demand without discount, the teacher or employé may cease to perform the duties of his position without affecting his status or tenure.

It would be mandatory, however, for the teacher to return to work within ten days after the salary had been paid in full.

Mr. Adamowski explained that some teachers have been offered other jobs but could not accept them without loss of rights. The vote on the bill was 110 to 25.

NINETEEN TURK RELIGIOUS REBELS ESCAPE HANGING

ISTANBUL, Turkey, May 2.—(AP)—A sentence of hanging which was generally expected for 19 Brusa clergymen and muezzins who revolted on Feb. 4 against the government's program of nationalizing Moslem prayers, will instead be one or two years at hard labor in prison. The decision of the Tchorum courts in this case, which included also the acquittal of four defendants, appears to indicate that the Turkish government is becoming more lenient toward religious sentiment of the Moslems.

TAYLOR ORDERS $10,000,000 CUT IN SCHOOL COSTS

Economy Program Sent to Department Heads.

Orville J. Taylor, president of the board of education, drafted a 16 point economy program yesterday and sent it to the school department heads with instructions that it be applied to the 1933 budget. If the program is adopted by the board and carried out in its entirety it is estimated that school operating costs would be slashed $10,000,000 on a yearly basis. Certain educational frills are doomed, or greatly reduced, by Mr. Taylor's program.

The economy program has been in the air for some time, but the president's action is the first step in reducing the 1933 budget, which calls for the spending of $71,549,701. The fact that the school board may reasonably expect to collect only 65 per cent of the 1933 tax levies prompted the economy move. If the board decides to stay within its expected income the $71,549,701 budget will have to be cut by $19,909,556.

Plan Early School Closing.

Mr. Taylor requested figures from Supt. William J. Bogan and Howard P. Savage, business manager of the system, on the exact savings which his program will effect. The closing of several schools entirely, closing of all schools two weeks early in June and delaying their opening two weeks in September and the lopping off of high supervisory heads in the educational department are among the important points in the program.

The schools, which it is proposed to close entirely, are the Crane and Normal colleges, Parental school and all continuation schools. Closing the whole system two weeks early and opening two weeks late would save approximately $4,000,000. These proposed economies comprise the first two points in the program.

Defer Work on Buildings.

The 14 other major steps are:

1. New buildings—defer completion of Steinmetz, Lane and Senn. [School budget for 1933 appropriates $2,000,000 for this purpose.]

2. High school cafeterias—replace present household arts teachers with lunch room managers at much smaller salaries.

3. Permanent improvements—make substantial reductions.

4. Repair appropriations — to be scaled down with a corresponding cut in the bureau of repairs.

5. Architect's department — in the event the board makes substantial reductions in the repair department, and also defers the completion of the three high school buildings, "it would seem in order that further and substantial reductions should be made in this department," says Mr. Taylor's communication.

6. Reduce appropriations for supplies throughout the system.

7. Operation of schools—Take up legality of returning to former contract system, or paying on lump sum basis for engineering and janitor work at each school. [Estimated saving $1,800,000.]

8. District superintendents—"It has occurred to me," says the Taylor order, "that the principals of junior high schools might act in a supervisory capacity over the contributing elementary schools." [There are ten district superintendents with a basic salary of $6,500 each.]

9. Reduce number of assistant superintendents, supervisors and special teachers in all lines. [The basic salaries of an assistant superintendent is $10,000.]

10. Portables—A substantial reduction in this expense should be made.

11. Penny lunch rooms—Confine operation only to districts where need is imminent.

Bathroom service—Same plan as penny lunch service.

13. Figures on reductions in evening schools and public libary service.

14. Closing down entire school system in summer and use of watchmen on school property in lieu of engineers and janitors.

Savage Starts Work.

When the economy orders reached Mr. Savage he called all bureau heads of the business department into conference and instructed them to begin estimating the savings.

"Mr. Taylor's orders will be followed to the letter," said Mr. Savage. "While some of the measures seem drastic, it is apparent that reductions must be made if the school system is to survive."

Mr. Bogan, accompanied by other educators, was in Springfield during the day conferring with Gov. Horner.

Later in the day Mr. Taylor left the city on a business trip. He asked that the figures be ready for him upon his return next Monday. The board is expected to take action on the program at its meeting next Wednesday.

Turkey Postpones Ban Against Alien Workers

ISTANBUL, Turkey, May 2.—(AP)—The Turkish government decided today to delay for two years application of a law scheduled to become effective June 16 reserving many trades and professions to Turkish citizens. About 10,000 foreigners would have been affected.

GAIN $1,750,000 TOWARD NEW PAY DAY FOR SCHOOLS

Hopes for an early pay day for the 14,000 teachers and 4,000 other employés of the school system appeared brighter yesterday with the sale of 1932 tax anticipation warrants to the extent of $1,000,000 by the committee headed by Attorney Henry P. Chandler. In addition, Otto F. Aken, county superintendent of schools, received $750,000 from the state distributive fund for the Chicago schools.

Mr. Chandler expressed the hope that an additional $2,000,000 worth of warrants would be sold by Friday. With the money from the state the board of education will then have sufficient funds to cover the pay roll of $3,400,000 owing to school employés for last September. The telephone company took the bulk of the warrants in yesterday's transaction.

The executive committee for the warrant sales drive conducted by Mr. Chandler was announced as follows:

Fred W. Sargent, president Chicago and North Western railway; D. A. Crawford, president of the Pullman company; Joseph M. Cudahy of the Cudahy Packing company; Milton S. Flosheim, chairman of the board, Florsheim Shoe company; F. O. Hale, president Illinois Bell Telephone company; Joseph H. King, president National Regulator company; Albert A. Sprague, receiver for the Rapid Transit company, and John P. Wilson, attorney.

HOUSE ASSURES PASSAGE FOR INFLATION BILL

Only Eight Democrats Bolt Majority.

Washington, D. C., May 2.—(AP)—The powerful Democratic majority battered down two desperate Republican attempts to block house consideration today of the administration's farm relief-inflation bill and prepared to approve the currency expansion section tomorrow before sending the legislation to conference.

Overwhelming approval of procedure for consideration of the measure assured adoption of the inflation section. The farm bill to wihch it is attached then will be sent to conference.

Snell Proposal Defeated.

The first important test on the inflation provision came after the Democratic leadership had been blocked again by Representative Snell of New York, Republican leader, in an attempt to get unanimous consent to debate the proposal for six hours and then vote on the inflation issue. The Democrats then offered and obtained overwhelming adoption of a resolution to confine debate to five hours.

After an hour of debate, in which Republicans described the inflation proposition as dangerous legislation, making President Roosevelt a dictator, the resolution was adopted, 261 to 113, on a record vote. The strength displayed by the administration followers in this vote made certain adoption of the currency expansion amendment.

Eight Democrats, Claiborne, Missouri; Dunn, Pennsylvania; Hoeppele, California; Howard, Nebraska; Huddleston, Alabama; Lambeth, North Carolina; Black and Somers of New York, voted against the resolution. Three Republicans, Peavey, Wisconsin; Christianson, Minnesota, and Wolverton, New Jersey, voted with the majority.

Attacks Action by Senate.

Making a surprise attack, the Republicans, led by Representative Treadway, Massachusetts, presented a resolution contending the senate exceeded its constitutional authority in originating the inflation rider. He said that under the constitution all revenue and appropriation measures must be initiated in the house. Representative Byrns of Tennessee, Democratic leader, interrupting Treadway's argument, moved to table the resolution. Byrns' motion was adopted 170 to 51 by a standing vote. Republican attempts to force a roll call were overruled by Speaker Rainey.

Chairman Steagall [Dem., Ala.] of the banking committee, said "there is no basis for claims that we will embark on a wild scheme of inflation, for this bill will not reach beyond the country's needs."

Calls Rule Liberal.

Chairman Pou [Dem., N. C.], of the rules committee, dean of the house, said the "procedure that the rules committee provided allows the most ample time for discussion of a senate amendment of any "in my 32 years of experience in the house."

Chairman Somers [Dem., N. Y.] of the coinage committee asked Pou if he did not "think it would be fair to give an opportunity to express opinions and make some amendments to the bill."

"I do not," Pou said. "I think it is a matter that should be voted up or down as a whole."

Representative Reedy [Rep., Me.] accused the Democrats of "setting the stage for a dictatorship," adding "I am opposed to the executive branch taking over the legislative duties of congress as this bill provides."

Asserting that the inflation amendment "is the most amazing, daring and dangerous piece of legislation offered to the American people," Representative Fish [Rep., N. Y.] said it emanated from "Profs. Moley and Tugwell, Mordecai Ezkiel, and possibly Bullit. Upon their advice the whole financial fabric of our government is to be overturned—our traditional policy discarded, our currency debased."

Representative O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.] retorted:

"There is one thing about the professors. This bill was not written in Pittsburgh, the home of the Mellons, or in Wall street, by the 'special interests' trusts' as the Republican bills have been written."

Says Glass Has Bolted.

"Senator Glass from Virginia says he has not broken with the President but that the President has broken with him," Snell added. "I leave that your own conclusions."

Representative Byrns' Democratic leader, asked: "Is it sound currency when the gold dollar is worth 177 cents?"

Representative McFadden [Rep., Pa.], who demanded the impeachment of President Hoover because of the foreign debts moratorium, predicted that any one voting to permit the President to negotiate and take silver on foreign debts "will be defeated in the next elections."

"Is the gentleman laying the ground to impeach the present President of the United States?" asked O'Connor [Dem., N. Y.].

"If the present President violates the constitution this congress may take such action," McFadden replied "If you vote for this bill you do so in violation of your constitutional oath of office."

BOND INFLATION SIMILAR TO WAR TIME EXPANSION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 2.—[Special.]—Inflation which the administration hopes to produce through public works expenditures and federal reserve open market operations is roughly comparable in size to the inflation which was necessary to pay America's way through the war and the post-war period, official records showed today.

Federal reserve banks during the war expanded their outstanding loans by 2 billion 700 million dollars, largely on the basis of new government securities.

The present open market inflation program calls for the banks to buy 3 billion dollars' worth of government offerings.

Between the middle of 1917 and October, 1920, when they reached the peak, the discounts of the reserve banks, representing their loans to commercial banks, increased from 134 million dollars to 2 billion 785 million dollars. This was their all-time high record. Now they total only 385 million dollars.

Banks and individuals were urged to buy wartime issues with the assurance that could get loans on them treasury officials recalled today. The loans were the device for pumping money out of the banks into circulation.

Now the treasury plans to issue public works bonds which, instead of furnishing the basis for reserve bank loans, will be bought directly by the reserve banks. Thus actual purchases will replace loans as a device for getting idle money from the reserve banks out into circulation.

NOBODY KNOWS WHO'S JUDGE IN BERWYN COURT

Police Magistrate John H. Ehardt of Berwyn walked into his courtroom yesterday and found Justice of the Peace Charles Seeman seated in the judicial seat directing the business of the day. The police magistrate announced that Justice Seeman had no authority.

"If you are not quiet," Justice Seeman said, "I will hold you in contempt of court."

Magistrate Ehardt charged out of court that the move against him grew out of his suing Frank J. Broucek, commissioner of public works, charging slander. City Attorney John Hruby denied the charge and said that Mayor Frank Novotny had decided to allow justices of the peace to alternate on the bench of the police court with Magistrate Ehardt.

TAFT'S SON FINDS CHRISTIANITY, SOCIALISM CLASH

Debates Before National Episcopal Congress.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

It is socialism and not the profit motive in trade and industry which is inconsistent with Christian principles, Charles P. Taft II. contended last night in a debate with the Rev. Charles Nevin Sayre of New York, editor of the Socialist journal, the World Tomorrow. The debate was the first of a series on religious subjects held at St. Luke's procathedral, Evanston, during the next three days under the auspices of the national congress of the Episcopal church.

The son of William Howard Taft, who is a Cincinnati lawyer, demolished the Socialist charge that profit taking as a motive is inconsistent with Christian principles by pointing out that nowhere in the Bible is the motive of profit making, in itself, condemned. He further asserted that Socialist doctrines are more menacing to Christian principles than any other to be heard today.

In answer to the Socialist charge that greed for profits is the chief cause of war, Mr. Taft declared that wars "grow in these days from half-educated mass public opinion, asserting its power upon representatives who in nearly every instance have abdicated supinely their representative capacities."

The Rev. Mr. Sayre offered the stock argument heard among Socialists and communists that workmen should come first and that no businesses now exist primarily for the purpose of ministering to the weal of human beings, but rather for the purpose of making money.

Tonight the congress will hear a debate between Bishop William Scarlett of Missouri and Bishop Irving Peak Johnson of Colorado on the subject of "Intercommunion Between Churches." Bishop Scarlett will defend his action recently in inviting a Methodist minister to celebrate holy communion in the St. Louis Episcopal cathedral.

AMERICANS ABROAD BEGIN TO RUSH HOME AS DOLLAR DECLINES

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, May 2.—Ten Atlantic liners will leave French ports this week for New York and all of them will have more passengers aboard than they have carried on west bound sailings during the early spring season for the last three or four years.

The only explanation the shipping offices can give is the anxiety felt by Americans abroad over the fall of the dollar on exchange.

Although they were paying only 21½ francs for the dollar today, as against a market exchange rate of 21.78, the booking offices of all steamship companies here were accepting fares in dollars at unchanged tariffs from clients who presented travelers' checks, letters of credit, or American currency. Americans find themselves in an awkward predicament in cashing dollar salary checks. Those who failed to do so last Friday found themselves considerably worse off by Monday.

FREEDOM PLEA FOR 2 YOUTHS ANGERS JUDGE

Judge John Gutknecht yesterday branded as "a hell of a lot of nerve" a telegraphic demand made on him in the Boys' court by the Civil Liberties union and the International Labor defense. The organizations had insisted on the immediate discharge of two youths arrested during a demonstration in behalf of Tom Mooney.

The youths, Val Kohler, 19 years old, and Clarence Peterson, 20, both of Bellingham, Wash., were released. Judge Gutknecht pointing out that he did not desire to punish them just to make examples of the organizations. They had been seized handcuffed together during a loop parade Saturday. Their lawyer, Jacob Scher, representing the two organizations, admitted the handcuffing was a publicity stunt. Then he handed to Judge Gutknecht the telegram.

"They have a hell of a lot of nerve writing that," asserted Judge Gutknecht. "You use damn poor psychology. And I might add, I'm interested in the freeing of Tom Mooney."

PERU REVEALS TERRORIST PLOT; JAILS SUSPECTS

LIMA, Peru, May 2.—(AP)—The assassination of President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro on Sunday was described in an official statement today as part of a widespread terrorist plan, details of which are being investigated by the interior ministry.

The real name of the man who attacked the president and who was himself slain by soldiers was given by the ministry as Abelardo Mendoza Leiva, who was registered in the social files as an active Aprista [Socialistic] communist.

The arrest of several persons who made important confessions, a police statement said, permitted authorities "to state that the slayer of President Sanchez Cerro acted in accordance with a terrorist plan," the key to which lay in the admissions of one of the prisoners who was seized while he was fleeing from the scene of the killing with a pistol in his hand.

Empty Your Gall Bladder

And You'll Feel Like a Billion Dollars!

Sleepless nights, dog-tired days, headaches, pains in all parts of the body—indigestion—gas. Do you suffer from one or all?

And have you tried every medicine under the sun, only to find yourself back where you started?

No wonder, for you, like thousands of others have probably been treating yourself for everything but the right thing. Get at the unsuspected cause—your gall bladder. If sluggish, it won't pour into your small intestines the most important digestive juice necessary for neutralising gastric acid, quickening digestion and disinfecting the intestinal tract. If this juice doesn't flow freely, then your food sours, putrifies, stomach becomes filled with gas and acidity.

From Germany's greatest chemists comes a simple, pleasant means to make this digestive juice flow freely, and put you on the sunny side of life. Magnesia Oxoids, little white tablets that release pure oxygen. This amazing oxygen—purer than the air you breathe—plus magnesia, gently stimulates the gall bladder, neutralizes burning acidity and sweeps that poison-packed bowel clean.

Take two Oxoids after each meal—and before retiring—drink plenty of water—put your gall bladder to work—and you'll jump out of your skin for joy. Such new health! Such robust vigor! Get Magnesia Oxoids today from your druggist.—Advertisement.

MRS. BOOLE HERE, BUT CAN'T RECALL THAT MR. PEGLER

She's Tasted Real Beer, but Never 3.2.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Mrs. Ella Boole of New York, president of the National W. C. T. U., yesterday in an interview in the Evanston headquarters of the association, at 1730 Chicago avenue, defined her position on the new 3.2 beer.

Commenting on a story by Westbrook Pegler, correspondent for THE TRIBUNE, which appeared on April 10, in which he suggested that she "step up to the bar and drink a few of those nonintoxicating beers" now that they were legal, Mrs. Boole said:

"I have received requests from many, many persons urging me to answer Mr. Pegler," she said. "I want to say that it provoked a great deal of indignation. But why should I answer Mr. Pegler? I don't even want to use his name except to say that that story was simply a vehicle for wet propaganda—yes, wet propaganda.

Ah! Pegler, He's Just a Name.

"As a matter of fact, I don't recall Mr. Pegler," Mrs. Boole said. "He says he interviewed me just before prohibition. Perhaps he did. But I don't recall him."

Mrs. Boole, after saying she would spend a week here and in Evanston making plans for the annual convention of the W. C. T. U., to be in Milwaukee June 30-July 3, reread Mr. Pegler's story.

"His reasoning is fallacious," she said. "Mr. Pegler does not distinguish between a prohibitive law prohibiting an evil, and a permissive law. The permissive law declares 3.2 beer outside the prohibition law—of course, it is intoxicating actually—but it does not say I have to drink beer. I can be a good citizen without buying beer to produce government revenue. I don't believe the government should derive any revenue from taxing alcohol."

She's Tasted Beer.

Mrs. Boole said she had not even tasted the new beer. She was then asked if she had ever tasted beer.

"O, yes, I have tasted it, years ago," she replied. "I didn't really drink it; just tasted it. But it was never served in my home."

Asked if it had any intoxicating effect, she said it had not.

"I don't say that one glass of beer is intoxicating," she went on. "It's what that one glass leads to. It contains alcohol, and alcohol is a habit forming drug which, taken in small amounts, creates an appetite for more. That's why we say total abstinence is the only safe rule. For women to drink one glass might not matter—but it's the opportunities contained in that one glass.

"Studies have been made of the effect of beer drinking on the unborn child, and it is very harmful. And the health of nursing mothers is demoralized by beer drinking."

Mrs. Boole continued to re-read Mr. Pegler's story.

It Really Was Coolidge.

"Here," she said quickly, "he says that I said we cannot pick and choose our laws. That was Mr. Coolidge who said that. He said, 'We can't choose which laws we will obey.' Though it's possible I said it, too.

"Here he says: 'So, in the present circumstances it would seem permissible to call on Mrs. Boole herself to be a good sport, step up to the bar and drink a few of those nonintoxicating beers. She need not join in the singing of 'Down Where the Wurzburger Flows,' although by doing so she would indicate that hearty acquiescence in the will of the people which she bespoke for her law at that time.'

"Now isn't that fallacious? Just wet propaganda. I don't see why he can't see that I'm not breaking the law just because I don't drink beer. And I shan't. I shall continue to advise people of the effects of beer, too. For the effects can't be repealed. The worst of it is that people won't be satisfied with beer; they'll want hard liquor."

Mrs. Boole was asked if she considered prohibition a failure.

It Was a Good Idea.

"I still don't say it is lost," she said. "It was an idea. We never expected it to work perfectly. And it still is the law of the land. I can list many accomplishments of prohibition. It lessened poverty. It increased the number of the children in the high schools by millions."

Mrs. Boole said that Mrs. Coolidge and Mrs. Hoover had never found it necessary to serve intoxicating beverages in the White House and that she was sorry to hear that Mrs. Roosevelt intended serving beer just because it was legal.

Mrs. Boole went on to say that she did not want to be a killjoy or a wet blanket.

"I want people to have a good time," she said. "But I want them to have a good time and still keep their senses. Now there is a certain hilarity, a certain beclouding of the brain, produced by beer."

She then suggested, for the use of Mr. Pegler or anybody else who wants a good drink, which does not affect the mentality or produce fallacious reasoning, any one of the "prohibition cocktails," recipes for which the W. C. T. U. publishes.

Grapejuice Is Nice.

"You can have a good time just the same if you serve some nice nonintoxicating fruit drink," she said. "Grapejuice is nice, poured over a little orange ice. Pineapple juice is awfully good in various combinations. And tea, added to fruit juices, makes a most sparkling drink."

One of the booklets of fruit juice drink recipes the W. C. T. U. publishes is made to appeal particularly to sports loving persons. It is entitled: 'Dandy Thinks for Days of Rollicking in Numerous Kinds of Sports." The words are so arranged that, reading the capital initials, they form: "Dandy Thinks for D-R-I-N-K-S.' or, "D.T.'s for D-R-I-N-K-S."

One recipe, for "Flying High," reads: "This is the old standby known by a dozen names in a dozen places. Let's call it 'Flying High.' What is it? A big spoon or two of ice cream in a glass with gingerale poured over."

How Obliging Persons Find Way to Uncle Sam's Pockets

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

(Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.)

Washington, D. C., May 2.—[Special.]—There always will be an element of harmless and useless barflies buzzing around the government, living on $3,000 or $5,000 jobs conferred by politicians who are sorry for them. There also will be an element of small town handshakers incapable of any valuable service, reaping the rewards of pre-election labors on behalf of various sterling statesmen.

This is an accepted condition and, however the public services and the luxurious knick-knacks with which the government was cluttered during the gorgeous and goofy era may be curtailed, house pets of this type will not lose their jobs.

Old Jake never amounted to much back home, but he always handed the boss a lot of laughs and it is pleasant to have him around now that the boss is in Washington. And besides what would the old guy use for eating money and drams at his age and with conditions as bad as they are? And anyway, what is three thousand bucks a year, or five thousand?

Or Eddie is a nice boy and influential in the Y. M. C. A. and church circles of his county, and even if there isn't much that he can do but be nice in his sticky, sanctimonious way, he deserves a job. He represents an element and it makes the element feel that it is represented to keep him in a job. Moreover, he can do no harm because all he has to do is lick stamps, and they have a machine for that.

It would be very foolish to conclude that because the new administration has determined to cut the personnel of the government and reduce the wages of the survivors the old American political custom of paying off campaign debts and keeping the voters in line would be abandoned. That is politics and the statesmen of the present régime would not be where they are at this time if they were not politicians. Nor would they be politicians if they abandoned all thought of succeeding themselves in office, which is what they might as well do the minute they repudiate the traditional obligation of the craft to take care of the boys at public expense.

It takes the tax on a pretty robust income these days to pay a $3,000 or $5,000 salary to one of the boys, but at that I now doubt that the payoff costs the citizens anywhere near as much in the national government as it does in the governments of the states and cities.

The outcry against extravagance during the last two or three years has somehow been taken to mean only extravagance in Washington, and this is not to deny that there was dangerous overloading in the pay rolls. The typically American plan to build a capital which would make Rome look like a collection of shanties along a railroad right of way, and to do it all of a sudden, is an expensive commitment which apparently is destined to be carried through to magnificent completion.

This although there is nothing self-liquidating about a $17,000,000 building, including walnut walls and red leather furniture for the big men, to house the commerce department of a nation whose commerce is negligible. Presumably if work were stopped short on all the new buildings which are in process of construction the departments which are to occupy and perhaps rattle around in them when they are finished could manage to muddle through for a few years more in their present quarters.

Presumably, too, a department chief could suffer along in a plastered room in an ordinary four dollar chair at an eighteen dollar desk and without a dressing room, but just a hat rack for his things. You never know till you try.

In the palatial new buildings, however, the government is getting something for its money. It may be something like a man's buying a yacht on time in the respect that the cost will always run ahead of the need: but, anyway, the buildings will be there.

And they will not be as expensive, dollar for dollar, as some of the local public school buildings and community centers, the city halls, sewers, aqueducts, incinerators, parks, public markets and their equipment, and the streets and highways.

The local politicians do not scare. When New York goes broke and cannot pay the help any more, as happened in Chicago, the help will not blame the politicians who chiseled the money until there wasn't any more to chisel. As in Chicago, they will blame the bankers for refusing to lend the city their depositors' money on bum security, though if the public employés had money they would not lend it on such security themselves.

Bill Now Deals with Carrying of Mails.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 2.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt's request for authority to cancel or modify government contractual obligations was reported to the house today in a form designed to allay the apprehensions of government bondholders that the administration might use such power to abrogate its obligations to pay government bonds in gold dollars of present value.

As reported in the independent offices appropriations bill for the fiscal year 1934 the President's request was modified to apply only to contracts involving transportation services. He will be given authority to cancel or modify such rail, air and ocean mail contracts as he sees fit in the interest of economy.

Bondholders Worried.

Government bondholders had expressed considerable concern following the President's original request for power over contracts, that this power, if granted, would enable the administration to elude its contractual obligation to pay government bonds in gold dollars of present weight and fineness, as stipulated on the face of the bonds. It had been argued that Mr. Roosevelt would be given legal grounds for decreeing the payment of these obligations in a devalued gold dollar or depreciated currency following execution of his inflationary program.

Should the President proceed with his plan to lower the gold content of the dollar, government bonds will be paid in the depreciated money. In such event, however, the legality of payment is expected to be taken to the courts on the ground that it would constitute a breach of the contract inherent in a government bond.

British Decision Cited.

While the courts are expected to hold that the government is obligated only to pay its bonds in the current medium of exchange, as was held in England following the fall of the pound sterling, it had been argued by spokesmen for the bondholders of the country that the delegation of power over federal contracts would give the President legal grounds for such action and would decrease materially their chances of success in the courts.

The independent office bill carries a reduction of nearly half a billion dollars in the amount appropriated for the same offices in the bill which President Hoover vetoed at the close of the last session. Most of the slash is in the veterans' administration where $460,000,000 was lopped off as the result of the reductions in ex-service men's benefits under the Roosevelt economy bill.

This immediate saving will be augmented, if the bill passes as now drawn, by prospective savings expected to accrue from operation of the Presidential power over contracts and a number of other economy proposals embodied in the measure at the suggestion of Budget Director Lewis Douglas.

A stagger system of employment designed to distribute work in the government departments among as many persons as possible is proposed in the bill. Heads of over-manned agencies and departments would be authorized to place their employés on a rotative work system under which workers would be furloughed without pay for not more than 90 days in the year. Other proposed economies would affect pay of officers of the army, navy, marine corps, coast guard, retired federal judges, permit retirement by Presidential order of any federal employé with 30 years of service.

George Radcliffe Likely Treasury Undersecretary

Washington, D. C., May 2.—(AP)—President Roosevelt is expected to name George Radcliffe, Baltimore banker and lawyer, as undersecretary of the treasury.

MUSSOLINI DELEGATE, GUIDO JUNG, ARRIVES TO SEE ROOSEVELT

New York, May 2.—[Special.]—Guido Jung, Italian minister of finance, arrived here today on the Conti di Savoia to confer with President Roosevelt on problems of world recovery in the series of conversations now being held by the President with leading statesmen of various nations preparatory to the world economic conference. Sig. Jung is expected to lead Italy's delegation at the London conference.

Sig. Jung said he came as the spokesman of Premier Mussolini, who, he said, was ready "to give all the cooperation in his power" in the efforts to bring about world stability.

"Italy desires no less than does this country that the forthcoming economic conference should achieve concrete and substantial results," Sig. Jung declared in a prepared statement to the press. "The way indicated by your President is precisely the manner in which we could all best prepare for the conference and assure its success."

Sig. Jung declined, however, to discuss specific questions to be touched upon in his conversations with the President or to express any opinion on the achievements to date in the President's negotiations with Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain and former Premier Herriot of France. He declined also to say whether he brought with him specific proposals from Premier Mussolini.

WHITE COLLAR IDLE IN CAPITAL TO DEMAND AID

Washington, D. C., May 2.—[Special.]—Now another "army" has descended upon the nation's capital, an army clad in the caps and gowns they wore at college commencements, come to present the plea of the white collar man.

With armies of bonus demanders, of hungry and jobless, of Chicago school teachers and countless others having come, or planning to come, to Washington to make their various pleas, these defenders of the rights of the educated felt the necessity to have their case argued, too.

So they mill around at their headquarters at the Y. W. C. A. building, holding indignation meetings on a high intellectual plane. Some of the more astute offered the suggestion that President Roosevelt, having established a professoriat in his inner council of advisers, ought to carry his campus ideas further and install college graduates in many other jobs heretofore doled out on the basis of rewarding the faithful for wards and districts and states showing in the right columns on election day.

The chairman of the group identified himself as Joseph P. Lash, graduate of Columbia university, from whence came Prof. Raymond Moley, Prof. Rexford Guy Tugwell and other of the Roosevelt group of advisers. One of the leaders is Varian Fry, who was a classmate of James Roosevelt, son of the President, at Harvard. John J. Barnes, graduate of Washington state college, is also here.

The jobless intellectuals plan to move upon both houses of congress tomorrow to demonstrate their neglected condition.

Washington, D. C., May 2.—(AP)—The Reconstruction Finance corporation today authorized a loan of $500,000 to aid in rehabilitating the earthquake stricken area of California.

PICK 35 RESERVE CORPS SURGEONS FOR FOREST ARMY

Thirty-five surgeons of the reserve officers' corps have been accepted for the medical department of the reforestation service in the Sixth corps area, comprising Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin, Lieut. Douglas E. Jonson of the registration department at the corps headquarters said yesterday. Applications have been received from nearly 100 more. The surgeons will be paid according to their army rank.

Enlisting of the 246 men allotted Kane county in the government's reforestation army will start today, John R. Delaney of Elgin, chairman of the county emergency relief commission, announced yesterday.

ROOSEVELT MAY ASK U. S. RULE OF ALL INDUSTRIES

Advisers Submit Control Board Plan.

sanctioned by the act, it was said, will encourage banks to pour into industry the credit now frozen in their vaults because of the continuing downward spiral of commodity prices.

Provision is made in the bill to eliminate cutthroat competition and curb the evils of unregulated price cutting. The machinery provided is for the issuance of licenses to persons, partnerships, corporations and associations as condition precedent to carrying out the operations of the scheme.

A trade association will be licensed by the federal body and the individual who is not a member of an association may apply direct and receive his license if he lives up to the terms set forth in the act.

Conditions for License.

Among the conditions attached to the issuance of licenses are the following:

The licensee must submit his price and production schedules to the national board and the trade association.

The licensee must accept the quota agreed upon by the trade association subject to approval of the federal board.

The licensee must guarantee to his employés the right to bargain collectively and to be represented by a spokesman of their own choosing.

The licensee shall not seek to compel employés to sign individual or "yellow dog" contracts, as set forth in the Norris-La Guardia act.

Instead of fixing wages and hours of labor, the national board will permit them to be provided by collective action of each industry. Since the veto power on any wage and hour arrangement will rest with the board, it is not proposed that any industry will be permitted to get out of line in these respects.

Miss Perkins Opposes Bill.

Flexibility in hours will be provided as among the various industries, but the differential between the "maximum hours industries" and the "minimum hours industries," it was said, will not be so large as to give one an advantage over the other.

Secretary Perkins is understood to have thrown her influence against this bill, though what result remains to be seen. She is still fighting for the 30 hour week, the minimum wage, and the autocratic control of production provided in her bill. A protégé of Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Perkins is a power in the administration to be reckoned with, though reports that she dominates the cabinet may be scouted.

The radicalism of her bill alarmed the business world generally, particularly as it seemed at one time that the administration would be able to shove it through congress. A rather prevalent opinion was that had it not been for the prospect of inflation it would have knocked the bottom out of the stock market.

Makes Secretary a Czar.

The Perkins bill makes the secretary of labor the czar of industry. Under the terms the secretary would fix minimum wage scales and the hours of labor and regulate the volume of production of any factory. A plant that was producing more than the secretary deemed in the public interest could be compelled to reduce its output under pain of being excluded from interstate commerce.

Business could be taken from one plant and allocated to another company under provisions empowering the secretary to "bring about a more equitable adjustment of production within" an industry whenever it should appear that any plant or enterprise was "disturbing and preventing a fair balance of production in the industry involved" and was "bringing about overproduction or unfair competition in interstate commerce by reason of excessively long periods of operation and thereby causing extraordinary hardship to other plants or enterprises in said industry, with consequent substantial injury to the general welfare."

Salvation Army Official Retires

Give Farewell Party

Col. Arthur T. Brewer, 65 years old, chief secretary of the Salvation Army in the central states, retired from active service last night because of failing health. A farewell party was given for him in the 1st corps auditorium, 1512 Madison street.

Col. Brewer's retirement was announced by Commissioner W. A. McIntyre, territorial commander of this district. Commissioner McIntyre said Col. Brewer collapsed while on a tour last year with Commander Evangeline Booth and has never fully recovered. Col. Brewer has been a Salvation Army officer for 48 years, having served in England and Scotland before coming here. A son, Maj. Arthur Brewer, is superintendent of industrial work for the Salvation Army in the California district and a daughter, Capt. Katherine Agnew, the wife of Milton Agnew, is active here.

Col. Ernest I. Pugmire will be inducted into office as Col. Brewer's successor tonight. Col. Pugmire was once a missionary to China and Japan.

OWNERS OF GOLD REFUSE TO TURN IT OVER TO U. S.

Defy Treasury, Call Law Unconstitutional.

Washington, D. C., May 2.—[Special.]—Gold owners sounded a note of defiance at the treasury today, challenging the authority of the government to take their gold in exchange for other currency. Many foreign citizens, both resident and nonresident, are holding large supplies of gold in the form of coin in safety deposit boxes of the United States.

Now that there is a threat of inflation of other money, there is a strong demand for licenses to export the gold, which are being refused by the treasury. Some of the gold is earmarked and some is held in trust, but only gold earmarked for foreign governments, central banks, or the Bank of International Settlements may be exported.

Held for Mexican Client.

The gold over which the dispute has arisen is owned by individuals or corporations.

One attorney, whose identity was not disclosed, when refused a license for the export of $175,000 in gold held in a New York bank safety deposit vault for a Mexican client, declared that he would not turn the gold in and asserted that the emergency legislation under which the gold has been called is unconstitutional.

This attorney indicated that nothing would be done until the treasury seeks to obtain the gold and to inflict the penalties. His client recently left the United States.

In addition to the foreign gold owners there are many domestic holders of gold with large amounts in safety deposit vaults. Some are known to the treasury and were said to have several million dollars in gold coin. According to the information, they declined to surrender the gold on the advice of attorneys, who planned to test the law in the courts.

Prompt Decision Sought.

Indications pointed to a test case within a short time. The department of justice probably will arrange to expedite the case so that a prompt decision may be obtained from the Supreme court.

No figures were available as to the amount of gold yet outstanding. On April 26 the figure exceeded $700,000,000, and it was not believed that a large amount had been returned since that time. While some of the gold is in amounts of $100 or less, and thus legally held, the vast bulk is in larger amounts.

Just what steps will be taken by the treasury and department of justice as to holders has not been disclosed, except in a general way.

Clothes will last much longer —and you'll save more money!

Women who take pride in the freshness of their wardrobes, in the beauty of their homes, use only the purest soap flakes money can buy. Here in this Great Lakes region their overwhelming choice is Kirk's American Family—created especially for our hard lake water.

"When one sees the irreparable harm that can come to fine fabrics as a result of dipping them in the suds of cheapened soap flakes," says Mrs. Chauncey B. Blair, "one becomes very cautious. That's why I have always insisted on American Family Flakes—because I know from long experience that it is absolutely safe."

"I'm proud of the way my sheets and towels and Madeira table linens look—so soft and snowy white," declares Mrs. Frederic Z. Pantlind.

"In the kitchen, too, this pure soap has certainly put an end to our dishwashing worries. Really, it's so fast-working and so safe that my Cauldon and Wedgwood china—even my gold etched glassware—come out in almost no time sparkling with all their original brilliance. And it makes fully twice as much pure, rich suds as ordinary flakes."

"I know that American Family Flakes is pure," adds Mrs. August Uihlein Pabst. "I know, too, that it saves money, because our clothes just wear and wear. Never has it harmed the daintiest lingerie or faded the most delicate color. And the maid says it is quicker than anything she ever tried. There really isn't a room in my house that doesn't bear witness to the purity and safety of American Family Flakes."

For greatest savings, use only American Family Flakes—for every household-cleaning task. You will do less work...you will have more time, more money...even your hands will be smoother, whiter. It's the double-suds that makes the difference!

MUSCLE SHOALS BILL NEAR HALF WAY TO PASSAGE

Roosevelt's Experiment Included.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 2.—[Special.]—The Norris bill for the government operation of Muscle Shoals late today was near the half way mark on its third trip through congress.

The measure was at the point of passage by the senate. From there it will go to a certain passage in the house and an assured approval by President Roosevelt.

In its present form, the bill sponsored by Senator George W. Norris [Rad., Neb.] goes even farther than the measures which Presidents Coolidge and Hoover vetoed out of regard for the taxpayers' pocket and their own unwillingness to put the government into business.

In addition to government operation of the various dams and plants, the bill represents the first step in Mr. Roosevelt's plan of making the valley of the Tennessee river a vast laboratory where the federal government is to experiment in carrying out various projects of a social nature.

Primarily a Power Bill.

First of all, however, the Norris Muscle Shoals bill is a power bill. Its most ardent support comes from those members of the radical bloc to whom "power trust" is synonomous with all that is wicked.

With its generating plants, nitrate plants and dams, which have already cost the government some 150 million dollars, it is to be operated as a sort of mechanized yardstick by which private plants—principally power, but also fertilizer—may be measured.

Flood control, of course, also enters in, but flood control, opponents of the bill claim, is to be principally useful as a heading under which costs may be allocated, thus permitting power to be produced at a reasonable paper showing.

Even the most zealous advocates of the bill do not claim that the operating of Muscle Shoals is economical or efficient. A privately operated fertilizer company, as Senator Norris testified during the debate, would not accept nitrate plant No. 2 as a gift. But fertilizer is to be made there experimentally, even though at higher cost, in order to "help the farmer."

Territory Now Over Powered.

Private power companies, as has been pointed out by the United States chamber of commerce and others, are in danger of being vitally injured by the government development. Not only is power to be developed, but transmission lines as well are contemplated. And this is in a territory, according to representatives of the power companies concerned, where there is already an oversupply of electricity and an adequate network of transmission lines.

This was brought out in detail in committee hearings on the companion to the Norris bill in the house.

E. A. Yates, vice president of the six companies composing the Commonwealthy and Southern group, for example, testified in part as follows:

"The requirements of these six companies in 1932 was approximately 3 billion kilowatt hours.

"The companies in their own plants have 1 billion kilowatt hours of surplus energy and Cove creek and Muscle shoals will add another 1 billion kilowatt hours, or 1 billion 500 million kilowatt hours. There is no market except our market, and the market is 90 per cent of the life of these utilities.

"You can build a plant and build lines, but the market is something that has been the result of the upbuilding of the territory by these companies through time and the expenditure of money. When the markets go, the companies are gone. I can see no market whatever for this power at the present time unless it is a market that is being served completely and fully and at reasonable rates by these companies."

Mr. Yates asserted that as a business proposition his corporation would not consider developing the Tennessee river. Modern steam plants, he said, are more economical than hydro plants. He said:

"On the series of dams that are contemplated on the Tennessee river, including eight dams, up to and including Cove Creek, the estimates as taken from the army engineers' report show a cost for these plants of 228 million dollars, which includes Wilson dam at $47,000,000, and the Sheffield steam plant at $5,000,000.

The total cost of 228 million for eight dams, with a total installation of 1,079,000 kilowatts capacity, provide a prime power capacity—that is, power which is always available, to the extent of 509,000 kilowatts.

"Our estimates show that to produce the same power in steam plants that the expenditure of 228 million dollars on the hydroelectric plants will produce, and to secure the same capacity, will require a capital expenditure of $68,000,000, or 160 millions less.

"Comparing the operation of the hydroelectric plants with steam plants, and using the same fixed charges for taxes and interest but allowing 1 per cent for renewals on the hydroelectric plants and 3 per cent on the steam plants, the cost of power at the hydro electric plants will be about $21,000,000 a year as against $13,500,000 by steam."

"I do not want to be in the position of an alarmist," he said, "and I do not want to overstate any situation, but I can say to you, as my deliberate judgment, that if this bill passes this 400 million dollars worth of securities will be eventually destroyed."

ROOSEVELT CUTS OWN SALARY BUT IT MUST BE PUT IN BUDGET

Washington, D. C., May 2.—(AP)—Although President Roosevelt is voluntarily cutting his own salary 15 per cent—the reduction imposed on all other government servants — the house appropriations committee put into the independent offices appropriation bill the full $75,000.

The budget bureau had cut off $6,250 from the White House estimate on account of the presidential salary cut. The committee said "it is deemed proper to appropriate the full amount."

The constitution does not permit the President's salary to be either reduced or increased for the incumbent, though congress may change it for his successors.

INDICTED INSULL OFFICERS FIGHT FRAUD CHARGES

Harold L. Stuart, president of Halsey, Stuart & Co.; Stanley Field, Samuel Insull Jr., and fourteen others, charged with using the mails to defraud in connection with the collapse of the $153,000,000 Corporation Securities company, were arraigned yesterday before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. Samuel Insull Sr. and Martin J. Insull, the remaining defendants in the case, are in Greece and Canada, respectively.

No pleas were entered yesterday on behalf of the defendants, their attorneys having elected to attack the indictment. Judge Wilkerson allowed counsel ten days in which to file suggestions in support of their demurrers and motions to quash the indictments. The government will then have ten days to answer. Arguments on the demurrers were set for June 1. The court said they would have to be concluded in two days.

No Trial Date Set.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, who plans to conduct the prosecution, said the government would not demand that a trial date be set until the preliminary pleadings were out of the way. Judge Wilkerson smiled in agreement with this attitude and said there might not be a case after the arguments.

A demurrer filed by Attorney George I. Haight, representing Charles R. Whitworth of Touche, Niven & Co., auditors, was similar in content to all others. It attacked both the form of the indictment and the constitutionality of the law under which it was drawn. The mail fraud statute, Mr. Haight contends, does not sufficiently define a scheme, or artifice, to defraud, but requires the court and a jury to determine a standard of ethical conduct. This, he holds, is a delegation of legislative authority. As to the indictment, the defense lawyers contend it is too general and too vague.

"The court will be both aided and interested by our arguments," said Mr. Haight.

Defendants Answer "Present."

When the case was called Mr. Green asked that the defendants stand and answer present as their names were read by Clerk Joseph O'Sullivan. The defendants, sitting in a row at the rear of the counsel tables, did so.

Young Insull was president of the defunct investment trust; Stuart, whose bond house did the financing, and Mr. Field were directors. Other defendants, besides the fugitive Insulls, all of whom were officers or directors of the company or its amiliates, are: Charles B. Stuart, Frank K. Shrader, Clarence W. Sills, John W. Gulick, Clarence T. MacNeille, Philip J. McEnroe, John F. O'Keefe, Robert W. Waite, Frank R. Evers, Fred H. Scheel, George A. Kemp, Edward J. Doyle, Charles R. Whitworth, and Attorney Waldo F. Tobey.

Martin J. Insull Resigns as Trustee of Cornell

Ithaca, N. Y., May 2.—(AP)—Resignation of Martin J. Insull of Chicago, former public utilities magnate, as a trustee of Cornell university has been accepted by the board, it became known today. The vacancies caused by this resignation and by the death of Roger B. Williams will be filled at the June meeting.

YOU'RE INVITED TO NAME FAIR'S OFFICIAL FLOWER

Ballot Contest Is Opened by The Tribune.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The public is invited by THE TRIBUNE this morning to select the official flower of A Century of Progress.

Selection is to be through popular ballot. Blank ballots for this purpose will be found in an adjoining column of THE TRIBUNE and in other issues every day until May 20, when the competition closes. Cooperating in the contest is a group of Chicagoans who are sponsoring the garden and flower exhibitions at the fair.

The official flower chosen will be the beauty queen of flowerdom at the fair. It will grace the tables of foreign notables, and be in evidence wherever a touch of natural beauty is needed. Already plans have been arranged to plant special beds of the winning flower in the Horticultural building on Northerly island, and in other strategic points on the fair grounds.

Voting Open to Every One.

For amateur and professional horticulturists and just plain lovers of the beautiful, the competition affords an excellent chance to test their desires in the flower realm. Voting is not local; any reader of THE TRIBUNE is eligible whether he or she lives in Patagonia or in a loop hotel.

Examination of the ballot will show six flowers which may be voted for. These were recommended by a committee of horticulturists headed by John A. Servas, director of Horticultural Exhibits, Inc., the agency conducting the flower shows at the exposition.

Voters, however, are not limited to the six flowers named in the ballot. They may write in their preferences. Care must be exercised, however, if independent selections are voted, to designate blossoms that are adaptable to summer growing conditions on the Chicago lake front.

Each of Nominees a Leader.

"It is appropriate, considering that A Century of Progress will picture advanced scientific progress, that the six flowers nominated for the official flower are modern products of the plant breeders' skill," said Mr. Servas. "Each has been evolved by scientific methods from humble wild flowers, and each is a conceded leader in the flower world. All are vigorous and provide a wide range of color."

All votes cast in the balloting should be mailed to the Garden Editor, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, not later than May 20.

Cast Your Ballot for the OFFICIAL FLOWER of the World's Fair

(Vote for one flower only, or write in blank space your nomination)

- ☐ Golden Gleam Nasturtium (fragrant, yellow).
- ☐ Salpiglossis Blue and Gold (dark blue veined with gold).
- ☐ Marigold Guinea Gold (double yellow).
- ☐ Zinnia Crimson Monarch (giant crimson).
- ☐ Petunia Rose of Heaven (rose pink).
- ☐ Petunia Blue Bird (dark blue purple).
- ☐ .....

Voter's name and address.....

Mail this ballot on or before May 20, 1933, to Garden Department, Chicago Tribune.

ITALY PREPARES NEWFOUNDLAND BASE FOR FLIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 2.—Esperio Emilio, an officer in the Italian royal air force, arrived here today in connection with the proposed flight of 24 Italian seaplanes to A Century of Progress exposition at Chicago. He selected a landing site to be used for the armada's return flight at Shoal Harbor, Trinity bay.

The flight will get under way late this month from Orbitella, Italy, crossing to Chicago by easy stages over the northern route. The planes will return via New York, Halifax and Shoal Harbor.

Two Italian submarines and two drifters [fishing boats], which are to patrol the route of the flyers, are due here within the next two weeks. They will stay ten days and then proceed to Cartwright, one of the stopping places for the armada on its westward trip.

PAINTING OF KING WILLIAM III. IS SLASHED; 3 HELD

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, May 2.—(AP)—Three members of the Protestant league were charged in police court today with slashing and throwing paint on a picture of King William III, on exhibition in Ulster's new parliament house.

Police said the painting, by a Dutch artist, was destroyed because an ecclesiastical figure in it is said to represent a pope. It had been the center of a heated controversy and was denounced at a Protestant league demonstration here last night, when its removal was demanded.

Councillor Forrester, who spoke at the Protestant league meeting in Ulster hall last night, Mrs. Ratcliffe, wife of the leader of the league campaign, and Miss Nan Dykes, business editor of league publications, were remanded in custody for a week.

BANDITS ROB HOTEL MANAGER.

Two bandits took $300 in a robbery of the Winshire Arms hotel, 6321 Winthrop avenue, after forcing Miss Anne McDonald, the switchboard operator, and Benjamin Brinkman, the manager, into an office at the rear of the lobby early yesterday.

G.O.P. AND DEMOCRATIC CONVENTIONS SHOW A SURPLUS OF $12,497

Chicago's great political shows of last year, when the Republican and Democratic national coventions made history in the Stadium, came through without a debt and with a box office surplus of $12,497.74 after all bills were paid. Such was the final report made yesterday by Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the citizens' nonpartisan committee, which brought the two conventions to Chicago.

The surplus was refunded to public spirited citizens who raised a fund of $281,889.44 to defray the convention expenses. They will receive a refund of 4.44 per cent of their subscription. The conventions earned $83,072.08 from the sale of tickets, advertising, and concessions.

In a letter to George Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, accompanying the auditor's report, Mr. Hurley pointed out that the total amount collected was $364,961.52, of which $281,889.44 was contributed.

Mr. Hurley suggested that future national convention should be secured for Chicago and managed on better methods than in the past.

"Contracts should be made," he said, "with the national political parties covering financial guarantees desired and also specifying that the citizens' committee should receive a liberal number of daily admission reserved seat tickets to be sold for the conventions. Many visitors would be attracted to Chicago if they knew they could purchase convention tickets in advance at reasonable prices.

"Proceeds from the sale of tickets should go into the citizens' committee fund to meet the guarantees to national committees to pay the expenses of the conventions. This would materially reduce the amount of money to be raised by voluntary contributions."

Original Gutenberg Press Arrives for Fair May 12

The original Gutenberg press on which authorities believe the first movable type was used, is scheduled to arrive in this country May 12 on the Europa from the Gutenberg museum of Mainz, Germany, for installation at A Century of Progress, it was announced yesterday. It will be set up with other original equipment in an exhibit of printing and engraving processes by the Cuneo Press of Chicago. It is the second time the historic press has been allowed to leave Germany in the 480 years since its development, and will be the first time it ever was shown in America.

400 Soldiers to Arrive Today for Duty at Fair

Four hundred officers and men of th 6th infantry of the United States army will arrive in Chicago today from Jefferson barracks, Mo., for duty at A Century of Progress. They will go first to Fort Sheridan and later will be quartered on the exposition grounds. One detachment will arrive this afternoon at the Dearborn station and another will detrain at the Union station. The troops will march to the North Western station, where they will entrain for Fort Sheridan.

SEEK MRS. SOPHIA RUSSELL.

The Chicago police were searching yesterday for Mrs. Sophia Early Russell to inform her of the death of her mother in Welland, Ont., on Monday night.

FISHING FLEET CHAMPION SAILS FOR WORLD'S FAIR

LUNENBURG, N. S., May 2.—(AP)—The stately champion of the North Atlantic fishing fleets, Lunenberg's beloved Bluenose, sailed out of this historic harbor today bound for the World's Fair at Chicago and the fresh waters of the inland seas.

Redecorated and refitted, carrying a skeleton crew and pasengers who occupy staterooms where Bluenose's doughty men are wont to fill holds with cod, the Bluenose is expected to reach Halifax late tonight.

She will be on exhibition at Halifax Wednesday and then will head up the St. Lawrence for Quebec City for another stop and an official welcome.

ILLINOIS READY TO BE WORLD'S HOST AT FAIR

State Building to Be Hub of Exposition.

The part that Illinois will play at the World's Fair was described yesterday by Paul Demos, chairman of the publicity committee of the Illinois commission to A Century of Progress. The state, as host to the world, will have its official building, which will be the informal gathering place for Illinois residents, and will sponsor an "Illinois day," a "Chicago day," and specific days for leading countries of the world, which were the origin of a large part of the state's population.

The host house is in the square formed by the Sears-Roebuck building, the Hall of Science, the west tower of the Sky Ride and Soldier's Field.

Building to Be Heart of Fair.

"This building, with its seventy foot tower, will be the heart of the fair," Mr. Demos said, "and to it will come all visiting celebrities as well as residents to meet Gov. Horner and members of the state commission and other official hosts."

Three rooms in the house will be devoted to a Lincolniana exhibit. One room, designated as a Lincoln shrine, will contain a replica of a famous statue of the Emancipator. Another of the rooms will be arranged as an exact reproduction of the living room of the Lincoln home in Springfield.

"It becomes apparent that all or nearly all cities and towns downstate are planning special days at the fair," Mr. Demos said, "and we are eager to work with them in arranging these events. Many of them have already made application for such days. There will be, so far, Springfield, Kankakee, Quincy, Cairo, and Rockford days."

Other Illinois Exhibits.

Apart from its own building, Illinois will also have exhibits in the Agricultural building, the Hall of States, and the Hall of Social Science, Mr. Demos said. In the Agricultural building the state will use 5,300 square feet of floor space to illustrate its diversified crops. The Social Science exhibit will house a comprehensive display of the work of welfare and social service agencies in the state.

In the Hall of States the mineral wealth of the state and the work of its educational and other institutions will be shown. The military committee, headed by Col. Noble Brandon Judah, will exhibit the work of the state's National Guard in this hall.

Tours the Fair

Gen. John J. Pershing, a visitor at A Century of Progress exposition grounds yesterday, predicted the fair would exceed in interest the 1893 exposition, when he was captain of the famous Columbian guards. At that time he was a second lieutenant in the United States cavalry. He will make an effort to attend a reunion of the guards on June 9, he said. "The buildings of this World's Fair are far more beautiful and the exhibits greater and of wider range than those of 40 years ago," Gen. Pershing told Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition, and Charles G. Dawes, who saw service in France with him, as they toured grounds.

SUNDAY TRIBUNE TO NAME FIRST 10 'QUEEN' WINNERS

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Through the medium of the rotogravure pages of THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE 51 girls are to learn in the next few weeks of their selection as candidates for queen of A Century of Progress Exposition. On next Sunday the first group of ten final winners in the world-wide contest, sponsored by 15 newspapers, will receive their notification of success which entitles them to membership in the court ensemble.

Approximately 100,000 girls from every corner of the globe vied for the honor of setting the glittering crown of Queen of the Fair atop their tresses. Any one who thinks the coterie of discriminating individuals comprising the jury had an easy assignment needs only one glimpse at the packed files of the contest headquarters. Every protograph received was not only considered, but was scrutinized at least twice, and in some instances passed on to a fifth and even a sixth vote before it reached its ultimate position among the survivors or was relegated again to the rejected list.

Old and New World Represented.

Both the old world and new will be represented among the 51 final winners, pictures of five Europeans having been tendered by the jury with instructions to select two in the order indicated. This was necessary in case the preferred girls found it impossible to make the trip to America.

Far and wide throughout this country girls in small towns and in large cities are counting the days until they assemble in Chicago for the personal review that will leave one of them in possession of a title, and a check. The title will be Queen of the Fair. The check will read, "Pay to Miss ——— the sum of $5,000."

All the old standards of similar contests have been shelved in the search for a girl with the personality and the poise to wear the robes of queen and participate in the stately ceremonies of the 1933 World's Fair opening. Physical beauty was less desirable, it was agreed, than feminine charm, and so the criterion was established.

Jury Sets High Mark.

Personal interviews with the girls selected highly compliment the taste and discernment of the jury, whose only yardstick was their interpretation of features that may have been either helped or hindered by the art of the photographer. The jury's ability at character reading, it develops, is amazingly high.

Thus one of the first girls unanimously agreed on by the group was found on investigation in her home town of Thomasville, Ga., to be a student nurse, a member of one of the oldest families in the south and a lineal descendant of the Indian princess, Pocahontas. Her grandfather, the Atlanta correspondent reports, has been associate justice of the Supreme court of the state since 1906, and her great great grandfather was governor of Georgia from 1839 to 1843.

Chicago offered a nice contrast in the early selections from the home city of the Fair. A shy little blonde from the extreme south side, whose high school training has been followed by more than a year of unemployment, whose eyes sparkled gleefully at the glad tidings. And a tall, slender girl who went from a luxurious home in the South Shore district to Ogontz finishing school, and is giving up the grand reunion there to compete for the honor of reigning on June 1.

A Candidate for M. A. Degree.

There's a dramatic instructor from Chicago's west side, with a voice Ethel Barrymore couldn't have equaled in her best days, and luminous blue eyes with generations of Irish fascination in their depths. There's a demure graduate student from the Northwestern campus, daughter of a Texas banker, who is taking her master's degree in sociology this year.

Ten days crowded with gaiety await these 51 girls who will gather on May 25 in half a dozen Chicago hotels. Their program will last through the opening date of A Century of Progress, June 1.

Next Sunday's paper gives the opening chapter. There are more to come.

ROOSEVELT MAY OPEN FAIR; DATE CHANGE IS SEEN

The date for the grand opening of the World's Fair, scheduled for June 1, may be changed in order to have President Roosevelt present for the ceremonies. Exposition officials received word from Washington yesterday that the President has already promised to present diplomas at the United States Naval academy at Annapolis June 1.

Rufus Dawes, president of the exposition, will leave for Washington today to talk over the matter with the President. Officials have indicated that they may move the opening date ahead to Saturday, May 27.

M'DONALD NEARS HOME; FACES ROW ON TRADE PACTS

New Treaties Are Signed During His Absence.

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 2.—Prime Minister MacDonald will return home tomorrow to a domestic political situation which has grown more and more like a disturbed hornet's nest during his absence in the United States.

While MacDonald has been talking with President Roosevelt about an international trade agreement the board of trade has been pushing bilateral understandings with governments in all parts of the world. Three of these, with Denmark, Germany, and Argentina, have already been signed. Three more with Norway, Sweden, and Iceland will be concluded within a few days.

New Negotiations Pend.

Still another set of negotiations will be opened with Finland on May 23. Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, told the house of commons today. This is only three weeks before the world economic conference is scheduled to open when the American government will propose a world wide tariff truce.

Apart from international complications, the British government is in a hot spot over the Conservative revolt which burst out in the house of commons last night under the leadership of Sir Austen Chamberlain. The Tories are fighting the trade pacts on the ground that the government has given too much, particularly to Germany, without getting enough in return.

Runciman was subjected to a barrage of questions today in which he was repeatedly called upon to defend the results obtained in the whole series of negotiations.

Runciman's Job at Stake.

His place in the cabinet will be at stake when the German treaty comes up for a vote. The Conservative bloc will move to reject the treaty. Runciman has announced that he will resign if the pact is not accepted. The government, therefore, will make it a vote of confidence.

Besides dissatisfaction over the trade treaties the cabinet also has on its hands a renewal of the conflict with the Winston Churchill faction and certain newspaper proprietors, who are opposing the government's Indian policy.

The usual Wednesday cabinet meeting has been postponed until Thursday so the prime minister can attend. A general debate on his trip to the United States will be held in the house of commons next Tuesday.

Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, still unable to meet Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, who is ill with a severe chill, was busy today discussing the American suggestion for a world tariff truce with the French, and the far eastern situation with the Chinese.

MAC DONALD NEARS HOME

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD S. S. BERENGARIA, May 2.—Prime Minister MacDonald spent his last day aboard ship preparing the statement which he will make to the house of commons on Thursday. The Berengaria is scheduled to arrive at Southampton tomorrow afternoon.

The prime minister on his arrival will make a short statement expressing his delight to be home again. After a cabinet meeting Thursday morning he will face the house of commons. He will make a prepared statement in answer to arranged questions.

The prime minister probably will have to face an attack for not having brought back a war debt settlement, although every one familiar with the situation knew that this was impossible at this time.

What he has got, it is understood, is an understanding that if possible, in view of American public opinion a month from now, postponement of the June payment may be granted. If this seems politically inadvisable, the British will pay again as they did last December and the whole matter will be thrashed out at the first possible moment.

KIDNAP GRANDCHILD OF FRANCIS M'MATH, RICH DETROIT ENGINEER

Harwichport, Mass., May 2.—(AP)—Margaret McMath, 10 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil C. McMath, formerly of Detroit, and granddaughter of Francis C. McMath, wealthy Detroit engineer and industrialist, was kidnaped today.

Dismissed from her fourth grade schoolroom after a phone call purporting to be from her father had been received there, the girl entered a large blue automobile driven by a man described as a Negro.

No motive for the kidnaping was known to the family, who have been residents here for two years.

State police and coast guards swung into a search for the abductor which extended across Cape Cod by land and from Boston south to New London, Conn., by sea. There was a possibility the child might have been taken aboard a seagoing craft.

GERMANY URGES MAXIMUM LIMIT ON MOBILE GUNS

Also Proposes Tanks Be Abolished.

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 2.—(AP)—Count Rudolf Nadolny, German representative, proposed to the disarmament conference today that the British arms plan be changed to provide a maximum caliber of 105 millimeters for mobile guns and to abolish all tanks.

"There are still great difficulties, but they are not insuperable," Count Nadolny said. He contended that if the German proposals are rejected his nation should be allowed all land, naval, and air armaments deemed necessary for defense by other countries.

"The German government has sufficiently proved its good will," he said.

Praises President Roosevelt.

After praising the attitude of President Roosevelt and Norman H. Davis, special American envoy to Europe, regarding conciliation of conflicting viewpoints on disarmament, Count Nadolny said:

"We have accepted in principle the period of transition for the practical realization of full equality rights for Germany. This proves there is absolutely no foundation for the opinion that Germany wishes to avail herself of disarmament to proceed with her own re-armament at the highest possible level. The contrary is the case."

The German delegate, who won a victory yesterday when the committee on armies voted not to consider Chancellor Hitler's storm troopers, at present auxiliary policemen, as a military organization, insisted that no country is more deeply interested in real disarmament than Germany.

Wants to Pay Debts.

"This interest," he asserted, "is due in the first place to past experience and to the profound conviction that the best guarantee of peace is based on the effective reduction of large armaments.

"In the next few years Germany will be engaged in the difficult work of an all-around internal reconstruction. She wants to heal the financial and economic wounds of war, the damage done by inflation, and the extravagant spending during the post-war years.

"She wants loyally to repay her large private debts; therefore, she wishes to spend for military purposes only the minimum necessary to safeguard her national security."

Coroner's Jury Frees 2 in Traffic Argument Killing

A verdict of murder by persons unknown was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at an inquest into the death of Albert Lucenti, 21 years old, 5433 West Harrison street, who was shot in a traffic argument April 22. Louis Romano, 38 years old, 3906 West Congress street, an associate of Sam Hunt, and Abe Levin, 1357 North Lincoln street, a business partner of Romano, were exonerated when witnesses could not identify them. The police, however, took both to the detective bureau. Romano was believed by the police to have been driving Levin's car when it crashed into Lucenti's automobile.

MOSCOW RENEWS TIE WITH CHINA; ALLIANCE SEEN

Nanking Seeks Russian Aid in Conflict.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, May 2.—Dimitri Bogomoloff presented his credentials as the new Russian ambassador to the Chinese Nationalist government at Nanking today, thus marking the resumption of full diplomatic relations between the two nations.

[Russia and China severed diplomatic relations in July, 1929, following China's accusation that soviet Russia was spreading communist propaganda in Manchuria and was plotting to overthrow the Chinese government].

The arrival of Bogomoloff has given rise to a vigorous campaign in the Chinese press. Its objective is a Sino-soviet political alliance similar to that which followed the Sino-Japanese war of 1895. In that pact China practically ceded Liaotung peninsula, part of Manchuria, to Russia in exchange for Russian assistance against Japan.

Seek Trade and Military Alliance.

The Chinese now suggest that China grant the soviets important trade privileges to provide an outlet for soviet goods in China and at the same time exclude Japanese products. In exchange it is hoped that Russia would actively help China in connection with the Manchukuo conflict.

Bogomoloff in presenting his credentials said that Russia is the only country which gives China complete equality by respecting the rights and interests of the Chinese people. He added that his country has the deepest sympathy for Chinese attempts at economic and political development. The ambassador expressed the hope that resumption of relations would strengthen peace moves in the far east.

Meanwhile, dispatches from Peiping reporting the withdrawal of Japanese troops from Chihli province to the Great Wall are interpreted by the Chinese press as foreshadowing an early outbreak of hostilities between Japan and Russia.

Red Army Near Border.

It is claimed that Moscow has warned inhabitants of Harbin and other North Manchukuo cities to be ready to evacuate. Many soviet divisions are reported mobilized at Chita and Irkutsk, in Siberia, near the Manchukuoan border, while soviet troops are said to be digging trench defenses adjacent to the boundary, with many soviet planes flying over the frontier.

Moscow has definitely defied the Japanese-Manchukuoan ultimatum to return locomotives and other rolling stock of the Chinese Eastern railway. Despite the fact that the Japanese war office has taken steps to iron out the row, indications are that Manchukuo, with Japanese backing, is preparing openly to seize the railway. The railway is jointly managed and controlled by Russia and China.

Mrs. Helen Eadie, 36 years old, attempted to commit suicide yesterday noon by leaping into Chicago river from the lower level of Wacker drive just east of the Michigan avenue bridge. She was rescued after she had sunk beneath the surface for the third time by Bruno Hagadorn, 32 years old, second steward on the yacht Mizpah, which is anchored at the southern end of the bridge.

Mrs. Eadie was taken to Passavant hospital, where it was said she would recover. She lives at 1000 Main street, Evanston. Her husband, Herbert A. Eadie, night foreman at the Evanston post office, said that Mrs. Eadie had been despondent over the death of her two children by a former marriage.

A sailor on the Mizpah, which is owned by Commander Eugene F. McDonald, sighted Mrs. Eadie in the river. He called a warning, as he could not swim. Hagadorn rushed up from the galley and dived overboard fully dressed. He swam to Mrs. Eadie, who had floated about fifty feet from shore, and dived beneath the surface. He caught her hair and took her to the side of the yacht, where they were pulled out.

ROME AND NAPLES SHOWERED WITH MUD AND ASHES

ROME, May 2.—(AP)—Showers of mud and ashes caused inhabitants of Rome and Naples and the intervening country to scurry for cover today.

Pedestrians caught in the ten minute downpour in Rome acquired a coating of yellowish, watery mixture. In Naples, dry yellow ashes rained on the city.

Scientists disagreed as to possible explanations. Director Alessandro Malladra of the Vesuvius observatory said a heavy wind caught up ashes from the volcano and distributed them over a wide area. Scientists in Rome offered the explantion that the mud shower was caused by a wind from Africa bringing with it sand mixed with water.

SAAR BASIN SEEN AS WAR DANGER ZONE IN EUROPE

Franco-German Friction Grows in Territory.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 2.—If Uncle Sam finally signs up for police duty in Europe through a consultative pact putting teeth in the Kellogg pact, he will find a brand new beat waiting for him.

It is the whole Franco-German frontier, and especially the Saar mandate territory, where this correspondent has just completed a personal investigation of conditions. The results of this investigation can be summed up by saying that this strip of territory henceforth must be given a place of honor alongside the Polish corridor, the Jugo-Slav-Italian frontier and other well known powder barrels of the old continent.

Protests Are Exchanged.

The situation is less dramatic than along some of those Balkan frontiers, where one can witness the spectacle of two rival armies watching each other across a no man's land and waiting for some one to drop the hat, but fundamentally it is just as bad.

At the moment attention is centered on the Franco-German frontier between Strassbourg and Metz, where the slumbering antagonism of the two peoples, fanned by the Nazi revolution in Germany, has provoked a series of incidents that motivated an exchange of diplomatic protests between the Quai d'Orsay and the Wilhelmstrasse. This is a phase of the problem worth going into more deeply, but the Saar mandate territory actually contains more potential dynamite.

Recall Versailles Provisions.

If you look up the treaty of Versailles you will see that the coal mines of the Saar were given to France as compensation for destruction of French mines during the German occupation. To insure France against interference in the operation of the Saar mines, the whole basin and a covering strip of marginal territory was detached from Germany, to which it had always belonged, and artificially organized as a state under the supervision of the league of nations. It is governed by a commission appointed by Geneva consisting of a French representative, a German, and three neutrals.

In 1935 a plebiscite will be held, when the people will decide whether they want to return to Germany, remain as an independent state administered by the league, or be attached to France. If the territory votes to return to Germany, France still retains the mines but must allow Germany to buy them back—if she can raise the price.

The treaty also provides that if the governing commission feels that the 1,000 gendarmes in the territory cannot insure order it can ask France to send in troops.

Many Possibilities for Trouble.

In addition to this political background the following facts are important: There are 10,000 French workmen, engineers, and officials now living in the Saar; France has a considerable interest in several big private mines and other enterprises not listed in the treaty: the coal of the Saar—although the mines are actually exploited at a loss—is extremely important for the steel industry of Lorraine, and the territory itself is important as a market for French agricultural products; the Saar-German frontier is held by French customs officers living in isolated patrols and only vaguely backed up by Saar territory gendarmes.

The possibilities of trouble are multiple. Every one with whom this correspondent talked, French, neutrals and Germans, including Nazis, agreed that if French troops came into the Saar, clashes would result, which would almost inevitably start a war. On the other hand, a violation of the Saar territory by Nazi bands from Germany would have the same effect, if only by provoking a French military occupation.

Fear Internal Rows.

Internal political rows—the Saar is heavily communist and Socialist—if they became too violent for the local government to control, would also necessitate French intervention as might interference by the Nazis in the elections. There is some reason to fear that if some of the cantons declared for autonomy in 1935, enraged Nazi bands from the German cantons would occupy them. Finally, the question of the mines is a stick of dynamite by itself.

France and Germany have already developed radically different ideas as to the value of the mines. The treaty provides for a neutral commission to fix the price in case direct negotiations fail, but even if the price fixed is far below the French figure of $75,000,000, it is not certain that Germany could easily raise that much gold for a lump payment. The consequence of continued French operation of the mines under a Nazi government can easily be imagined.

Those are just some of the potential sources of trouble. Investigation by this correspondent revealed that equally dangerous frictions already exist and are becoming more intense.

Nazi agitation in the territory is a serious preoccupation to the members of the governing commission. About 10 per cent of the Saar population is now Nazi and the strength of the party is growing daily. Clashes between Nazis and communists have already occurred and blood has been shed on both sides.

To prevent further trouble, Nazi uniforms have been banned and parades and public demonstrations are taboo. However, the Nazi swastika flag is now displayed in the Saar alongside of the old imperial German flag of black, white and red. This was permitted after an intimation from the Hitler government that the Nazi flag is now one of Germany's official emblems. The local Nazi paper was suppressed for a month owing to the violence of its propaganda.

Nazis Defy Suppression.

"We shall keep up our campaign through underground channels, since we are not allowed to come out in the open," one Nazi leader said, "but you can depend upon it, we shall do nothing which might give the French a pretext for sending in troops."

The most dangerous feature of the situation is the difficult position in which local officials, principally policemen and officers, are placed. They are constantly spied upon by a host of patriotic agencies, of which the Nazi party is only one, and are given to understand that if they obey orders which the Nazis do not like they will lose their jobs and possibly face trial fo treason after the 1935 elections.

French observers expressed fear that this growing pressure on the local police from German Nationalists had seriously undermined their loyalty to the present government and would prevent them from protecting citizens against Nazi violence in the coming months.

All the trouble does not come from the German side. It is impossible not to see that French propaganda is aggravating an already bad situation.

A large part of the French press was howling for a while about the "reign of terror" in the Saar and demanding that troops be sent in at once. The danger was considered so serious by G. G. Knox, British president of the Saar government, that he rushed off to Paris to warn Foreign Minister Paul-Boncour to put a muzzle on the French press. Since then the campaign has been toned down.

The situation along the German-French border, although less complex, is hardly less menacing. Here, along the gigantic line of fortifications which is being rushed to completion, a nervous tension exists. Nazi provocations on one side and the Frenchman's inability to realize that everything a German does is not a deliberate provocation on the other have fanned up the latent antagonisms of the two frontier populations.

Numerous Incidents Recorded.

In the last month there have been a half dozen disturbing incidents. In several cases uniformed Nazis have crossed the French frontier or have insulted French border guards. In other cases Nazis who entered the country regularly have been mobbed by crowds who considered their behavior too arrogant.

A carload of German tourists at Metz was mauled for showing the swastika flag, and a few days later three Nazis sitting in a café in a village near Metz were beaten up for having uttered alleged threats against France. This brought a diplomatic protest from Berlin and a few days later Paris replied in kind when a Frenchman with official connections was beaten up by a Nazi in Trier and then jailed on top of it.

DUTCH QUEEN PICKS MARXIST FOE AS PREMIER

Conservative Leader Will Form Cabinet.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, May 2.—Dr. H. Colijn, leader of the conservative Anti-Revolutionary party, today was given power by Queen Wilhelmina to form a new government. He succeeds Charles H. M. Beerenbrouck of the Catholic party, who had headed the Dutch ministry for more than three years.

The Anti-Revolutionary party, which stands for Calvinistic Christian principles in politics but is without church control, was victorious with other conservative parties in the Dutch general election held last Wednesday. It is opposed to socialism and has urged maintenance of a strong army and navy.

Socialists in Disrepute.

Socialists in Holland, as was indicated by the elections, have fallen into considerable disrepute because of their sympathy with the mutineers who ran away with the Dutch warship Zeven Provincien off Sumatra and were pursued and forced to surrender. As a result, the ministry of defense has taken steps to purge the army and navy of all Socialistic as well as communist elements.

Pro-Fascist parties, of which there are at least thirteen in Holland, failed to make much headway in the elections despite somewhat general expressions of dissatisfaction with the present parliamentary system.

Combat Fascist Elements.

Dutch officials see the poor Fascist showing as a result of the strenuous steps which the government has been taking to combat such elements. Army and navy officers have been forbidden to belong to Fascist organizations and the ban has now been applied to members of the civil guard, a semi-military defense group.

SLUDGE DEALT DEATH BLOW AS MOTORISTS ADOPT NEW OIL

ADVENT OF ISO-VIS "D" INSPIRES THOUSANDS TO RID CRANKCASES OF OLD ENEMY OF MOTOR EFFICIENCY

"Drain out winter-worn oil now!" is order of the day as new Anti-Sludge lubricant goes into action — brings new ease to motors at new low cost

Chicago, Ill., May 1—Sludge took it on the chin for the count when tough, sturdy Iso-Vis "D" scored a series of knock-outs with clean-cut performances staged in Middle West crankcases during the past few days.

At no time did Sludge, the old, soft product of oil-draining carelessness and inferior lubricants, have a chance against the smooth performance of this smart new-comer.

The need for an anti-sludge motor oil has grown as the average speed of traffic has increased. Ordinary motor oils could not stand the punishment of the heat and pounding of busy motors. But now a special oil to meet this need has been developed by the Standard Oil Company.

After Iso-Vis "D" was developed in the laboratory it was subjected to more than a million and a quarter miles of the hardest sort of road tests in 51 different types of motor vehicles. These tests proved that in fact, as well as in theory, Iso-Vis "D" is really an anti-sludge motor oil. Not only that—it is also an oil that possesses remarkable durability and long lasting qualities.

"Like the complex poisons developed in the human system by excessive physical strain, Sludge might be called a fatigue product," said a distinguished oil expert recently, in speaking of lubrication problems. "But whatever it is called, this product of worn-out oil has a cumulative effect. It combines with foreign matter that collects gradually in even the best regulated crankcases. Unnoticed at first, this thick mixture causes gradual sluggishness of power, and often leads to premature motor failure."

Car owners everywhere have been quick to welcome this new oil at the very season of the year when it is most important that old, winter-worn, sludgy oil be drained from crankcases. It is a recognized fact that Sludge formation is always heaviest in winter driving.

All over the Middle West thousands are refilling with Iso-Vis "D." In most cars, drivers report an immediate and noticeable improvement in motor performance.

"THIS IS THE TIME TO DE-SLUDGE YOUR MOTOR" SAYS CHEERFUL STAN

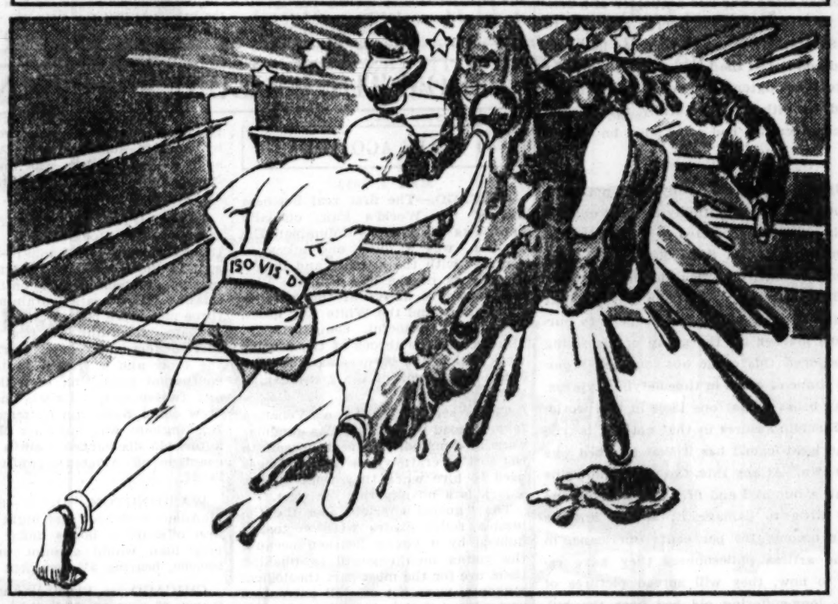
"Now is the time when every person who values his motor car is having winter worn, sludgy oil drained off, and new, clean oil put in," Cheerful Stan, the Servisman, told reporters late yesterday.

"It's a great thing that Iso-Vis 'D' is ready for all these car owners. I say to my own customers, 'Why use old-style oil when this new anti-sludge lubricant costs no more?'

"I've seen thousands of good cars being worn out before their time because the motors had to turn over with their crankshafts and pistons all tangled up in sticky, gritty sludge formed by road dirt and oil that was allowed to go too long—oil that couldn't stand the heat and speed of modern driving.

"But those days are over for folks who use Iso-Vis 'D,' because believe me, Iso-Vis 'D' is an oil that can take it!"

THE OLD TIMER HAD IT COMING TO HIM



COLD FACTS FOR SERIOUS THINKERS

Iso-Vis "D" is produced under totally new processes perfected by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)—patents pending. These are the Propane Dewaxing Process, and the Chlorex Extraction Process for removing unstable and undesirable constituents present in all petroleum distillates. By these exclusive refining processes a new-type lubricant is produced with much higher resistance to oxidation and sludge formation than any motor oil has hitherto possessed. The new oil likewise is notable for improved viscosity-temperature characteristics, low pour point, minimum carbon formation, and great durability.

"No driving too tough for Iso-Vis 'D'," was statement of trained observers when fifty-one types of motor vehicles were driven more than a million and a quarter miles—equal to fifty-two trips around the world—in testing Iso-Vis "D."

SLUDGE CONTAINS HARSH GRIT

NEW LOW PRICE!

COMPLETE REFILL
with Iso-Vis "D"—Chevrolet, Ford, Essex—

Only $1.25 (Plus Tax)

Iso-Vis "D," per quart, 25¢ (Plus Tax)

YOU'LL BE DRIVING MORE NOW

The sun is getting higher and the open road is calling. Cars that travel far and fast over the long trail will roll easier and less expensively if motors are free from Sludge.

This is how Sludge looked when a nervy service man scooped up a handful just drained from the crankcase of a typical family sedan. It is no longer oil, but gummy, gritty slime that will shorten the life of any motor if left to churn around in the crankcase.

Standard Stations and trained Servismen provide quick drain and refill service.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

TO BE LICKED BY THEIR OWN MISTAKES?

It's an old adage in American politics that if the Republicans get turned out of the national administration, which is so often theirs as to seem sometimes to be by heritage, all they need to do is to sit back and wait for the Democrats to defeat themselves by their own mistakes.

The Democratic party met its new responsibilities at the outset splendidly. The President was confronted with an unparalleled banking crisis. He took hold of it with such decision and courage that confidence pervaded the country where there might have been panic. There was a notable personal quality in his statesmanship. The dragon of devouring costs in normal government was then dragged out to be killed. People had begun to think that it never could be killed but would feed on them forever.

Volstead was pulled from its high perch, the beer bill was passed and the repeal of the eighteenth amendment submitted to the people. The national government was moving rapidly but, it could be generally conceded, on firm ground. The labor army could be included within a sound program because even if its numbers were comparatively few it rescued so many youths from the demoralization of idleness and gave them the knowledge that they were helping to support families. Even inflation could be accepted with the understanding that it was strong medicine required by previous dissipations and not normal subsistence.

Up to this point an American government has been acting upon emergencies to promote national recovery, but without slowing down the pace the direction changes. Is the lead now to be taken from sovietized Republicans, professorial doctrinaires, economic and social visionaries, the maddest of the left wing in both parties and the illusionists who still dream of the Wilsonian world empire?

From sound government is the new government to jump into the moonbeams? Are internationally controlled alliances and strange adventures to be taken up? Is one cabinet minister to become the commissar of agriculture with unlimited powers to lift mortgages, fix prices and attempt the limitation of crops? Another cabinet minister to become the industrial czarina of the country and fix wages and hours and promote or restrict competition? The Hoover error at Boulder Dam to be repeated in the Norris madness in the Tennessee valley?

Is congress to surrender at every point of attack? Is every bill, beginning with one debatable or dangerous discovery of new authority, to have a half dozen incongruous absurdities or insanities attached to it as it proceeds through the halls on Capitol hill until it emerges as a many jointed Chinese monster frightening the country out of its wits?

The sovietized radicals are scrambling for the highest places. The secretaries of the cabinet have visions of themselves as dictators, each a Hitler in his own right. Under such impulsion the government would soon be in full flight from the constitution, the representative order and the republican form. Not even the voice would be the voice of America and the hand would be that of Moscow.

Is the old adage to be found true? After a fine start is the Democratic party to defeat itself by its own mistakes?

THE NEW RUSSIAN TERROR.

The history of human conquests and despotisms has a long record of evicted or destroyed peoples, but the proposed Russian reassembling of the population will crown it all. The Stalin dictatorship proposes to proscribe and restrict according to communistic qualifications. Most of the agricultural population is to be tied to the land, much as the old serf was. The important industrial and metropolitan areas of the west are to be inhabited only by the selected beneficiaries of the proletarian dictatorship, the simon pure zealots of the revolution whose allegiance is unquestioned and whose party regularity is proof against even espionage. All other Russians are proscribed. They will be expelled into other regions. They will be moved from their homes and thrown into the wilderness.

The proscribed class, rural and urban combined, is the larger part of the people. They will be in luck merely to be tied to the soil. The more unfortunate, merely because they have been passive, submissive, dumb, or helpless, are to be uprooted.

Proscription scattered the Jews. It destroyed the Albigenses. It drove the Moors from Spain. It cost France its best citizenship by sending the Huguenots into an exile which it endeavored, it is true, to forbid. It peopled America with persecuted families from various parts of the world. But proscription never before has employed the calculating brutality of the soviets. It never before made the base of its selection so narrow to its own interests and greed. It never before sought out so large a proportion of an inoffensive and passive people, suppressed by an army, starved by edict, robbed by expropriation, terrorized by secret agents, and now to be taken from their miserable homes and thrown to the brambles.

CHICAGO WILL COME BACK FIRST.

Mr. Orr's spirited cartoon of Monday, "Chicago Will Come Back First," epitomizes the history of the city's hundred years to be celebrated by the World's Fair. The moral is true because the history is true. Chicago has come back before and it will come back now.

When the Exposition of the Century of Progress was projected the United States was in the full stride of a prosperity which the people believed had come to be their new heritage. Their error was discovered with grief, but the ensuing hard times did not stop the World's Fair project. It has been carried forward just as if the country had remained in the flush of its wealth and its full pocketbook. A month from now the fair will open its gates. It will be a sign to the world that Chicago is not paralyzed under the blows which destroyed so much material welfare and so many hopes.

There was a skeptical world which did not believe that this city could make a success of the Columbian Exposition. The incredulous became the stupefied. People who thought it would be a miracle if Chicago could produce anything worthy as a celebration of the discovery of America admitted that the miracle had been performed. Thereafter until now world fairs have been imitations, and many unsuccessful imitations, of the Chicago Fair of '93. Again there may be for a while a skeptical world, but the outcome will be the same. What was done in 1893 will be repeated in 1933. Such world fairs as come in the next generation or two will have a new model.

This summer Chicago offers itself to the view of the country and the world at large as the producer of another miracle, if that is what people unacquainted with the city choose to regard the achievement. With it as a symbol Chicago proposes to be the first city to return to the enjoyment of its natural advantages. This country is the land of promise and it is not the wilderness. Such being the case, it is not proposed that forty years shall be spent in the brambles.

JUSTICE O'CONNOR'S ADVICE.

Justice John M. O'Connor of the Illinois Appellate court believes that the premises upon which the Supreme court's decree in the lake level case was based were so faulty that a motion to reconsider the whole matter is in order. In his letter published in THE TRIBUNE on April 30 Mr. Justice O'Connor observes that several months after the court's decree was issued the lakes had risen above the level recorded when the canal was opened 30 years earlier. Under those circumstances to assert that the diversion had lowered the lakes, and therefore damaged lake states, is to utter an absurdity, he argues.

Courts, as Justice O'Connor says, must often place great reliance upon the testimony of experts, and often the testimony of experts is subsequently proved to be unsound. That happened in the lake level case.

"While it is somewhat late to raise the point that the case has been decided wrong, yet no court would refuse to correct an erroneous decision where it is demonstrated that it has subsequently turned out that the facts were different from those which appeared at the time the decision was rendered," the judge observes.

The opinion of so learned and experienced a jurist merits the most careful study. He has outlined a course of action which may well be followed. Surely no effort should be spared to obtain the modification of a decree which imposes an immense financial burden upon this community and at the same time threatens to destroy a highway for the nation's commerce.

FASTER TRAINS TO NEW YORK.

Fifteen minutes is a quarter of an hour and a quarter of an hour is worth saving. The fact has impressed itself upon the managements of the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads, with the result that the running time of the fastest trains to New York will be reduced to 17 hours and 45 minutes. Further shaving of the schedule should follow, particularly as regards the east-bound trains. At present the traveler can leave New York near the close of the business day and arrive in Chicago at the start of the next business day. The east-bound traveler, because of the difference in the time between the two cities, must leave an hour earlier in the afternoon. Starting the east-bound trip an hour later, without delaying the arrival, would be a great advantage.

With planes going into service which will cover the distance between Chicago and New York airports in 4½ hours, it is certain that the railroads will have to offer some compensating saving in time if they wish to hold their business.

Editorial of the Day

PLAYFUL AMERICANS.

[Boston Herald.]

In 1916 there were 742 golf courses in the United States; in 1930 there were 5,856. In 1900 the federal government collected taxes on the sale of 16,550,000 packs of playing cards; in 1930 it taxed 48,192,000 packs. In 1917 our national parks were visited by 3,160,000 persons; in 1930 there were 31,904,000 visitors.

These few figures, taken at random from "Americans at Play," by Prof. Jesse F. Steiner of the University of Washington, are sufficient to indicate the enormous expansion in this country's recreational activities during the last two decades. The trend is generally most commendable. It represents a widespread diffusion of leisure time and surplus wealth among people of all ranks of society. It has been accomplished, moreover, not at the expense of our essential industries but because of an increased efficiency in them. In the last four years, when leisure has frequently been involuntary, our recreational facilities have doubtless served as a safety valve for social discontent.

Yet the skeptic cannot help wondering if enjoyment of our expensive pleasures has increased in ratio to the number of golf courses built, packs of cards sold, and trips to the national parks made by family filled flivvers. Perhaps it has. Philosophers say that everything a person does he does by choice. But we cannot help feeling that most of our modern recreations are too organized and too artificial and lack spontaneity and inventiveness. Does the man who takes up golf to make "business contacts" get any real pleasure out of it? Does the woman who plays contract because "all the girls do" enjoy herself? Does the man who drives madly through one national park after another gain any of the benefits that the parks were designed for? Perhaps they do. De gustibus non est disputandum.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

CHARLESTON, CON AMORE.

(By S. M.)

People go to Charleston to see the gardens, and beautiful beyond all dreams they are; and people stay in Charleston for the cooking, surely the best in the world. But this old, old town that in one part seems pure 18th Century English, in another 17th Century Huguenot French, and again the ante bellum South at its best, but nowhere nor anyway 20th Century America, is more various in its charm than it is mixed in its ancestry. For you could take away its gardens, for all the azaleas and jessamine and cypresses and wraiths of Spanish moss, and its magic kitchens from which come those mystic glories of the South, pilaus and philpy and shrimp pies, ratifias and noyans and orgeats, and still have an endlessly delectable place to visit or, happily, to live.

There would still be its stately, storied houses, filled with the wonders of yellow and black willow and Hepplewhite at his best; its twisting streets echoing to the Gullah voices of the shrimp man, the honey man, or Maum Cloë with her tray of ground nut cakes from James Island; its aristocratic tradition that a lady's name appears in the newspapers only three times in her life—when she is born, when she is married, and when she dies; its fantastic ghost stories that Charlestonians place among the verities, ignoring the facile skepticism of a world that had not the advantage of being born by the Cooper and the Ashley; and, if I must make an end, there would still be St. Michael's church, rising slim and white and quiet above the crowded arabesque of Meeting street these two hundred years—for St. Michael's is, in more than a sense, Charleston.

Charleston's history has, almost from the beginning, marched by its doors; Charleston's humble and great have repeated almost the same ritual in exactly the same pews from the days of powdered wigs to the era of shingled curls; Charleston's wars have scarred it; her earthquakes have shaken it and left it standing; it has looked down on Charleston in her joys and her sorrows, her great days and her obscure; it is to me Charleston herself. They tell you down there (if you ask, for Charleston has a civilized way of taking her perfections for granted) that St. Michael's was designed by a pupil of Sir Christopher Wren, and perhaps it was; its cool and flawless beauty is worthy of the Master himself. But of all Sir Christopher's churches, it is most like St. Martin's-in-the-Fields, which, with a bow to popular belief, James Gibbs and not Sir Christopher built; but its setting is better, for Charleston's narrow, crooked streets and red-roofed balconied houses have changed little at all since St. Michael's corner stone was laid a quarter of a century before the Revolution. If George III. were to walk out of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields today he would be astounded and lost at the London about him; but could George Washington come out of St. Michael's there would be little architecturally to tell him that the second century had come since he walked there last.

And surely St. Michael's churchyard is not quite like any other in the world, if only for that curious monument in one corner, erected to the memory of "Mary Ann Luyten, died Sept. 9th, 1770, in the 21st year of her age," by her sorrowing young husband. The depressing wise men tell me that Luyten was a cabinetmaker and, too poor to purchase a stone marker for the grave of his young wife, he fashioned this crude but touching requiescat in the shape of a bed in time-defying cypress. But one may believe what one likes in this world, where Mr. Einstein assures us that nothing is true anyway, and local legend has it that this bed was Mary Ann's own. At any rate, the winds and rains of more than a hundred and fifty years have done remarkably little to damage it; and if antique dealers ever become 100 per cent Americans, in place of the artless philosophers they have remained up to now, they will spread pictures of this sturdy, long-suffering old bed over the billboards of the country as a testimonial to the excellence of their wares.

A few steps away from Mary Ann's humble grave stands the marker to James Louis Petigru, Charleston's fiery anti-nullificationist and anti-secessionist for thirty years before the War Between the States. When secession finally came in spite of him, and Edmund Ruffin had fired the first fatal gun on Fort Sumter, Petigru gave up his own lost cause for his country's, and supported the Confederacy to the end—the grand, staunch old man! I doubt that Stephen Decatur ever heard of James Louis Petigru, but I have always thought that his famous words, "My country! . . . may she always be in the right, but my country, right or wrong!" would be a perfect epitaph for Charleston's splendid old patriot.

From the quiet peace of the churchyard one enters the infinite peace of the church, and with the light falling softly through somber old glass on cool white walls and high polished dark pews, it is difficult to believe that anything at all has changed anywhere, so little changed is anything at all here. When I can escape the kindly, talkative verger I can almost imagine that I see them all coming decorously in—Washington, so stately and grand, marching slowly down the aisle to the pew set aside then and forever for him; followed by all the gallant gentlemen in stocks and ruffles, shining buckles and powdered hair, and their beautiful ladies, splendid in stiff brocades. Lafayette kneels here and Theodosia Burr, with her tragedy all before her; Tarleton and Cornwallis, Marion and stout General Greene; L'Enfant and De Kalb and Lees, from Charles, mad as a hatter, to Light Horse Harry—the shadows are haunted by them yet. The bells in the steeple have traveled five times across the Atlantic in their checkered history, been cracked and remolded in the same British molds, but they are the same bells that announced the fall of Quebec, the Declaration of Independence, Yorktown, Secession, and Armistice, 1918. In a world of change Charleston changes less than anything, and St. Michael's changes not at all. Serene and aloof and above all permanent, it remains a wistful reminder of a civilization that elsewhere has vanished from the earth.

THE WHY OF SOME ECZEMAS.

DR. CAREY P. McCORD says that we have so divided and specialized man's work that we now recognize 7,000 occupations. In 5,600 of these the workers are exposed to some kind of occupational hazard. About one thousand chemical, bacterial, and physical causes are now recognized as due to occupation or, at least, as closely associated therewith. This does not mean that there are that many different occupational diseases, since one disease may result from any one of many causes. For instance, a dermatitis, sometimes called eczema and sometimes nettle rash, may be caused by exposure to any one of perhaps a hundred substances, and asthma has an even more miscellaneous parentage.

In America alone, Dr. McCord says, there are in each year more than 50,000 cases of skin disease due to occupational exposure. He gives the following illustrations of disorders of different kinds but all due to exposures in the day's work, or the day's life other than work.

A saleswoman in a department store had an asthma. It was not due to feathers or pollens, but was caused by the dye used on furs she sold. Two men working in a tobacco factory had peripheral neuritis. It was not caused by nicotine. It was due to arsenic sprays used on the growing plants. Worming tobacco in the old fashioned way was backbreaking and not very effective. But there are drawbacks to the new method.

Many persons clean their clothes with noninflammable fluids. Some of them develop carbon tetrachloride poisoning. We use insect powders, either as powders or in solution as sprays, to kill or repel insects in our homes and workshops. Both the powdered drug plant and the solvents used to put it in a spray form have mild toxic properties.

At certain seasons of the year we hunt rabbits. Since rabbit meat is quite as good as chicken, beef, or squirrel, we bring our game home, skin it, cut it up, and eat it. Some of us pay for this indulgence in tularemia.

After a day's labor, when our hands are greasy and dirty, we like to clean up with a sandsoap, generally one with a trade name. These cleaners are apt to be combinations of soap and silica, known to be a very dangerous compound. If breathed as dust from a sandsoap powder, a rapidly progressive and severe form of silicosis results. Used as sand, soap is generally employed and occasionally some one is harmed.

Workers in sawmills and planing mills are subject to some forms of wood poisoning and some of them get diseases due to fungi.

Continuing in the same tempo, Dr. McCord tells of one plant where several workmen developed bladder tumors. These were the result of benzidine. Other anilines are capable of producing tumors. In certain industries the skin is more or less continually soiled by mineral oils and coal tar substances. In these circumstances tar cancers develop. Silicosis is a hazard in more than one occupation. Ulcers of the stomach may be caused by exposure to fumes of zinc sulphate in galvanizing plants.

CAUSE OF GOUT.

T. R. writes: Will you please publish the cause and treatment of gout? My brother has this trouble. He is 70 years old and eats sparingly of well balanced foods.

REPLY.

Gout is generally attributed to overeating and overdrinking. The especially harmful foods are meats, heavily seasoned dishes, rich foods, alcoholic beverages. This is known as the uric acid theory. This theory is not as secure in its hold on physicians as it was some years ago, but it is still accepted as the cause of gout. The treatment consists in taking colchicum and iodides. Baths are of service. Change in diet and eating habits and, in some instances, climate are of first importance.

UNMUZZLED DOGS.

Chicago, April 29.—[Friend of the People.]—What, if anything, can be done about a dog that runs around with a mailman in this neighborhood without a muzzle and tears up lawns, scares the people, and menaces children by lunging at them? Other dogs bark at him, creating a disturbance. V. S.

An officer was assigned to investigate this complaint, and reports that the owner of the dog states that his fence is built all around the yard and that the only time his Airedale dog can get out is when some one lets him out, as, for instance, when the mailman delivers mail and lets the gate open. The dog goes out and follows the mailman around his route. They have a muzzle for the dog and will use it. They also promised to keep the dog tied up.

GROUP BUYING.

Chicago, April 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We are planning to start an organization for the purpose of group buying and would appreciate the following information: 1. Does a buyers' group have to be incorporated or have a charter? 2. Would it make any difference if the organization was run for profit? 3. Would it make any difference if we organized for the purchase of a certain product? 4. Is there a license fee? 5. If one man acted as agent for the group on a salary basis would he need a broker's license? G. S.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

40 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 3, 1893.

CHICAGO.—The first real business day of the World's Fair, officially known as the World's Columbian Exposition, was a quiet one taken in contrast with the stirring and inspiring scenes of the day before. Visitors began to arrive at the grounds early and found the White City quiet, clean, and peaceful, comparatively, although in the throes of the routine work which will be necessary for the entire completion of the great exhibition.

There seemed to be a Venetian fever abroad yesterday. The gondolas were in demand. To seat oneself in the sort of craft which the old Doges used to hire when they went out on a lark is a novelty this far west.

The "gospel chariots," as the Columbia roller chairs were yesterday dubbed by a young heathen because the young men engaged in pushing them are for the most part theological students, were not so well patronized yesterday, but they bid fair to become popular as the exposition ages.

Transportation building, the exhibits of which are rapidly filling in, was a popular resort for visitors, but the great crowd continued to flock to Manufactures building.

When Ignace Jan Paderewski carried his aureole out to the center of the stage in Music hall yesterday a good many people were surprised. They made their surprise audible in cheers and in clapping of hands. But Ignace and his piano was not the only musician who took part in the dedicatory concert in the white and gold Music hall which stands at the northern end of the Grecian peristyle. Boreas with his whistling winds played a symphony through open doors and unfinished corridors that affected the 1,000 people in the room more than even the tenderest melodies drawn from the soul of the piano by the long haired wizard.

MAY 3, 1917.

CHICAGO.—In response to the appeal of America's new allies in the world war the navy department summoned the motor boats and yachts of the great lakes into the ocean-wide chase after the German submarines. This word was brought west from Washington by Capt. W. A. Moffett, commandant of the Great Lakes Naval Training station. He has been ordered by the administration to rush the several hundred boats and yachts at Chicago and elsewhere in this region into readiness and speed them forthwith to the aid of our allies. Today mobilization of the fleet of swift small boats, which Chicagoans have watched idly in our harbor, will begin, and soon it will be a factor in the modern contest for control of the seas.

WAR SUMMARY. — Artillery supplants infantry actions on the western front. Paris reports the repulse of German minor counterattacks. Berlin, covering operations of May 1, reports the repulse of heavy attacks near Cerny, on the Aisne, and along the Chemin-des-Dames. Constantinople reports the reoccupation of Mush, in Armenia, held by the Russians since last year. London reports the British have driven the Turks from both banks of the Shattel-Adhem, in Mesopotamia. The day's admiralty report of the last week's U-boat toll shows a total of 59 British ships sunk. This makes 352 British ships sunk in the nine weeks ended April 29. Seventy-five Norwegian vessels were sunk by German submarines in April. If such a monthly loss was maintained Norway's merchant navy would be destroyed in a year and a half.

LONDON. — Another American steamer—the Rockingham, formerly the Nebraskan [4,408 tons]—has been sent to the bottom by a German submarine. Sixteen of those on board are missing. Two boats containing thirty-three men were picked up. The Rockingham, according to best advices, carried forty-nine men, thirty-six in the crew and a United States naval contingent consisting of a lieutenant and twelve men. Twenty-one of the crew claim American citizenship. The Rockingham was sunk on May 1 by a torpedo discharged from a German seaplane off Aldeburg [Suffolk, England].

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Secretary McAdoo announced last night that the first offering of bonds under the Liberty loan would amount to $2,000,000,000, bearing 3½ per cent interest.

CHICAGO. — Placards announcing "eggs 35 cents a dozen" appeared in stores all over Chicago for the first time in many weeks. Ten days ago eggs were selling at wholesale for 36 cents, and a price of 40 cents, which would mean 45 or 46 cents retail, was predicted. Then came the federal investigation and increased receipts and prices dropped.

WILL A FREE PEOPLE FIGHT?

Chicago, May 1.—The writer earnestly hopes THE TRIBUNE will continue to give much space to the subject of the editorial, "Will a Free People Fight?" Never before within the history of the United States has there been such a debauch of legislation and "rule" subversive of everything American as during the last two months. And what have we to show for it? Such tactics are in themselves a confession of inability and defeat. One wishes to be fair and patient, but one must behold with misgiving a stultified, regimented congress doing the goose step in an atmosphere of what appears to be a rapidly developing Lenin-Hitler complex.

In consequence of unprecedented unrest, arising from conditions for which no single people or party can reasonably be held blamable, the Democratic party gained unhampered control of the government of the United States; but rather than attempt intelligent solution of problems which daily become more acute, they continue to play politics on the brink of disaster, hoping thereby to make their future calling and election sure. And the party which, during one of the most nauseating presidential campaigns on record, promised to restore to the people practically everything—particularly "American liberties"—is now daily breaking faith with the people.

Moreover, that which is happening in Washington is characteristic of the entire country. Buzzard-like, the entrenched political machinesters are making the most of an opportunity to sink their talons deeper into the flesh of a stricken people.

Against such unmitigated poltroonery and asininity the American people will eventually rebel. 1933 AMERICAN.

Madison, Wis., May 1.—I happen to be one of the much contemned college professors; nevertheless I want to say Amen to everything you say in the editorial, "Will a Free People Fight?" Coupled with the above commendation are the following questions: Where has the editor been for the last two months? Why did you wait until liberty is about stolen before raising an outcry?

Your recent editorial on "Liberties Loaned Not Surrendered" sounded to me like a whistle through liberties' graveyard.

Judging by the many editorials and news items printed in THE TRIBUNE during the last two months, your vision was completely obscured by a beer stein. C. M. JANSKY.

Winnetka, Ill., May 1.—Your editorial today, "Will a Free People Fight?" reflects the spirit of Joseph Medill. It is, I feel, high time that THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE should stand where this editorial indicates it does.

How may we at once consolidate our willingness and ability to fight, and to whom are we to look for unity of action? JOHN J. SPEAR.

Chicago, May 1.—May one who has read your editorials for years answer your seemingly pertinent question: "Will a free people fight?" Indeed, yes, when our freedom is jeopardized! We won a decisive battle last November when we overwhelmingly defeated a weak, vacillating candidate and chose a most capable leader to carry on our fight. Thank God, he is not disappointing us.

It was that wise and able executive, Grover Cleveland, who said: "The communism of combined wealth and capital, the outgrowth of overweening cupidity and selfishness which assiduously undermines the justice and integrity of free institutions, is not less dangerous than the communism of oppressed poverty and toil which, exasperated by injustice and discontent, attacks with wild disorder the citadel of misrule." It was this dual communistic evil that prompted our leader to "assume unhesitatingly the leadership of this great army of our people dedicated to a disciplined attack upon our common problems." Remember, facts and figures are playing a very important rôle in that tragedy you depict as being staged by a "flabbergasted congress." HOMER H. RYBOLT.

Brookfield, Ill., May 1.—We, the American citizens, should give our leaders in Washington every support and encouragement to stand firm by the American constitution and the system of republican government it founded, so that we will not fall into the same chains of bondage that the European nations have fallen into. CLOTILDE GIBBS.

Chicago, May 1.—Thank God for both the courage and the wisdom of your editorial this morning, "Will a Free People Fight?" Enroll me immediately in the new minute men. W. C. H.

FROM A HOOVER REPUBLICAN.

Oak Park, Ill., April 28.—I must emphatically disagree with your editorial of April 26 entitled "The Hoover Republicans and the Republican Party."

Perhaps I might even go so far as to say that the majority of the statements contained therein were "dogmatism personified."

While it may be said that Mr. Hoover was somewhat apathetic in his relations with and government of the American people, this does not go to say that his every motive, thought, and act was not for the betterment of the American people as a whole and the individual in particular.

It must be remembered by all thinking American people that while there was no dramatic action accomplished by or through Mr. Hoover's administration, this lack of accomplishment, or, more properly, lack of coöperation, was primarily due to the stubborn party opposition encountered in congress, the majority of which governing body, through demagogical methods, held their party potentialities first and the good of the American people last. In this respect it may be well to say here that we may all be thankful that Mr. Hoover's power to veto was not taken from him during his last year in office.

The defeat of Mr. Hoover and his party did not prove dissatisfaction in the Republican ranks as well as the Democratic, but rather tended to reveal that a great many of the people who normally voted Republican did not know why they were voting thus, their choice being prompted by existing economic conditions and their present living standards under Republican administration.

Mr. Hoover's natural apathy or lack of dramatic appeal fell far short of offsetting his untiring, able, and unerring service to the American people; and the last election reveals a necessity for economic, business, and spiritual education among the masses. Despotism, fast replacing democracy, may awaken many to this necessity before long.

As it rose swiftly from the ashes of the Great Fire

CHICAGO WILL COME BACK FIRST!

CHEER UP.

In the midst of a calamity without parallel in the world's history, looking upon the ashes of thirty years' accumulation, the people of this once beautiful city have resolved that

CHICAGO SHALL RISE AGAIN.

With woe on every hand, with death in many strange places, with two or three hundred millions of our hard-earned property swept away in a few hours, the hearts of our men and women are still brave, and they look into the future with undaunted hearts. As there has never been such a calamity, so has there never been such cheerful fortitude in the face of desolation and ruin.

Thanks to the blessed charity of the good people of the United States, we shall not suffer from hunger or nakedness in this trying time. Hundreds of train loads of provisions are coming forward to us with all speed from every quarter, from Maine to Omaha. Some have already arrived—more will reach us before these words are printed. Three-fourths of our inhabited area is still saved. The water supply will be speedily renewed. Steam fire engines from a dozen neighboring cities have already arrived, and more are on their way. It seems impossible that any further progress should be made by the flames, or that any new fire should break out that would not be instantly extinguished.

Already contracts have been made for rebuilding some of the burned blocks, and the clearing away of the debris will begin today, if the heat is so far subdued that the charred material can be handled. Field, Leiter & Co. and John V. Farwell & Co. will recommence business today. The money and securities in all the banks are safe. The railroads are working with all their energies to bring us out of our affliction. The three hundred millions of capital invested in these roads is bound to see us through. They have been built with special reference to a great commercial mart of this place, and they cannot fail to sustain us.

CHICAGO MUST RISE AGAIN.

We do not belittle the calamity that has befallen us. The world has probably never seen the like of it—certainly not since Moscow burned. But the forces of nature, no less than the forces of reason, require that the exchanges of a great region should be conducted here. Ten, twenty years may be required to reconstruct our fair city, but the capital to rebuild it fireproof will be forthcoming. The losses we have suffered must be borne; but the place, the time, and the men are here, to commence at the bottom and work up again; not at the bottom, neither, for we have credit in every land, and the experience of one upbuilding of Chicago to help us. Let us all cheer up, save what is yet left, and we shall come out right. The Christian world is coming to our relief. The worst is already over. In a few days more all the dangers will be past, and we can resume the battle of life with Christian faith and western grit. Let us all cheer up!

Reprinted from The Chicago Tribune October 11, 1871.

IN 1871 after the city had been laid waste by terrible fire the people of Chicago met their reverses with indomitable courage. The spirit of the men of the time did not falter nor shrink from the great burden of reconstruction. Chicago rose again, greater and more important in the affairs of the nation.

This country will recover from the depression which has slowed down business. And Chicago will come back first. Its location at the crossroads of the United States, the great resources of the surrounding territory, and the spirit of Chicagoans today are guarantee of it.

The newspaper whose influence will lead Chicago back to better times is the Chicago Tribune. It is the leading newspaper and the dominant influence in the community. Because it has consistently improved its product during the past several years—newsprint paper, printing, comics, features, and news reporting—it is today stronger than ever. With 50% more daily circulation than any other Chicago newspaper it is best fitted to help advertisers get business.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

TROOPS GATHER EVIDENCE FOR IOWA'S COURTS

Cherokee Prosecutor Would Arrest Soldiers.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Le Mars, Ia., May 2.—[Special.]—Iowa's speedy and determined action against the Plymouth and Crawford county farm rioters has netted slightly more than one hundred prisoners.

Several of the leaders in the attack on Judge Charles C. Bradley last Thursday still are missing. The prospect is that court action will be delayed at least a week.

Martial law trials have been decided against and civil court action is to be followed, with all its devious political ways, its opportunities for technicalities, and intimidations of witnesses. The outcome is regarded with some pessimism in this community. The military court of inquiry started tonight, with two witnesses, to gather evidence.

Talk of Vigilantes.

There is talk among business men of the formation of a vigilante committee. The sheriff who slept in his house while Judge Bradley was dragged from his courthouse and threatened with hanging may come in for investigation by the military authorities.

Maj. R. A. Lancaster, member of the military commission appointed to function until civil law is restored, arrived here today and began the task of collecting evidence and preparing the cases against the prisoners. This is expected to take about a week. There will be no preliminary hearings and prosecutions will be by information of the county attorney. Special prosecutors from the attorney general's office will try the cases and the state is expected to take change of venue to Sioux City.

Threatens to Seize Troops.

Cherokee county, which adjoins here, presents a new problem. The sheriff of that county is cooperating with the military in the apprehension of several farm agitators at work there. In the meantime County Attorney James D. F. Smith telegraphed to Gov. Clyde Herring today demanding that no troops be sent into that county, stating that the civil authorities there were entirely able to handle the situation. Mr. Smith closed his message with the astonishing threat that if the troops were sent he, as county attorney, and the other civil officers "would arrest the troops."

The governor said troops would go there if necessary.

National Guard authorities here would like to get the court of inquiry under way as quickly as possible and turn the evidence so gathered over to the civil authorities while the soldiers still are on the ground.

The prisoners are herded in jails and in a cattle barn near the soldiers' camp. They are old and young, some roughly dressed and mean looking, others in their Sunday best, mild mannered farmers of the church going, patriotic type. They are worrying about the doing of the chores while they are away. They were arrested on "information," just a whispered word as their having taken part in recent troubles; no proof has been brought against them, but they are not subject to release under writs of habeas corpus.

Two Years Without Rent.

One trouble spot was removed today. Mrs. Ed Durband and her family packed up their household goods and moved from the farm. There they have been for two years without paying rent. There was a dispute over $5,000 with the owner of the farm, and the court decided in his favor, but Mrs. Durband would not move. The farmers supported her action, gathering at her place in force to resist the officers. Now with the troops here she has taken their advice to obey the law, although she does not understand a law that would force her from the home that has been in the family for three generations.

Plymouth county, named by a group of early English settlers, has 2,800 farms, averaging 83 acres each. When corn was 60 cents and hogs in proportion the average yearly income was about $4,000. With corn at 8 and 10 cents, and cost of production over 30, the farmers have been going down hill fast.

Radicals Organize Farmers.

The patriotic Iowa farmer then came under the influence of radical organizers, and the land of the pioneers became the hotbed of revolt against the law and the government. While the city laborers were patient, the farmers got out their pitchforks.

In the old days English remittance men lived picturesquely in these county parts. There was a place in Le Mars called the House of Lords, where the remittance men came for drinks. A younger son, now a lord, kept a saloon here. So well known is Le Mars in London that there is an annual Le Mars dinner there, attended by white haired old men who remember when the first white child was born in Plymouth county, and recall the polo games they used to play here.

Demand Faster Action.

Now it is a question whether the national government plans for farmer relief will become effective quickly enough to keep the farmers quiet. Already there is talk of postponement of the farm holiday set for May 15, and which will be discussed by delegates from five or six states in Des Moines tomorrow. They think inflation of the dollar may meet their needs.

Bailiff Cares for Two Children

Father Is Jailed

Deputy Bailiff Edwin M. Carney announced yesterday in the Superior court of Judge Denis E. Sullivan that he would take care of Minnie Haluszctak, 13 years old, and her brother, Russel, 11 years old, during the five day jail term of their father, Wasyl Haluszczak, 2235 North Austin avenue.

The father, a widower, was committed to jail yesterday for contempt in foreclosure proceedings against a three story building he formerly owned at 2311 Melvina avenue.

High winds which caused at least six deaths in Illinois and more than fifty in three southern states on Monday had abated yesterday and the work of repairing the storm's wreckage was in progress.

Flood waters continued to trouble the residents of several western suburbs. A square mile in the west end of Melrose Park was under water yesterday afternoon, a culvert under the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks in the vicinity having been blocked by silt.

The number of buildings unroofed on the south side and in the suburbs during the blow was increased to about fifty. There was no addition to local fatalities during the day, hopes being held out that four persons injured by the collapse of buildings would recover. The only person killed in the city was Frank Recendez, 8908 Burley avenue.

Five Lives Lost Downstate.

Downstate the death toll of the tornadoes was raised to five. Mrs. Ella Lillie and Mrs. Ida Peters, who were injured at Maples Mill, south of Canton in Fulton county, died. Mrs. Lillie's husband, John, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. John Peters Sr., were killed Monday. The fifth downstate victim was an 8 year old boy who was blown into a river at Oakford and drowned.

The Red Cross sent a representative to Canton to give such aid as the homeless at Maples Mill may need.

At Carbondale it was reported that a twister lifted a barn on the farm of Earl Watson, carrying it away without injuring two cows and two mules tied in it. A large amount of damage was reported at West Frankfort and at Chittyville and Freeman, in Williamson county.

Further investigation at Shreveport, La., and surrounding towns convinced authorities that the total of deaths would not exceed 58. Earlier estimates had placed the deaths at more than 80. The known dead at Minden, parish (county) seat of Webster, were 35. There was loss of life also at Arcadia, La.; Magnolia, Ark.; Salem, Ark., and West Plains, Mo.

National Guardsmen were mobilized at Minden to prevent looting in the devastated area, and the Red Cross began the work of relieving the stricken there.

At Lincoln, Neb., Prof. E. E. Schramm of the state university geological department asserted that a red dust storm which blew over Nebraska lands from Kansas, Texas, and Oklahoma was worth many millions of dollars to farmers. The dust, he said, was excellent fertilizer.

Weather Aviator Forced Down.

Ray Colton, aviator who takes the daily readings for the weather bureau at a height of 16,500 feet, ascended yesterday as usual, but failed to land at his accustomed time and place. A search was organized for him, but soon afterward he reported he had been forced to land near Hinsdale because of low clouds over the Municipal airport.

Temperatures, which had climbed to the high 70s on Monday, fell in the wake of the storm. Yesterday's readings were almost constant, between 44 and 46 degrees. The official forecast indicated that today would be partly cloudy and rather cool.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

DURING MAY

UNTIL MATERIAL COSTS GO UP!
$98 Installed

EVERY family can now own a Kelvinator—the finest in electric refrigeration. Now—for the first time in Kelvinator's 19 years in the industry—you can buy a Kelvinator, a full-sized, full-powered, standard model Kelvinator for only 15 cents a day.

During May

This unusually liberal payment plan of 15 cents a day will be in effect only during the month of May. And the record-breaking low price of $98.00 is guaranteed only until material costs go up. When material costs do increase, and current reports indicate this may be expected any day, the price of this Kelvinator must go up because Kelvinator will not cheapen the product to meet a low price.

Standard Model

This beautiful model is a standard 1933 Kelvinator—full-sized, full-powered, with Kelvinator quality all the way through. It is not a new model built to meet a price!

The power plant is the same true-tested and proved unit used in the more expensive models. It is not an undersized unit that must run all the time to hold low temperatures. Instead, it runs only about one third of the time, which means less wear, longer life, and far greater economy.

Many Important Features

In the beautifully designed, ruggedly built cabinet, the product of more than 50 years of cabinet building experience, you will find many outstanding features. It has a Temperature Selector, with 8 freezing speeds; 3-Zone Cold; the KeepCold Defroster; rustproof, bar type shelves; Table Top; chrome hardware; porcelain interior; and many others.

Don't Delay

Remember, the present low price of $98.00 is guaranteed only until material costs go up and the easy payment plan of 15 cents a day is in effect only during May. Don't wait. Come in now and place your order. At this price and on these easy terms you can actually save more than enough to pay for your Kelvinator. Get your order in before prices go up!

THINGS

We Might Have Done . . . But Didn't

We could have offered you a new, untried refrigerator, deliberately built down to this $98.00 price. We didn't. We could have adopted a cheaper type of power plant. We didn't. The mechanical unit is of exactly the same type as that in the biggest, highest priced Kelvinator.

We could have used a smaller, less powerful motor and compressor. By running all the time, or most of the time, such a power unit would have provided a certain degree of refrigeration. It would have cost us less to build. But it would have cost you a lot more in the long run, since a machine that runs only a third of the time will last a lot longer than one that runs continuously. We did not compromise.

We could have built a smaller cabinet, with less insulation. We didn't. This model is full size.

We could have cheapened, substituted, reduced size, power and capacity—to meet a price. We didn't. Instead, we offered you our kind of a refrigerator—a Standard 1933 Kelvinator—at your price.

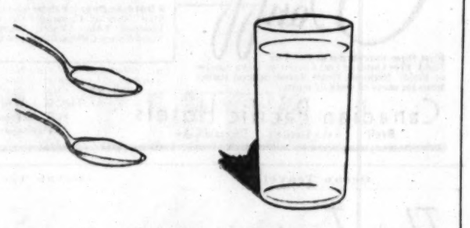
HOW TO GET RID OF ACID STOMACH

Almost Instant Relief This Way



TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

According to many authorities, some 80% of the people of today have acid stomach. This because so many foods, comprising the modern diet, are acid forming foods.

It usually makes itself felt in headaches, nausea, "gas," "biliousness," and most frequently in stomach pains that come about thirty minutes after eating. So you can easily tell if you have it.

Now Quickly and Easily Corrected

If you do have acid stomach, don't worry about it. You can correct it in a very simple manner. Just do this. It will alkalize your acid soaked stomach almost immediately. You will feel like another person.

TAKE—2 teaspoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with a glass of water every morning when you get up. Take another teaspoonful thirty minutes after eating. And another before you go to bed.

What This Does

That's all you do. But you do it regularly, EVERY DAY, so long as you have any symptoms of distress.

This acts to neutralize the stomach acids that foster your "upset" stomach, that invite headaches and that feeling of lassitude and lost energy.

Try it. Results will amaze you. Your head will be clear. You'll forget you have a stomach.

BUT—be careful that you get REAL milk of magnesia when you buy; genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia. See that the name "Phillips" is stamped clearly on the label.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM:

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

DEMOCRATS KILL A BILL TO SAVE STATE $51,700

House Shies at Abolishing Code Assistant Jobs.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—Given the "acid test" on economy, as one member called the incident, the house of representatives today scorned a good chance to cut the costs of state government. It struck the enacting clause from a bill which would have abolished the offices of assistant directors in all code departments. The vote was 62 to 57.

Thrown to the winds by this action was an opportunity to slice $51,700 from the annual expenses borne by the taxpayers for operating the commonwealth. And the responsibility for killing the bill rested with the Democrats, whose national and state platforms carried emphatic pledges for reduction.

Plea Has Little Effect.

A warning given before the roll was called by Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee] sponsor of the bill, had little effect. In closing the period of debate, Burns said:

"I can well understand," said Burns, "why members thinking of patronage might not relish the thought of passage of this bill. But let me remind my fellow Democrats that if they vote against it they will be repudiating the national and state pledges of their party."

Nevertheless, when the roll was called 57 of the 62 members voting to strike the enacting clause were Democrats. Conversely, 53 of the 57 who favored the bill were Republicans.

Here's How Members Voted.

On motion of Representative L. F. Arnold [Dem., Newton] to strike the enacting clause—the one sure way of killing the bill—the roll call was as follows:

Schnackenberg Backs Burns.

This particular plank of former Judge Burns' economy program was on second reading at the time of consideration. The sponsor asked that it be sent to third reading and was met by Arnold's motion. Then Republican Floor Leader Schnackenberg took the floor to support Burns.

"I regard this as the acid test of economy," he said. "It really means economy, for it would abolish a fifth wheel in government which has no place in the general scheme of state operation. If this bill is killed we might just as well pack up and go home as far as any cutting down is concerned."

Burns also spoke: "I don't apologize for speaking so often on this subject," he told the house. "I repeat to you that there are three ways to cut expenses: Refuse appropriations, reduce salaries, and abolish jobs. But the greatest of these is abolition. It makes the reductions certain."

Refuse to Abolish Veterinarian Job.

Burns spoke in vain, however, for his colleagues refused support. Most of the Republicans heeded Schnackenberg.

A minor Burns' bill also met defeat. This would have abolished the office of county veterinarian—a job which Burns deemed was overlapping with work done by state veterinarians. Representatives from dairying districts raised a hue and cry against abolition of these officers and the house agreed with them almost unanimously. On a rising vote the bill was killed, 85 to 8.

LAW IS INTRODUCED FOR INCARCERATION OF MORON CRIMINALS

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—Senator Richey V. Graham of Chicago introduced the long expected bill to provide for the permanent incarceration of dangerous mental defectives, a subject much discussed following the disclosure of the crimes of Iggy Varecha.

The bill, drafted by Henry P. Chandler, former president of the Union League club and the City club, is sponsored by a committee of specialists in mental dieases, lawyers and judges headed by Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, director of the behavior clinic of the Cook county Criminal court.

The senate completed legislative enactment of a Ward bill requiring cities to bear their proportionate share of the costs when a municipal election is held the same day as a state or county election. It also passed a resolution sponsored by the commission on expenditures to create a special joint committee to determine whether some county courts of the state may be abolished as unnecessary.

Attorney Joseph B. Fleming of Chicago addressed the senate in opposition to several bills proposing the licensing of chain stores.

Johnson Made New Chief Postoffice Inspector Here

Walter Johnson, mail fraud expert for 25 years in the postal department, yesterday was appointed inspector in charge of the Chicago office. He succeeds K. P. Aldrich, who recently was made chief of the service at Washington. Mr. Johnson served in Chicago from 1919 to 1929, but has been stationed since at Detroit.

KERNER FAVORS NEW PLAN FOR REDISTRICTING

Holds Illinois Scheme Is Illegal Now.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—All of the proposed maps for congressional reapportionment were chopped up into jig-saw puzzles today by an opinion given by Attorney General Kerner.

"Congressional districts," he ruled, "must contain approximately an equal number of inhabitants."

None of the maps presented up to this time, it is conceded, answers that requirement. In an effort to get votes for a redistricting bill these proposals have sought to preserve, as far as possible, some of the downstate districts, even though they fall far below the ratio of population—one twenty-seventh of that of the state, or 282,617.

Sent to Chicagoan.

The formal opinion was sent to Representative Sol P. Roderick [Rep., Chicago] as secretary of a joint special committee of which Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] is chairman.

It was requested because of insistence by some members of the committee, because of an opinion of the United States Supreme court last October in a Mississippi case holding that the rule of "compactness, contiguity, and reasonable equality of population" need not be followed in that state.

In that case, however, the basis of the decision was that a Mississippi statute of 1929, which replaced earlier laws, omitted the former requirement of contiguity, compactness, and equality.

After citations from the United States Supreme court in the Mississippi and other cases, Attorney General Kerner said:

"It is apparent from the foregoing that there is no limitation upon the power of the legislature in relation to apportionment of the state into congressional districts imposed by the constitution of the United States or by federal laws.

Cites State Supreme Court.

"However, in view of the decision of the Illinois Supreme court in Moran et al. vs. Bawley, in which the court said, 'Elections are equal when the vote of each voter is equal in its influence upon the result to the vote of every other elector—where each ballot is as effective as every other ballot . . . . any plan of districting which is not based upon approximate equality of inhabitants will work inequality in right of suffrage and of power in elections of the representatives in congress.' It is my opinion that to avoid the constitutional objection, there pointed out under section 18 of article II. of the constitution of this state, congressional districts which may be created by the enactment of a congressional apportionment act, must contain an equal number of inhabitants."

Representative Frank W. McClure [Dem., Abingdon] had suggested to the special committee that if the Mississippi case decision had been made before the Illinois Supreme court acted on the Roderick reapportionment bill last year, that law would not have been knocked out. Kerner holds to the contrary.

LARGEST OCEAN LINER IN WORLD FOG BOUND IN NEW YORK HARBOR

New York, May 3 (Wednesday).—[Special.]—Anchored in a fog so thick that searching tugboats have been unable to find the steamship Majestic of the White Star line, the world's largest liner, 243 passengers who were scheduled to land this noon still were fog bound on New York's doorstep early today with little prospect of getting ashore before 8 a. m. tomorrow.

A single passenger, Mrs. F. H. Frazer, was taken off by the Quarantine cutter during a brief rift in the fog to be rushed ashore to a waiting special train to speed her to Wheeling, W. Va., where her son had died.

Another special train waited in vain for its distinguished passenger, Gen. Roman Gorecki of Poland, president of Fidac, international organization of world war veterans and chairman of the National Economic bank, who was to have been the guest of the Army and Navy club at a dinner last night.

Then he was to have departed on the special train for Pittsburgh on his projected visit to American Legion posts in 12 cities in as many days.

Among the other ships delayed by the fog were the Westernland of the Red Star, the Dresden of the North German Lloyd, and the Bergensfjord of the Norwegian America line. All except the Majestic finally docked.

DOGS, WIRES AND ALARMS GUARD ART INSTITUTE

Robert B. Harshe, director of the Chicago Art institute, commenting yesterday on the theft of $35,000 worth of paintings from the Brooklyn museum, said such a theft would be impossible in the Chicago institution. Two police dogs, Prince and Teggy; armed guards, wiring devices, and alarms are among the precautions against theft in the Chicago institute, the director said. During the World's Fair, when $15,000,000 worth of paintings will be added to those already on display in the museum, extra guards will be added to the force.

Youth Held in $100,000 Bond on Gun Charge Freed

James Allatta, 21, of 940 Sedgwick street, held in bonds of $100,000 on charges of carrying a concealed weapon, disorderly conduct, and being a fugitive from justice, was freed yesterday by Judge Howard W. Hayes in the Felony court when the state nol prossed the cases. Allatta was arrested near an automobile in which police found a high powered rifle. Assistant State's Attorney Gordon Nash said he had been informed Allatta is at liberty on $5,000 bond pending hearing of a burglary charge in Madison, Wis.

Gangster "Secret Six" Freed by Judge McGarry

The members of Sam Hunt's gangster "Secret Six" were freed of disorderly conduct charges yesterday in the South State street court of Judge Joseph H. McGarry. The defendants, all alleged members of the old Capone gang, are Hunt, Tony Accardo, Louis Romano, Edward Guida, Louis Kramer and Michael Spranze. They were arrested in a room at the Congress hotel after it had been reported that they were serving as an "underworld detective agency" to aid John (Jake the Barber) Factor in the search for his kidnaped son, Jerome, who since has been returned.

PREDICTS IDLE WILL TAKE ALL GARDEN SPACE

Ryerson Explains 2 Types of Relief.

Chicago's idle will oversubscribe the available land for relief gardens by the first of June, it was predicted yesterday by Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

After conferring with Joseph L. Moss, director of the Cook county bureau of public welfare, Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the state emergency relief commission, and C. B. Goodspeed, assistant to the commission's chairman, Mr. Ryerson declared that at least 5,000 familier on the relief rolls and probably several thousand more would avail themselves of the county's garden project.

May Need More Land.

"We expect to make the opportunity of a family providing its own fresh garden products available to every client in the next few weeks," Mr. Moss declared. "In fact, we expect that more land than is now being prepared will be required."

Special inducements are being offered the relief "clients" by the relief agencies, it was explained. There will be no free gardens, but every family which is able to care for a garden will be approached with the possibilities of being aided by the relief agencies in providing for at least $35 to $40 worth of fresh foods which they would not otherwise secure this summer and fall.

In consideration of this, the family will pay for preparing the land and seeding it, plus transportation and expert gardening aid, to cost $9 a family. This sum will be deducted from the family's relief order in three installments during August, September, and November.

700 Acres of Land Ready.

It was pointed out in the conference that while few families on the relief rolls have applied for their gardens, this project has not been given major attention by relief workers to date. More than 700 acres of land has been prepared, however, seeds have been purchased and supervision and equipment made ready for the families to begin June 1.

Two types of gardens are provided by relief agency garden service, of which Warner G. Baird is chairman. Neither is free, but does provide supervision, seeds, securing of garden plots and other services on a cost basis.

One type of gardens is provided for those on public relief lists. The other type is maintained by community groups, such as the American Legion, Lions and Kiwanis clubs, churches, and other civic agencies. These 53 groups, organized by the Baird committee, will provide gardens, seeds at cost, and expert guidance for any family, whether or not on public relief.

Body of Youth Found in Shed; Exposure Blamed

The body of an unidentified boy, about 19, was found by William N. Sanders yesterday in a woodshed in the rear of his home at 1100 North Wood street. Sanders told Racine avenue police he observed loose boards on the roof, climbed up to fix them, and found the body. It was believed the youth had crawled into the shed and died of exposure during the cold weather about three months ago.

MOTOR TRUCKING INTERESTS FIGHT RAILWAYS' BILL

See Higher Costs to Milk Buyers.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—The motor truck was defended as an economic transportation agency in testimony this afternoon before the senate sitting as a committee of the whole.

The witnesses, representing agriculture and industry, appeared in opposition to senate bill 316, supported by railroad interests. That bill would reduce the maximum legal gross weight of highway carriers from 40,000 to 20,000 pounds, and the maximum legal length of any truck and trailer combination from forty to thirty feet, and the length of any single unit from thirty-five to twenty-six and a half feet.

Foresees Higher Milk Price.

Louis E. Hart, representing the Chicago milk dealers' association, said the bill would increase the cost of milk to the consumer by driving dairy farmers to patronize the railroads. According to H. A. Pfister, president of the Pure Milk association, the boost in transportation costs from the proposed legislation would amount to from one-half to two-thirds of a cent per quart.

Prof. C. C. Wiley of the University of Illinois school of engineering, testified that the present weight limitations of 16,000 pounds per axle are well within the maximum load provided by modern pavement designs.

Mr. Wiley pointed out that the recent ban on hard tires relieved the pavement stresses another twenty per cent. He blamed illegal loads and weather influences for the destruction evident on many new concrete slabs.

Trucks Carry Live Stock.

Ross H. Strain, president of the Peoria Live Stock Exchange, testified that ninety-eight per cent of the animals hauled to his city came by truck and that the farmers are dependent upon this form of transportation if they are to hope for a recovery of their general economic welfare. He protested particularly against cutting the length limitations, which were reduced by the 1931 legislation in acts that become effective on Jan. 1 of this year.

William F. Neihaus of Belleville introduced a resolution passed by a thousand downstate coal miners opposing the bill.

Cites Gas Taxes Paid.

Chester Moore, director of the Illinois Highway Users' conference pointed out that the commercial carriers last year paid approximately $13,000,000 in gas taxes and license fees to Illinois. He said to strangle that industry would curtail the state's revenue for road building as well as to increase the consumer costs of articles freighted over the highways.

Senate bill 316 was introduced by Senator R. M. Shaw [Dem., Lawrenceville] and is pending on second reading.

BRAZIL TO ELECT CONSTITUTIONAL ASSEMBLY TODAY

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 2.—(AP)—After two and a half years of provisional rule, South America's largest country will elect deputies to a constitutional assembly tomorrow as the first step toward return of a normal régime.

The secret ballot and women's sufferage will be in effect for the first time. The vote is expected to surpass 1,000,000, a sharp decrease from the 2,000,000 who voted in the 1930 election, which was nullified by a revolution which deposed the government of Washington Louis Pereira de Souza.

$24.10 MORE FOR HUNGRY PUPILS; ONLY $27 TO GO

A total of $24.10 in gifts yesterday pushed the Hungry School Children's fund a little nearer the $24,000 mark. The fund now lacks about $27 of passing that amount.

Two contributors who have been constant donors to the fund sent in gifts yesterday. They were G. B. Perlstein and F. W. Virden. Throughout the winter a number of friends have proved their loyalty to the fund by sending gifts again and again as they could afford it.

The fund will need such friends as long as needy children are provided with free lunches in the public schools. Every penny helps to buy a five cent lunch for a small child or a fifteen cent lunch for an older pupil.

The gifts received today are:

$10—G. B. Perlstein.
$8—Sale of American Air Race tickets.
$5—H. G. S.
$1—M. J. E.
10 cents—F. W. Virden.
Total	$ 24.10
Previously acknowledged	23,948.67
Grand total	$23,972.77

17 Will Face "Loan Shark" Charges in Criminal Court

Charges of conspiracy made in the Felony court against 16 men and a woman, later indicted as loan sharks after they had been seized by State's Attorney Courtney, were nol prossed yesterday by the state before Judge Howard Hayes. The state asked that the cases be nol prossed because the 17 defendants will be tried in the Criminal court. The defendants are alleged to have charged exorbitant rates of interest on loans.

CUNARD ANNOUNCES the 1934 CARINTHIA Southern Hemisphere World Cruise

with HENDRIK WILLEM VAN LOON

Tahiti [Society Islands]; Rarotonga [Cook Islands]; Samoa; Fiji Islands; New Zealand; Australia; New Guinea; Alor [Sunda Islands]; Bali; Java; Singapore; Penang; Ceylon; Seychelles; East Africa; Madagascar; Cape Town; Montevideo [for Buenos Aires]; Rio de Janeiro.

A rare and magnificent exploration of the world's other side! And wherever you go, your vision will be sharpened by the most acute observation that has yet been given to the study of mankind and the world's Geography . . . for on this cruise your fellow-explorer and lecturer extraordinary is HENDRIK WILLEM VAN LOON!

MR. VAN LOON SAYS: "There is a proverb which hints at the undesirability of 'putting the cart before the horse'. There is also another proverb which says something about 'better late than never'.

"I confess that I should have taken this trip ages ago. But it seemed so simple to get all my material out of other people's books that I never thought of it. Why bother about dragging these 277 pounds all the way around the world and make these few ounces of brain travel 36,000 miles when all the information I needed was right here within arm-reach?

"I will tell you why. Fire-side peregrinations are very pleasant and very comfortable, but they lack one thing—the immediate human touch.

"It is no longer enough for me to have heard all about the world. I want to see it. I want to smell it. I want to sense it.

"And that is the reason why, better late than never, I shall take this trip now."

The Carinthia sails from New York January 11th next, returning May 31st. 140 days . . . Rates materially reduced. For full particulars see your Local Agent or

TWO OUTSTANDING EXAMPLES OF Uniformity

Every line as straight as a string . . . every knee bending in unison . . . every heel set down at the same time . . . every arm in rhythm! Hundreds of men moving as one . . . without any variation. Dress Parade demands uniformity!

CADETS ON PARADE . . .
AND HILLS BROS COFFEE

Roasting "a little at a time" insures flawless flavor for every pound

THERE is nothing fickle about the flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee! The rich, enchanting taste you find in your first pound, comes in every pound. This is the result of Controlled Roasting—Hills Bros.' exclusive process.

Instead of roasting in bulk, Hills Bros. roast their coffee evenly, continuously, a little at a time. Day after day, year in and year out, every berry in Hills Bros.' rare blend receives exactly the same roasting!

Such uniformity can't be achieved by ordinary bulk-roasting. For roasting in big batches doesn't permit a uniform spread of heat. Disappointing flavor-variations naturally result.

You may think the marvelous flavor is just an accident, the first time you drink Hills Bros. Coffee. But your second pound proves its uniformity. And each succeeding pound makes you more and more of a Hills Bros. fan! Order Hills Bros. Coffee today, by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

FRESH ALWAYS!

The vacuum process of packing coffee, originated by Hills Bros. in 1900, is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness—the air is removed from the can and kept out. There is no magic about a vacuum can—it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh. No can of Hills Bros. Coffee will ever "go stale." The vacuum can keeps it fresh always!

Ground Right to Taste Right

No coffee, however good, can be uniform in taste unless uniformly roasted and uniformly ground. Hills Bros.' exclusive, continuous process—Controlled Roasting—and correct granulation insure this uniformity. Hills Bros.' granulation will give best results by the drip process or any other method.

Guide Children with Reason— Mrs. Bevans Points the Way

Declares 'Emperor Jones' May Be Turning Point of U. S. Opera

BY EDWARD MOORE.

IT was fairly late in the evening, twenty minutes past ten to be exact, before the most striking opera of several seasons began its first Chicago showing. What happened after that was of enough importance so that some day the turning point of opera in America may be traced to "Emperor Jones."

Perhaps it may be well to do just a brief bit of defining in advance. "Emperor Jones" is without doubt the most dramatic, the most exciting opera that has been brought out in these United States. It is a tremendous show. Therefore it stands a good chance of success just on that ground.

One must also include the premise that opera is drama with music, though no one has as yet tried to figure the percentages of the component parts, so much music to so much dramatic effect. Let this not be understood as a dig at the present work, expressed or implied, for I think that upon examination it will be found that Louis Gruenberg's score bears a highly important part in its coupling with Eugene O'Neill's play.

One admits that there is little that one wishes to carry away and caress in subsequent memory. Gruenberg has scorned arias—for that matter, he has scorned tunes. One hears incessant throbs from a battery of drums, squeals from the high instruments, groans and growls from the low ones. The one bit of melody occurs when Jones suddenly breaks into a phrase of "Standin' in de need of prayer" in the midst of his trials, and that fairly hits you between the eyes with its sudden, unexpected beauty.

But curiously, with all the apparent noise of the music, it never for an instant gets in the way of the drama. The action is never slowed up, the turbulent orchestration lets every word of the play through to the audience. Especially is this the case with a superb master of the art of singing English, such as is Mr. Tibbett.

The more one thinks about it, the more one believes that here has been a highly expert job of music making. Gruenberg has done an amazing trick of emphasizing, of underlining the text, of building up climaxes, of making the play intelligible and forceful. And, as one continues to think, it hardly seems possible to have done it any other way. Tunes are all out of place.

"Emperor Jones" is practically one long monologue for Mr. Tibbett. Another curious fact of the music is the way that it follows what a spoken voice would do. Sometimes the word is frankly spoken, sometimes it is what the technicians call parlando, at others it is a full singing tone. Always it is audible, always it is logical, and Lawrence Tibbett was never more of an artist in all his career than in the way he projects it.

He has something of Chaliapin's manner of suddenly, unexpectedly bringing you up to the edge of your seat by the sheer power of his impersonation. It is a remarkable study to see him start at the height of his power and then gradually, hag-ridden by his own superstitious fancies, go through the horrors of fright until he turns that last bullet in his revolver upon himself. But it is more than a study. It is a tremendous, almost a hair raising, show. I rejoice that he is not giving a single performance. Even the second on Friday night will hardly be enough. Be it added that a good part of the effect of the two operas was due to the fine work of a first class conductor, Isaac Van Grove.

Before "Emperor Jones," the audience had listened to an uncommonly fine performance of "Pagliacci." True, it struck no new note, as "Emperor Jones" did. It followed the traditions except that it was sung better than most performances. Miss Claire, Mr. Chamlee, and Mr. Tibbett made up a trio of singing artists that fairly glorified the familiar work with particular high spots marked by Miss Claire's "Ballatella," Mr. Chamlee's "Ridi Pagliaccio," and Mr. Tibbett's prologue.

Society Turns Out for Opera at Auditorium

BY JUDITH CASS.

Another memorable and gala occasion in the old Auditorium, another performance of grand opera for which society turned out en masse to listen to the music and to display its best gowns, jewels, and furs in the golden horseshoe of boxes and to promenade in the intermission in the foyer.

And again the keynote of the conversation was "Isn't it marvelous to be hearing opera in the old Auditorium again?"

"If there were white horses on the stage they wouldn't look like white mice from the boxes as they did in the new opera house," remarked one veteran opera goer whose name is one of the best known in Chicago. We meant to ask him in which opera white horses appear—we couldn't recollect ever seeing them on the stage during many years of opera going—but he rushed away to kiss his sister so we didn't get a chance to be enlightened.

It is late in the season for a really brilliant audience, one like those at the traditional "first nights," but the weather last night was more like late November than early May, so the golden horseshoe presented as colorful and entrancing a picture as if it had been a gala night at the opening of an opera season.

Every seat, from the first row on the main floor to the topmost row in the top gallery, was occupied and the theater was as grand in appearance as it ever was in its heyday when opera was housed there for eight or ten or even more weeks each winter instead of for a few occasional nights as it has been this winter.

Carpenters, Guests in Two Boxes.

Occupying two boxes in the center of the lower tier of boxes at the back—the most desirable location from every standpoint—were the John Alden Carpenters and their guests, the Charles Barney Goodspeeds, the John Paul Wellings, Miss Alice Roullier, Arthur Heun, the Chauncey McCormicks, and Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank. Mrs. Carpenter was stunning in white and pearls with a wine color scarf draped around her shoulders. Mrs. Goodspeed was wearing a becoming shell pink gown and American beauty red scarf held in place with diamond clips. Orchids with a pinkish instead of a lavendar tinge were her flowers and a delicate tiara of tiny silver balls was in her hair, the only tiara in the theater as far as we could see.

The opera glasses of many were focused on these two outstandingly attractive women when the lights went on between the operas. Then as the glasses moved to the left from them one heard the sophisticates say, "And there's Texas Guinan in the end box. Will you look at her eyelashes!" And look every one did for they were startling in their length and profuseness.

Mrs. Herbert Stuart Stone of New York, formerly Mary McCormick of Chicago, held court in the foyer during the intermission, smart in purple with a sable scarf, the color of her gown in stunning contrast with her brilliant red hair. She was with the Joseph T. Ryersons and Mr. and Mrs. Rosecrans Baldwin.

One of the loveliest looking women was Mrs. William H. Mitchell, who was all in white, except for a brilliant scarlet lei of coque feathers, very becoming to her brunette beauty. She and her husband were with the Lester Armours, Mrs. Armour's blonde beauty set off to advantage by a costume of all white gown and short ermine jacket. Short ermine jackets and capes, by the way, seem to be the favorite evening wraps this season, judging by the number of them seen last night.

Miss Fortune Is Hostess.

A gay party of young people was one at which Miss Joanna Fortune was hostess and which was given to compliment her niece. Miss Mary Fortune, who is to become Mrs. William J. Lawlor Jr. on June 1. In the party were, in addition to the hostess and Miss Fortune and Mr. Lawlor, Miss Dorothy Moorehead, Miss Jeanette Peterkin, Mrs. George F. Douaire Jr., Miss Jane Fortune, Ross J. Beatty Jr., Daniel J. Lawlor, William Hunt, and Thomas Keefin.

The Paulist choristers of Chicago gave their twenty-ninth annual concert at Orchestra hall last night under the direction of the Rev. Eugene O'Malley. Anything more strongly contrasting the excitements of the opera two blocks away could hardly be imagined, yet here, too, was a performance of the first class. The boys of the choir sing with a tone of unearthly beauty, and the men support them with great ability.

Half of the program was of sacred music, the other half of secular. Two motets by Palestrina and Vittoria were sung to the memory of the late Anton J. Cermak. The soloists were George Lane, William Callahan, Walter Curran, and Frank Dunford.

Plan 2 Conventions, Summer School for Teachers of Deaf

Two conventions and a five week series of round table conferences and summer school work at the University of Chicago are planned for workers in the education of the deaf this summer. The American Association to Promote the Teaching of Speech to the Deaf will conduct the discussions at the university.

The American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing will hold its annual convention at the Lake Shore Athletic club on June 18 to 22. The National Education association's department of lip reading will convene here on July 4. The problems of prevention of deafness and attending to the needs of those who have lost some of their hearing will be discussed.

Demonstrations at the University of Chicago will be given by Winthrop Chapman, 18 years old, blind and deaf youth from Redfield, S. D., who has been taught an understanding of speech by placing his fingers on the speaker's cheek, and interpreting vibrations.

Good morning!

For those whose time is limited the Castle theater is an awfully good bet. The program consists only of the feature picture and a very short comic. If, by chance, one arrives at the end of the former, one knows there'll be only a brief wait till it starts again.

"Murders in the Zoo" is a program melodrama that's mildly interesting and suspenseful, and, oddly enough, arouses your sympathy for the villain. Somehow you can't help feeling sorry for a man who so adores his wife that he dashes about sicking snakes on her admirers, and, in final frenzy, tossing her to the alligators. Eric Gorman certainly does love his Cynara after his fashion!

Mr. Gorman is a millionaire sportsman whose hobby is to wade into jungles and bring back specimens of his hunting prowess to the Municipal Zoo of his home town.

His beautiful wife accompanies him on the trip you contemplate at the opening of the picture.

A member of the party, having lost his head and attempted to kiss Mrs. Gorman, is sent reeling forth into the wilderness. . . . Tigers do the rest. . . . On the voyage home one Roger Hewitt and she fall in love. What occurs because of this I won't tell you—but the picture will. And then. . . .

Well, events happen thick and fast in and around the Municipal Zoo. . . .

Lionel Atwill does an effective piece of work as the murthering sportsman. Kathleen Burke is properly jittery as his too well beloved spouse. Randolph Scott and Gail Patrick contribute pleasant romantic oases in their respective rôles of zoo doctor and keeper's daughter, who expect to wed almost any day. Charles Ruggles, as a stammering and inebriated publicity man, is as funny as the writing of his rôle permitted, which is not very funny.

Direction was apt and animals and snakes are fearsome.

Moral for men: If you with other's wife make light, BEWARE of a green mamba's bite!

See you soon.

Business Men's Concert to Benefit Bohemians

The Bohemians, an organization of professional musicians and those interested in music, will benefit from the annual concert of the Chicago Business Men's orchestra at Orchestral hall on May 10. Mrs. Avern B. Scolnik, a violinist, will be soloist. Clarence Evans is the director. To mark the centenary of the birth of Brahms the orchestra will play his Symphony No. 4, E minor. The orchestra, which is sponsored by George Lytton, has gained prominence throughout the country by its high professional standing, despite the fact that its membership is wholly amateury

Cruise Girl Has This Chap Eager for the Altar

BY DORIS BLAKE.

He met her on a cruise. She was wonderful, is wonderful. He can't get her out of his thoughts. Beautiful, sophisticated, she dresses stunningly. The kind of woman who makes every man sit up and take notice. He asked her to marry him before the cruise was over. She didn't refuse exactly, but sparred for time.

As we gather it, she wanted to be sure there wasn't a richer eligible. She did impart the news to the devoted one that it took a lot of money to keep her supplied. She had been used to it always. She regretted, under a soft Caribbean moon, that she had been less of a waster. He, manlike, assured her she was doing enough for the world looking the part she does, acting it, being it.

But away from the enervating influence of a Havana sun, perhaps, the man remembers now that he does not know one thing about the young woman's background.

Well, smarter boys than Baxter, we'll call him, have been taken in by adventurous ladies who tell nothing. He's in luck to have had the lady hesitate about accepting his proposal.

Maybe this fascinator had a husband awaiting her at home. You can't even be sure of that with one who tells nothing. Out for her money's worth of cruise, posing as unmarried, without need of committing oneself—it has been done.

We think Baxter had better just call it a dream, and let it go at that.

Black Linens Are Big Hit of Cotton Shows

A Splendid Opportunity for Contrasts.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Cotton pickers can start bright and early any day now, for some eye-filling cotton collections are now hanging in the smartest shops and stores. You may have thought you wore plenty of cotton last year, but this season you will practically live in cottons and like it.

Black linen may sound a bit Mussolini, but if you want to be laps ahead of the fashion parade you will immediately buy, beg, borrow, or make your own. These simple sleeveless new black linens are quite the newest hits of the cotton shows. You wear them under pale gray short linen jackets, or contrast them with lipstick red, rather old-fashioned fitted jackets with leg-o'-mutton sleeves, or you plunge madly 1933 and wear them under a loose boxy, smocklike coat of natural or white linen crash.

Black linen frocks certainly offer ample opportunities for the knowing gal . . . for with proper imagination you can make one black dress look like ten different costumes if you know your costume accessories. For instance, you can wind a polka dotted scarf collar of orange through the shoulder straps, use a matching band around a black hat . . . or you can tie this black foundation up with breezy plaids featuring red and green and white . . . you can wear a kelly green plaid swagger coat of the new thinly woven cottons that look like homespun . . . you can wear contrasts of all shades of gray, stunning accents of sun-tan beige, knockout combinations of powder blue or coral, and even then have lots of possibilities left to buy.

There are some linen suits that you can have for next to nothing at all . . . tailored swanky things of white and oyster white rough linen . . . tailored as impeccably as any man tailored wool suit. Then, as an alternative, you can buy some of the best looking Palm Beach suits that have been seen in years—genuine Palm Beach cloth that knows nothing but good smooth unwrinkled behavior, and you can buy dull chalk white or the snappy new natural tints that are as surprisingly smart as they are different.

At last some designer has sent suits with contrasting colored combines. At last you can buy a sleek black linen skirt teamed with a white linen tailored coat, with a wool looking candy striped thin linen blouse of red and white stripe. Or a ginger brown skirt that is sold with a jacket of deep sun-tan linen and a checked blouse of white and green or white and brown.

A few new arrivals are featuring a delightful sun-tan backless frock of coarse cotton or linen, to be topped with a short, perky, stiffened cape that reaches the waistline. Huge decorative buttons, sometimes in bone or metal, are all the snap these cool, fashionable cottons need to complete their swank.

Junior League Committee Picks Margot Atkin for Second Term

Nominated for Presidency; Annual Meeting Will Be Held Monday at Fair Grounds.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WE have heard rumors from several sources recently that Margot Atkin's engagement to a young Winnetkan, who beaus her around a great deal, would be announced soon, but Miss Atkin denied that there was any possibility of such a thing happening in the near future. And we are convinced she is truthful [even the most honest people, you know, tell white lies when questioned by what to them must seem like prying reporters about such personal things], for we understand she is the choice of the nominating committee for next year's president of the Junior league. And she undoubtedly wouldn't accept the reëlection if she were planning to be a bride soon. She has been such a splendid president this last year that every one is delighted that she is to serve a second term.

The other nominations are: First vice president, Mrs. Alfred M. Wolfe; second vice president, Miss Louise Neff; secretary, Miss Jean Armstrong; treasurer, Miss Harriet Borland; directors, Mrs. James Addington, Miss Adelaide Atkin, Miss Elaine Blackman, Mrs. John L. Cochran, Mrs. Ambrose Cramer, Mrs. Norman Pritchard, Mrs. R. Hampton Ripley, Miss Dorothy Schmidt, Mrs. Carleton Scribner, Mrs. John Shaw, and Mrs. Ewing Webb.

Miss Neff and Miss Borland will be reëlections, too, and so will Miss Adelaide Atkin, Mrs. Cochran, Mrs. Cramer, Mrs. Ripley, and Mrs. Scribner. Miss Schmidt was the president for two years before Miss Atkin took office last May; Mrs. John Shaw is the present secretary and Mrs. Wolfe is a director.

Business Meeting Next Monday.

This ticket will be voted on at the annual meeting next Monday morning at 10 o'clock at Old Heidelberg at A Century of Progress. A number of important business matters will be voted on then, also, including a new system for admission to membership in the league and the dropping of the hour system. Instead of having a volunteer do eighty hours of welfare work it is proposed to judge her by the quality of her work and her general dependability and the opinions concerning her of the agencies where she works.

Miss Atkin and Miss Neff will represent Chicago at the association conference in Philadelphia, May 15 to 19, and Miss Marjorie Kimball will attend it as a special delegate from this region.

The Junior leaguers were planning to see a special performance of "Peter Pan" at the Children's theater on the Enchanted island Monday after the annual meeting and luncheon, but plans for that are a bit uncertain now, for the opening of the island has been postponed from Saturday morning of this week to Saturday afternoon of next week.

According to the present plan the dedication of the island will take place at 2 o'clock that afternoon and "Peter Pan" will be given right after that. Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. takes the part in which Maude Adams endeared herself to all children about twenty years ago.

Luncheon for Infant Welfare.

Mrs. William Waller will entertain the board of the North Side center of the Infant Welfare at luncheon today. After luncheon the members will stay to sew for the Seward park babies. North Side center's goal is from 50 to 60 garments weekly and it is not often that they fail to make this quota.

Miss Eleanor Litsinger is giving a buffet luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today so that Mrs. John H. Jennings, president of the Lighthouse Volunteer aids, may become better acquainted with the girls who are going to sell cigarets at the aids' dinner dance on May 13 at Old Heidelberg Inn, and make the girls better acquainted with the idea of service behind the aids' organization. The cigaret girls, of whom Miss Litsinger is chairman, are Miss Edna Doering, Miss Helen Marie Castle, Miss Nancy Traylor, Miss Betty Brawley, Miss Rosamond Baker, Miss Julia Kramer, Miss Marion Gordon, Miss Barbara Eldridge, Miss Ethel Dixon, Miss Suzanne Morris, Miss Barbara Graf, Miss Lydia Swift, and Miss Jane Fortune.

Mrs. Jacob Baur is off today for a two months' European holiday. She will sail Friday on the Majestic for England, where she will visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bartle Bull, who have taken a house at 2 Eaton place, S. W., in London. Then Mrs. Baur is going on to Vienna.

Some Unknown Woman

By Elisabeth Sanxay Holding

SYNOPSIS.

Dinah Allen and Jane Rossiyn are roommates in a Manhattan boarding house. Dinah, from the south, envies and imitates Jane's air of mystery and sophistication. Jack Fiske, a young boarder from Vermont, is head over heels in love with Dinah and resents Jane's being ever present. Dinah and Jane stroll to the corner drug store for sodas. A good looking young man in a silk hat, not quite sober, invites the girls for a ride in his car. To Dinah's surprise Jane accepts for the two of them. He takes them to his home. Dinah soon finds herself left alone.

INSTALLMENT III.

THE HAND THAT KILLED.

Not until the purse was opened did Dinah realize that it was Jane's purse, one very like her own. Not until she saw what was in it.

She sat there stiff with fear staring at that object. She had seen one before; her father had had one. It was terrifying to see it as if she had discovered a serpent in her friend's purse. A little automatic. . . .

"But why. . . ?" she cried to herself. "Why should Jane carry that. . . ?"

All the lights in the room went out.

She sat in the darkness making a desperate effort to control her quivering nerves. Sometimes lights just went out—and then came on again. . . . Or suppose—some one had reached in through the open doorway and turned them out. . . ?

She wanted to call her friend, but it seemed to her that if once she called, once she heard her own terror-stricken voice, panic would everwhelm her.

"I'll—open the street door," she thought.

For then she would be in touch with the outside world. Then she could call Jane, and if there were no answer she would get some one to come in

She could not free herself, she could not call for help. But she still had Jane's bag in her hand, open. Her fingers closed upon the automatic.

She thought she did not know how to use such a weapon. But she did know. The man held her closer, his lips touched her cheek. And there was, to her, something so horrible, so bestial, so intolerable in this captivity, this dark and silent attack, that a flame of rage arose in her. She raised her pinioned arm from the elbow and shot.

He released her instantly; she heard him stumble back, a chair fell over with a crash. Then there was silence, and her knees gave away, she sank to the floor half fainting.

And it seemed to her that the sound of her shot reëchoed, reverberated, filled her ears.

The lights were on and Jane was bending over her shaking her.

"Dinah! Get up!"

"O, Jane!"

"We've got to get out of here—quick! Dinah, don't you realize. . . ? The police will be here. . . . Quick!"

"Not the front door, Dinah! This way!"

But Dinah had already turned her head toward the street door. The hall was clearly lighted. She saw, lying on the floor near the door, the man who had brought them here. And she saw, running from the back of his head, a little dark trickle. . . .

"This way!" cried Jane.

"No. . . !" said Dinah. "He's—hurt. . . ."

"Dinah, come!"

"Hurt?" said Jane. "Don't you understand. He's dead. Quick, Dinah, for God's sake!"

But Dinah's strength had deserted her. Jane put an arm about her and helped her, pushed her, pulled her, along the hall, down a short flight of stairs into complete darkness. There she groped her way to a door and opened it and returned for her friend, who was leaning limply against the wall. She got her out into the area and up the steps into the street.

"Dinah!" she said in a voice cold as ice. "You've got to pull yourself together. At once. If we're seen like this. . . . You've got to walk briskly. You've got to stand straight. Some one's coming, Dinah!"

Some strange latent strength awoke in Dinah. She straightened her slender little body and walked along beside the other girl. A man was coming toward them; but for him the street was quiet and empty. As they passed he did not even glance at them, but Dinah in her terror and dread was obliged to look toward him. There was a street lamp nearby; she caught a glimpse of a lean dark face, a dark mustache, something in the fine modeling of the temples and the jaw that reminded her of some old picture she had seen sometime. Then he was gone; they turned the corner.

"We'll take a taxi," said Jane, "and get home."

But in the taxi Dinah broke down entirely. Shivering in a nervous chill, her hands like ice, tears running down her face, she clung to Jane.

"I killed him!" she whispered with chattering teeth. "I killed him, Jane. . . . I'll never, my whole life, forget how he looked. . . . Jane! O, Jane! He was so young. . . ."

Jane rapped on the glass, the driver opened the window, Jane gave him an address and closed the window again.

"Now look here, darling!" she said. "You've got to stop. Put your head down on my shoulder, Dinah. . . . There. . . ! Dinah, I don't think you killed him. But if you did you had good reason."

"There's never any good reason for killing any one!"

"Don't you believe it!" said Jane. "There are people in this world who ought to be killed—like rats. Got rid of."

"But I don't know anything about him! He'd been drinking. . . . Perhaps he didn't mean——"

"He must have done something, Dinah. Insulted you—frightened you in some way."

"He did! But that's nothing to—to kill him for. We had no business going to his house. He had plenty of reason to think we were—horrible. . . !"

"Dinah, you poor lamb. . . . Nobody could look at you and think you were 'horrible.' He was a drunken beast."

"Please!" cried Dinah. "Don't talk like that about him—now."

"Dinah, I want you to get out in a few moments and come to a place I know." Jane put on the light in the taxi. "Pull yourself together, darling. Powder your nose and your eyelids and put your hat straight. You're going to take a good stiff drink before we go home."

"You know I don't drink, Jane!"

"You're going to now," said Jane, "if it's the first and last time in your life. Don't you realize, Dinah, that you can't arrive home like this? You look like a little ghost. . . . And your hand's shaking so. . . ."

Dinah looked at her right hand.

"That's the hand—that killed a man. . . ." she said.

"You've got to stop that!" said Jane.

She bent forward and straightened her friend's hat.

"Now get out your vanity case!" she said. "We're nearly there you know."

With a sort of limp submission Dinah opened the bag—and gave a little cry of horror. For it was still Jane's bag she carried and she had mechanically put the automatic back into it.

"Give it to me!" said Jane. "Here's yours. And Dinah. . . . If any trouble does come of this don't say you ever had the thing. It's mine anyway. See, I'll wipe off any fingerprints you may have left on it and I'll put plenty of my own——"

"And you imagine I'd let you take the blame?"

"Yes," said Jane. "Because I'm older—about a century older, and because I'm stronger. And because I can stand anything."

"You can't!"

A Friend in Need

Bird Would Brighten Days.

"Dear Miss Brown: I am writing in behalf of ninety kindergarten children in the hope that I can secure a singing canary and cage through your column. This school is located in a poor district and my pupils have very little pleasure of any kind. They are a pathetic group of youngsters, and a bird would brighten our classroom considerably. Sincerely, N. E. McB."

GASOLINE ALLEY—BARTER AND EXCHANGE

HELLO, LORA! I HAD NO IDEA I WAS COMING TO YOUR OFFICE. I HAD A PHONE CALL GIVING ONLY THE BUILDING AND ROOM NUMBER.
YES, DOCTOR, MR. MAYBEE CALLED YOU. GO RIGHT IN.
I HAD A VIOLENT FIT OF SNEEZING, DOCTOR, AND THOUGHT, I'D NEED HELP BUT IT'S ALL GONE NOW. I'LL PAY YOUR REGULAR CHARGE, HOWEVER.
MY REGULAR CHARGE IS 5 DOLLARS. ARE YOU SURE I CAN'T DO ANYTHING FOR YOU?
I APPRECIATE YOUR COMING. PERHAPS I CAN DO YOU A FAVOR SOMETIME. YOU KNOW I AM ON THE INSIDE OF THE INVESTMENT SITUATION. A LITTLE TIP MIGHT MAKE YOU SOME MONEY.
I'M SORRY, MR. MAYBEE, BUT MINE IS MOSTLY INVESTED IN THIS AND THAT.
PERHAPS WE COULD MAKE AN EXCHANGE OF SECURITIES TO YOUR GREAT ADVANTAGE. THERE'S NOTHING I CAN RECOMMEND MORE HIGHLY AT THE MOMENT THAN CONTINENTAL CORNCOB.
SURE I'LL TRADE YOU. I'LL BRING DOWN A PECK AND YOU CAN HAVE ANY OR ALL.

Take Youngster Adventuring in City Streets

Many Interesting Sights for Him to See.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Have you ever gone adventuring with 3 year olds, or 5 year olds, or 7 or 10 or 15 year olds? If the spirit is there, the only other requisite is carfare.

I've written often enough about adventuring in the country, but this time I'm writing about the possibilities in the city. With the enforced idleness that many men are experiencing these days, here is a chance to turn it to good use—both for the fathers and children. Or perhaps living in small quarters as most people do in cities, mothers when Saturday comes can enjoy the luxury of getting away from home for a while and with their children experience, if they are young in spirit, some of the thrills that can be found around the town.

Have you ever stood in the very front of the first car on the elevated or subway train with a 5 year old boy and had the excitement of speed and the interest of changing signals?

Have you ever stood before an excavation with a 7 or a 10 year old and watched the derricks scoop out the very "bowels of the earth"?

Have you ever, in company with a young daughter, roamed through the walks of a park early in the morning, with plenty of time to watch grackles and starlings and city sparrows, and fed fat disdainful squirrels and discussed the different ways that trees grow—with bread and butter sandwiches and milk tucked under an arm for that "eleven o'clockish" feeling? Or walked across a great bridge and looked with delight and fascination at the busy, bustling river traffic below? Or made a fragrant [?] visit to the big wholesale fish markets? Or gone through an ocean liner, or other big steamboat?

These are only a few of the simple possibilities that lie within the range of the city child. Others are visits to the foreign sections of the city which can be fraught with interest.

Then, there are ferry rides and visits to skyscrapers. The composing room of a newspaper with its linotype machines, a power house, a factory—all such visits will have particular interest for the older boys and girls. And if in the foregoing I have omitted many suggestions that will fill up your Saturday adventures for weeks to come, your inventiveness will supply the rest.

Junior Bartletts Will Go East.

The junior Frederic Clay Bartletts are planning to go east early in June to occupy the lovely old farmhouse they bought last fall in Manchester, Vt. The house was built in 1796. The senior Bartletts, who spent the winter in Munich, are now in Paris, and they will be back at their Beverly, Mass., residence around June 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer are planning to open their summer place at Bar Harbor in July, so that they can be here for the first month of A Century of Progress.

Mrs. David J. Molloy, the former Mrs. Ethel De Porter Hunt, and her husband's daughter, Miss Catherine Molloy, sailed Saturday on the Ile de France for an indefinite stay abroad. Miss Molloy's engagement to Paul B. Magnuson Jr. was recently broken because of the youth of the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Otis have returned from visiting her brother, George H. Webster, in Colorado Springs, and their son, Raymond, and his wife in Santa Fé. They plan to remain in town until the latter part of June, when they will go to their summer place at Harbor Point, Mich.

Dr. and Mrs. James H. Mitchell have decided upon their summer home, and it is to be a house on the campus of the Lake Forest college. Mrs. Mitchell is a bit disappointed, however, that they are not moving into it before June 12.

Interesting News of Travelers.

Mrs. John L. Cochran has left for a week in New York . . . Mrs. Charles E. Brown and her young son are back at home from a trip to Cuba, and Miss Betty Brown, Miss Paula Uihlein and Miss Jane Brooks arrived at home yesterday from a stay of several months in Bermuda . . . Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Ashcraft Jr. and Miss Virginia Ashcraft and Miss Barbara Eldridge also are back from Bermuda.

Mrs. Philip B. Maher's sister, Mrs. Michelson Dick, and her wee daughter, Dorothy, who went abroad in February, will pass the summer months in the fascinating old town of Salzburg in Austria.

MINUTE MYSTERY
BY H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case-book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

THE STOLEN PACKAGE.

"John Butler, the fellow who called for Don Burns, is downstairs," explained Charles Igyarto as he excitedly opened the door of Burns' room on the sixth floor and ushered in the professor. Fordney raised the window, noted the nearby drain pipe and the paved courtyard below. "I told him to wait," continued the tenement house owner. "I thought you'd want to question him."

"Quite right, Igyarto. Now, from our previous conversation I gathered that when Burns left earlier in the day he told you to give a valuable package which he left in his dresser to a stranger who'd call for it."

"That's right."

"Well, how did this other fellow, Butler, get the key to Burns' room?"

"I had instructions to give it to him at any time."

"H'mmm—I see—when John Butler opened Burns' door he said he saw a man escape through the window and slide down the drain pipe——"

"Yes, sir. Then he called me. I thought of the package immediately—it was gone! I hoped the police might recover it before Burns returned."

"Nothing has been touched?" inquired Fordney pulling open the drawer that had contained the package.

"Nothing—Butler swore he didn't—and I know I haven't."

The professor pushed the electric button . . . twilight was falling and the room was poorly lighted by the one window. It was then he read the note on the dresser:

NOW WE'RE EVEN.

"Bring Butler here at once," Fordney requested. "H'mmm . . . that drain pipe was recently painted and—hurry, Igyarto—that boy's involved. Wouldn't be at all surprised if the package contained narcotics!"

WHY DID THE PROFESSOR BELIEVE BUTLER INVOLVED?

Jewel Studded Evening Frocks Shown in Paris

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS—[Special.]—The problems of keeping up the royal tradition of French dressmaking would seem to have been troubling the dressmakers lately. Worth, who started out making clothes for royalty of the second empire, admits to being licked in the race to make styles cheaply, so he's gone back to doing the real, regal thing. He seems to have the support of those ladies who still have a clothes budget that can be seen by the naked eye.

In returning to regality this season Worth is bringing out a whole line of jewel studded materials. These stuffs aren't embroidered, they are studded, with dots allover the cloth done in amethyst, ruby, and emeralds, like the dress in our sketch. For simple clothes Worth contents himself with linens that are studded with steel, and with wools and silks that have gold and silver spangles woven into them.

I picked one of these dresses to show you, as they are causing plenty of excitement over here. This model is made of a green silk studded with amethysts, and Worth gives the material full value by keeping the dress simple.

It has a plain, straight bodice with a daylight V-neckline, shirred a bit in front, and in back topping a diamond shaped peek-a-boo cutout. The bodice is shirred again at the waistline and held by the front gore of the straight skirt, which rises in a point over the shirring. A bolero jacket of green net, with puffed sleeves goes with this frock.

Entries in Spring Garden Competition Will Close Tonight

Entries in THE TRIBUNE'S home garden contest must be mailed by midnight tonight, the deadline set for the annual spring competition for recognition of outstanding gardens in the Chicago metropolitan area.

Any amateur gardener in Chicago and the suburbs within 40 miles of Tribune Tower is eligible. Winners will be selected by judges, employed by THE TRIBUNE on an impartial basis, in which the originality, upkeep, layout and charm, variety of plants, and general appearance of the flower garden are rated. Winners in the competition will be named on THE TRIBUNE'S honor roll of outstanding gardens, and a certificate suitable for framing will be awarded.

'As the Earth Turns' Happy Tale of Farm

Simple Story of Family Pleases Critic.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"As the Earth Turns," by Gladys Hasty Carroll. [Macmillan.] Published yesterday.

Winter, spring, summer, fall, and winter again, "as the earth turns," so the cycle of life on the Shaw farm in Maine turns gently, normally, naturally, inevitably in this first novel by a young woman who is daringly original in writing, today, in a day when frustration is our watchword, when dissatisfaction, unrest, fault finding, "nerves" are the leit motif of most of the 99 and 44 one-hundredths "pure" modern novels, a book which is frankly a happy book.

When I say happy do not think that I mean that "As the Earth Turns" is another "Pollyanna." There is nothing soppy about Mrs. Carroll's novel, nothing forced in its sentiment. It is the simple tale of a family the members of which had an honest fondness for one another and most of whom had an honest love for the farm which repaid their efforts so meagerly. There is nothing allegorical about the book, there are none of the great surges of sex and sadness which are so gorgeously pilloried in "Cold Comfort Farm." [You'll be getting bored with my constant references to that book, but it IS the kind of book that sort of clarifies a whole school of novel writing.] The author has even refrained from the trick of writing spiritual gloom into the winter, hope into the spring, allegorical harvest into the fall, and tragedy into the winter again. [She divides her book into those sections, but the division is purely chronological, not allegorical.] Mrs. Carroll has quietly recorded the quiet life of a group of Maine farmers who are human beings and do not find life a rack upon which their emotions are tortured.

In "As the Earth Turns" life is hard, but it is healthy, bodily and spiritually. The characters have little, but they do not starve. They live without amusement but they do not get psycopathic about it. Nobody hangs himself in the barn or finds something nasty in the woodshed. Love is as simple as the blooming of the May apples, and it has the same inevitable rightness and necessity about it.

The heroine of the book is a wee trifle too unruffled in her serenity, perhaps. She never is anything but gentle and helpful and kindly and uncomplaining. But even Jen is so definitely a human being that she makes the reader wish that HE might meet somebody like her, instead of making the reader feel that nobody like that is to be found on land or sea. Every character in the book is common in the best sense of the word. They have the emotions which are common to mankind. The great heights and the great depths of emotion are not the common lot.

It is the belief of the publishers of "As the Earth Turns" and of the Book of the Month club which offers it as their May choice that the reading public is a little tired of tragedy and frustration and will take to their hearts a book which they feel is a sort of American "The Good Earth." It will be interesting to see whether they are right or not. Surely the success of the recently published "Let the Hurricane Roar," which was an epic of the triumph of the simple will to live and love, lends weight to their contention.

"As the Earth Turns" is a tale of modern New England which Eugene O'Neill NEVER could have written. The adherents of "This Bright Summer" [Covici Friede], an anonymous tale of modern New England [Vermont] claim that IT is a tale which Eugene O'Neill might have written if he were a novelist. Perhaps. But I doubt if even the author of "Mourning Becomes Electra" or "Desire Under the Elms" would have conceived a tale so full of incest, murder, and bloody feud as "This Bright Summer." Change Vermont to Sussex and you have the perfect tale which "Cold Comfort Farm" riddles the way Annie Oakley used to splatter balls with her rifle.

Another New England tale [which doesn't stay there, however] is May Stanley's "Blue Meadows" [Little Brown]. It is more the story of the lure of the sea as opposed to the lure of the land than it is a purely farm novel.

Oxford Group Origin Traced to U. S. School

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Oxford Group movement, a religious revival method for converting wealthy and privileged sinners, conceived by Dr. Frank Buchman, is not an Oxford movement at all but a Pennsylvania State college movement transplanted to the famous English university for the prestige the name would carry to the cultured and educated people of the world.

This was the explanation given by Dr. Norman E. Richardson to the name of the one day revival held last February at the Drake hotel. Dr. Richardson is professor of religious education at the Presbyterian Theological seminary. He spoke before the annual Illinois conference of the Congregational churches, meeting this week in a three day session at the United Church of Hyde Park, 53d street and Blackstone avenue.

Dr. Richardson gave an appraisal of the Buchman movement which he said was based on a technique which involves seven principles.

The question of the name Dr. Buchman gave his revival method, which recently was changed from "the First Century Christian Fellowship" to the Oxford Group movement, was asked by a member of the conference following Dr. Richardson's explanation of the seven points. Dr. Richardson traced Dr. Buchman's career from the first development of his work among the students of farming and engineering at the Pennsylvania institution until at last he invaded the halls of English classical learning, first at Cambridge and finally at Oxford.

It was explained in Dr. Richardson's appraisal that the Buchman groups claim a four point creed of absolute honesty, purity, unselfishness, and love, yet he said the creed is short of the facts. Seven basic principles are needed to explain the movement, said Dr. Richardson. These principles are God guidance, fearless dealing with sin, sharing (which means public confession of sin among Buchman's followers), adequate expressional activity, stewardship but not ownership of this world's goods, the group and loyalty.

Dr. Frank Dyer, well known Congregational minister, formerly of Los Angeles, asked Dr. Richardson for the difference between the Christianity of the first century and that of Buchmanism. Dr. Richardson replied that Dr. Buchman's heavy accent on sin to the neglect of the growth of a healthy spiritual life is the chief difference.

and a large chiffon handkerchief of the same brilliant hue. Mrs. Ferre Watkins wore white with a lei of real pink carnations, the one she had made the day before to wear to the Hawaiian party she and Mr. Watkins gave on May day.

Petite and blonde Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, looking chic and well after a winter in Palm Beach, was in sea green, and Mrs. Winterbotham Buchanan, who also is small and blonde, was in white with a band of sable outlining the top of her low backed bodice. They do not look alike except in size and coloring but one curious spectator whispered to a reporter during the promenade "Is the lady in white with no back in her dress Mrs. Charles Harrington Chadwick?" "No, it is Mrs. Katherine Winterbotham Buchanan," was the whispered answer.

Some of the others in the audience were Mr. and Mrs. John P. Kellogg, the Cyrus Hall McCormicks, the John H. Merrells, Mr. and Mrs. John Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin M. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stock, Mr. and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn and their daughters, Mrs. Wesley Dixon and Mrs. James A. Cathcart, and their husbands.

Others Attend Paulist Concert

There was another notable audience gathered in Orchestra hall last night to hear the twenty-ninth annual concert of Father O'Malley's famous Paulist choristers.

Graham Aldis was host to both his father, Arthur T. Aldis, and his father-in-law, James Keeley. Other of his guests were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bissell.

James Bremner was "beauing" both his sister, Miss Alice Bremner, lovely in a coral chiffon and a black velvet wrap with ermine sleeves, and Miss Mary Ruden, wrapped in ermine.

Judge and Mrs. George V. McIntyre entertained in their box Mrs. Edward Hines and Mr. and Mrs. Loring Beesley. Then there were Patrick H. Peabody with Mme. Jane Jaboulay, stunning in red crêpe; Mrs. A. Hamilton Lamm, who was hostess to a large box party; Mrs. William J. Bogan with the George J. Astes, and Father John E. Burke, who was with Dalton Baker, the choirmaster of St. Peter's church in Toronto. Mr. Baker came to Chicago especially for the concert.

Soup Entering Realm of Cake, Savory Sauces

Forms Base of Tempting Vegetable Loaf.

BY MARY MEADE.

Have you ever tempted the family with a tomato soup cake or surprised them with a vegetable soup meat loaf? Or haven't you yet discovered that soup need no longer be just soup but can be a score of other luscious things at will?

Tomato soups or beef and chicken bouillons need simply a quick heating and a thickening with flour paste to turn them into savory sauces for meat loaves or vegetable croquettes. Many rarebits—or to be properly English we should say "rabbits"—lay their foundation on tomato soup. And the things that these vegetable, ready-to-serve soups are eager to do for us in the way of casserole cookery, oven loaves, croquettes, and meat pies is nothing short of astounding.

And since "life is none too full of such pleasant little surprises," there'll be no looking of gift horses in the mouth. So first for this most novel and tantalizing of cakes—

TOMATO SOUP CAKE

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
1 can tomato soup [1¼ cups]
1 teaspoon soda
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup chopped nuts
2 cups seedless raisins

Cream the butter and sugar till fluffy. Mix the chopped nuts and the raisins with one-third cup of flour. Sift the soda, baking powder, salt, and spices with the remaining flour. Add the dry ingredients alternately with the tomato soup to the butter and sugar. Finally stir in the nuts and raisins. Turn into a greased loaf pan and bake in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees F.] for one hour.

Or for tomorrow's lunch introduce—

SAUSAGE COOKED IN VEGETABLE SOUP

1 pound sausage
1 cup ready-to-serve vegetable soup

Stab the sausages here and there to keep them from too much undignified side-splitting. Place them in a shallow baking dish and pour the vegetable soup over them. Simmer in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for 25 minutes. This amount serves five.

VEGETABLE SOUP LOAF

1½ cups vegetable soup
⅔ cup whole wheat bread crumbs
3 medium sized cooked potatoes, chopped
1 cup raw shredded cabbage
1 cup raw grated carrot
½ cup cooked spinach, chopped
2 tablespoons minced parsley
½ cup finely chopped celery
2 eggs, well beaten
Salt and pepper to taste

Add the soup to the bread crumbs and let soak five minutes. Combine the cut-up vegetable and add to the bread mixture with the beaten eggs and seasoning. Mix well and turn into a greased loaf pan. Place this in a larger pan of hot water and bake in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees F.] for one hour. This loaf will serve from 6 to 8.

WARNEKE YIELDS THREE HITS; CUBS WIN, 11-0

HEAD PLAY RUNS PAST ISAIAH IN TEST FOR DERBY

Wins Preparation Purse in 1:39 2-5.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 2.—Mrs. W. Crump's Head Play galloped home an easy winner by two lengths in the Derby Preparation purse at a mile today.

Performing like a champion, he came from far back down the stretch, smothered Isaiah with his speed a sixteenth of a mile from the finish line, and won as he pleased. Charley O., owned by Mrs. R. M. Eastman of Chicago, was four lengths back in third place, and At Top, owned by Dick and Pat Nash of Chicago, was fourth.

Suffers Injured Leg.

Head Play ran the mile out of the chute over a track that was slow from an early morning shower in 1:39 2-5. It was by far the most brilliant performance by a Derby candidate in the west this year.

The west's favorite in the Derby came out of the race with a cut on the left hind leg.

Willie Crump, former jockey who is training the colt, did not consider the injury as serious, but precautions were immediately taken to guard against infection. Jockey Fisher did not know at what stage of the race Head Play received the injury.

Head Play was away well, then dropped back into the middle of the field of ten, where he encountered some crowding and pushing. He worked his way out of the difficulties and jumped into second place soon after they entered the stretch.

Comes When Called.

While still 3 lengths back of Isaiah Jockey Fisher called on Head Play for a rally. He responded superbly. A big streak of chestnut began unwinding down the home stretch.

It was Head Play putting on the speed. Once past Isaiah Fisher took the son of My Play in hand, yet the big colt won without a threat from behind.

Half way down the back stretch Head Play was in an awful mess. It appeared as if he was sewed up in a pocket. Somehow or another he worked his way out just as all great horses do.

Isaiah's race was not impressive. He seems to be another sprinter. But Charley O's effort should not be taken lightly. He was away last and the instructions Trainer Tommy Taylor gave Jockey Corbett were to be last soon after the start, let him take it easy in the first part of the race, then endeavor to circle the field.

Charley O did all those things. He was going fastest of all near the finish, but the mile route was a trifle too short for him. He could have picked up Isaiah in a few more strides. Possibly he would have caught the flying Head Play.

Bradley Pair Fail.

At Top's effort was creditable and she might possibly do as well in the Derby, but it hardly seems likely the Nash brothers will pay $500 to have her represent them in the big race. Bradley's pair—Boilermaker and Fingal—showed hardly anything and it is quite evident that Broker's Tip will be the only Bradley color bearer in the big race. Knockaway, the Irish colt owned by Billy Smith, the oil man, was last again. Mr. Smith left the track in tears.

While the western Derby candidates were racing this afternoon the five easterners which arrived yesterday took things easy. They were out on the track just for limbering up exercises this morning.

The advance guard of Derby visitors was in evidence at the Downs today. It seemed that most of these wise old horse followers had backed Head Play.

Ladysman, Pomponious, and Trace Call are scheduled to arrive at the Downs shortly before noon tomorrow. This will give the east nine representatives in the $50,000 race.

Head Play, Charley O., Broker's Tip, Isaiah, Fair Rochester, Stride Away, and Silent Shot appear to be the only likely western starters. Silent Shot will not start unless the track is deep in mud.

This indicates the Derby field will not number more than 12, which will be the smallest in many years.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

FEED BOX DOPE.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2.—[Special.]—Churchill Downs was wet and soggy from a heavy overnight rain as we tramped among the barns just after daylight broke in quest of information direct from the Derby candidates themselves. Although we had received a characteristic communication from him in the east before being shipped, The Wake never had met Kerry Patch, winner of the Belmont Futurity and earner of $93,330 in ten starts last season, three of which were brackets. So we sought the services of a groom for an introduction. In the light of subsequent conversation this was unnecessary, for Kerry Patch certainly is an informal fellow.

This chestnut son of Desperate Desmond-Polly McWiggles was attired in a pair of soiled gymnasium trunks with a faded bathrobe about him and was pulling at a fag after a breakfast which from the remains apparently had consisted of grapefruit, rolled oats, bacon and eggs, toast and coffee, with some other dish which we did not recognize at the time.

"Good morning, Wake," said Kerry, extending a foreleg. "I've heard of you through Jack Fitzgerald of the Morntelly, and he says you're a right guy. That's good enough for me. So we won't go through a lot of baloney trying to get wise to each other."

To my questioning glance toward dishes I didn't recognize, Kerry Patch gave a horse laugh and said, "O, that's hog jowl and greens, odd dish for breakfast, but I thought I might as well go blue grass right away; never been out in these diggin's before. Since a yearling I've heard about the beautiful women and the good bourbon in Kentucky. Well, I haven't seen their dames yet because I arrived only yesterday morning, and the only thing I know about their bourbon is that every one has told me how good it was before the eighteenth amendment, and a lot of good telling about it does me."

"But what about the Derby, Kerry?" we asked, for this colt is one which you just naturally call by his first name at once.

"O, it's another hoss race," he replied. "There looks to be plenty of class all right, but it's not the kind of class I like. Our eastern entries are cake eaters who wouldn't put up their dukes even if you called them a fighting name. I've scrapped all my life and I can't understand that angle. From what I hear, your western outfit is just a bunch of mugs, even Head Play and Charlie O."

"But after you won the Belmont Futurity you weren't so hot yourself and I didn't see your name in the money in the Chesapeake last Saturday," we remonstrated, knowing Kerry would take it right.

"Now look here, Wake, as man to man," responded Kerry, "I put one over on them unexpectedly at Belmont. It got under their aristocratic hides. After that the judges sort of pushed me around a bit. I got off badly at Pimlico in the Futurity which Swivel won. You know that track, and heaven help you if you're in the rear flight in a big field there.

"The Chesapeake was not a true run race. Mr. Khayyam got away winging and he ran a good race at that, but where did I get off—twelfth in a field of fifteen. I was thirteenth at the quarter and eighth into the stretch, and finished fifth, eased up a bit at the end. The Derby is three-sixteenths of a mile farther, so that's your line of me and distance.

"There's one bozo I'd like to beat. That's Ladysman. Ask him about these Kentucky dames. He'll know. Why, since you newspaper fellows have given him so much publicity, he's had to throw away all his old hats. Don't fit his head any more. They were too small. Wait till you see his toggery compared to mine. I gave him a trimming at Belmont and I can do it again. And if there's a big field and any crowding in this Derby, I can take care of myself and give a shove or two besides."

"Can you go in the mud?" we queried.

"Don't know," Kerry responded. "Never tried it but once, and that not so good, but I can sling it all right," and the Derby candidate whinnied a low chuckle.

"If you bet on me, Wake, you'll have a fellow who's trying and a heman. I take a bath in the morning, not a bawth, and I only shave every other day. Drop in any time. Doing anything tonight? I'm going to get up and shoot a few craps after Trainer Notter beds me down and leaves."

The chat took so long we returned to our hotel for breakfast, but we'll be up and at it again tomorrow morning.

Beneath all this real estate is Jockey J. P. Kabrich. Need it be said he rode Platinum Blonde, which ran almost last in the first race?

Tigers Bunch Hits in 7th; Beat Yanks, 3-2

Detroit, Mich., May 2.—(AP)—Fred [Firpo] Marberry held the Yankees in check just enough to enable the Tigers to defeat them, 3 to 2, today in the first game of New York's western jaunt.

Ruffing held the Tigers to six hits, but they were bunched to produce runs. The last four Detroit hits came in succession in the seventh inning and produced two runs which won the game. Score:

THAT CRASH, SIR, MAY BE RETZLAFF WINNING TONIGHT

He Bets He'll Knock Out Levinsky at Stadium.

Tonight's Card

Martin Levandowski vs. Mickey Patrick [8].
Tiger Jack Fox vs. Art Laskey [8].
Eddie Houghton vs. Jack Robinson [6].
Tony Cancela vs. George Panka [6].
Solly Dukelsky vs. Young Walker [4].

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's perpetual riddle, King Levinsky, who has assisted numerous fighters in drawing nearly a half million dollars at the Chicago Stadium alone, will be on view tonight in the same ring against Charley Retzlaff For three years, or since he knocked down Leo Lomski 11 times before the bout was stopped, Levinsky has failed time and again to win against major opponents, yet his public has continued to reward him by attendance at his defeats.

Max Schmeling, Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling are the only important heavyweights whom the King has not fought, although he might have had a shot at Stribling, and he has not been able to convince anyone he's worthy of a place in fast company. True enough, Levinsky once whipped Jimmy Slattery and Tommy Loughran but both reversed the decision decisively.

The King Is a Midas.

One battle may not make a campaign, but one fight certainly made King Levinsky. On the strength of the beating he gave Lomski, the King is noted as a hard puncher. But the King never has landed a solid wallop which knocked out a first rate opponent. Old Angus Snyder took the count one night and Jumping [K. O.] Christner went down and out under a terrific swing to the shoulder, the same shoulder Mickey Walker tapped gently the night at the Coliseum when Christner had difficulty jumping out of the ring.

Yet, Levinsky can show Retzlaff, once rated as one of the best young heavyweights, all the aces in finances. Retzlaff has beaten Dick Daniels and Johnny Risko, both of whom have trimmed the King. Risko has done it three times.

Charley Bets Two Yards.

Levinsky has never been knocked out, but Ace Hudkins bounced him around the ring on the seat of his pants. Primo Carnera outboxed Levinsky and both gave an imitation of two policemen, carrying 44s, shooting at sparrows with a sling shot. Still, 19,000 once watched these sluggers in action.

Add to this puzzle the fact that Levinsky is rated the favorite tonight and you will believe that Retzlaff is serious when he says he intends to knock out Levinsky. Charley didn't say it in these few words. There were several descriptions of the King which obviously had to be deleted, but his meaning was plain enough. Then, too, an authentic report has it Retzlaff has wagered $200 in real money on the short end of 8 to 5 that he'll lick the King. This bout won't be a Christner.

Levinsky May Lose Friends.

Levinsky may find his somewhat shaky popularity has crumbled entirely if he can't take Retzlaff. He may win at that. Gastanaga knocked out Retzlaff and Joe Sekyra beat him, the same Sekyra that Levinsky was awarded a decision over at the Coliseum. At any rate, whether it's a great battle or not, it should be interesting. What a cheer will go up if Levinsky goes down for ten, and there will be some yelling by the Maxwell street boys if the King winds up and throws a strike.

The supporting bouts are so-so Martin Levandowski of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Mickey Patrick, East Chicago, Ind., have been substituted for the more imposing Gastanaga-Ruggirello fight, which was called off when Gastanaga developed sinus. Both are fair punchers with some ability to absorb punishment. This heavyweight affair will run eight rounds.

Art Laskey, Minneapolis heavyweight, will try out his punches on Tiger Jack Fox, Terre Haute, Ind., Negro, keeping in mind that the first dozen won't make an impression, and that he must duck the Tiger's overhand service.

Sox Welcome Day of Rest; Face A's Today

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Rain yesterday fooled the gentlemen who last winter laid out the White Sox playing dates, so there was no game at Comiskey park with the Athletics in the scheduled opener of the invasion by the eastern clubs.

The Sox hardly regarded it as a disappointment, although the delay means a double dose of daily labor later in the summer. For one thing, they have been playing pretty steadily. For another, they wanted a little time to think over the three defeats they incurred in four days at Cleveland. And besides this, there is that Al Simmons batting slump which has the Milwaukee Duke walking the floor at night. A day away from work might bring him back in his customary batting glory.

Jones Faces Macks Today.

If the Athletics are able to make their 1933 local debut this afternoon they'll face Sam Jones, whose aged arm for the last week hasn't done anything more strenuous than lift a loaded fork. In his last start Sad Sam held the Tigers until he grew slightly weary in the eighth and in his appearance prior to that he blanked the same team on seven hits. Jones probably will draw Tony Freitas or George Earnshaw as an opponent.

The cancellation yesterday enabled Manager Fonseca to enter into a huddle with his doctor about the condition of the leg injured when the south side pilot slipped fielding a foul ball in the game of April 21. The doctor in charge decided to remove the cast from the foot next Friday or Saturday, and is certain that by the first of the week Fonseca will be able to take a little practice at first base. By the end of next week he probably will be sufficiently sound to resume his regular duties. His presence will restore some of the team's hitting strength, and also should improve the defensive work.

Al's Slump Lingers On.

The Simmons batting slump is a matter of great concern because of its duration. A few days might be charged off as just one of those things into which every good hitter tumbles, but the ex-Mack slugger now has been staggering around in eleven successive games. He had a real Simmons afternoon April 18 when he tuned in with three out of four. The next day he whacked two doubles in four attempts. Since then the going has been tough.

His exact mark in the eleven games since April 19 is 41 times at bat and only 7 hits. Twice that many hits in the same number of attempts would be about his normal pace. Because it has lasted this long, the Milwaukee expert has just about forgotten his real swing. He's all tightened up at the plate, and may stay that way until he really gets hold of one.

Several hundred of Al's Polish admirers from Milwaukee were scheduled to appear and bring presents yesterday, but they'll probably be back this afternoon.

TWO HOMERS BY HARTNETT LEAD ROUT OF GIANTS

It's Biggest Attack of Season.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 2.—The Chicago Cubs this afternoon put on their first real big and glorious frolic of the year as guests of the New York Giants. It was a stupendous Warneke-Hartnett 11 to 0 spectacle in which Lon allowed three singles, one a scratch, and Gabby knocked two homers to lift his season batting average to .385 and his homer total for the last two games to three.

Hartnett's homers drove in five of the Cubs' runs, though he didn't have the pleasure of sending the winning run across as he did in both of Lon's earlier victories. On April 12, opening day, Gabby in the second inning drove in the first two runs in Warneke's 3 to 0 triumph over the Cardinals and in Lon's second triumph, over the Pirates on April 18, Gabby's double in the seventh drove in the first two runs in a 3 to 1 victory.

Stephenson Also Hits Homer.

Hartnett wasn't alone in the home run business today, however. With two out in the ninth, after the Giants had executed their fifth double play of the game, Stephenson got his No. 2 of the season.

And there were other contributors to the slugging fiesta. Bill Herman had a perfect day with four singles and a walk and Woody English made three singles and walked once in five trips to the plate. Stephenson made a single, pretty near a double, before he effected his homer. Demaree, Babe Herman, Grimm, and Jurges got a hit apiece, to leave Warneke the only hitless Cub. Lon got two walks to play a part in the offensive.

Warneke didn't allow a hit until the fifth, and the only runner to reach third got there because of Bill Jurges' two base error in the seventh. Lon fanned five, getting the able Mel Ott the first two times up.

Enter First Division.

The day's goings on put the Cubs in the first division, in a tie with Boston and a half game out of third place. The Giants remained in second place, which rating they obtained by sweeping their series with Philadelphia and Brooklyn.

It didn't take the Cubs long to get into the score column. Demaree opened the game with a single to center, ran to third on Bill Herman's single to right, and scored while Babe Herman was forcing Billy. Stephenson then hit into a double play.

The Cubs again were victims of a double play in the second inning after English had led off with a single. They were retired in order in the third, and in the fourth, after Bill Herman had walked, Babe Herman hit into the Giants' third double play. Stephenson singled to left, but was out trying to reach second.

Hartnett Drives in Jurges.

Two were out when the champs got production under way in the fifth. Jurges beat out a single to deep short and Hartnett put homer No. 1 into the right center pavilion. Warneke walked, but was forced by Demaree.

The Giants made their first hit off Warneke in the fifth. Leslie cracked a line single to right. Vergez then bounced a high one to Warneke and beat the throw to first, according to Umpire Barr, though Manager Grimm didn't agree with him by about a thousand words. Vergez flied to Babe Herman, Mancuso fouled to English and Jackson flied to Demaree.

The Chicagoans chased Schumacher in the sixth, though the Giants' fourth double play held them to one run. Bill Herman led off with a single to left, went to second on Babe Herman's infield out and to third on a passed ball. After Stephenson had walked, English singled to right, scoring Bill Herman and putting Stevie on third. Uhle relieved Schumacher. Grimm then hit into a double play for the second time.

Moore Gets to Third.

In the seventh the Giants got a runner to third for the first and only time, without the aid of a base hit. Leslie walked and was forced by

ARCARO BACKERS COLLECT $199.44 DAILY DOUBLE

Sportsman's Park Parlay Again Won by One Jockey

BY BRUCE DENNIS.

Fans at Sportman's Park are going to start wagering on jockeys instead of horses to win the daily double. Some 4,000 who were betting in the rain yesterday were wondering whether the horse brings in the rider or the rider brings in the horse after Eddie Arcaro had booted and slashed home the winners of the second and third races. The daily double payoff was $199.44.

On Monday, opening day of the meeting at the half mile track, Jockey Jimmy McLaren won the double all by himself, with the assistance, of course, of a couple of thoroughbreds. Arcaro, who aspires to McLaren's title as the best merry-go-round rider in the country, set out yesterday to prove that he could do anything his rival was able to accomplish.

Makes Old Betty Run.

Eddie didn't have a chance in the second race, according to the lads who know race horses by their first names. He had the mount on Betty Barrett, a 6 year old daughter of Flying Ebony, which had won one race in 11 starts last year. The fans made Young Bill an overwhelming favorite.

When the barrier was sprung Arcaro had Betty Barrett off with the leaders and he kept her there for the whole trip. Betty Barrett, Brooksie, and Gypsy Chief raced down the stretch only heads apart and they finished in that order. Young Bill was far back.

Betty Barrett paid $73.24 to win, $21.94 to place, and, $8.98 to show. Her time for the five furlongs was 1:04 2-5, not bad for an old lady when you consider the track was sloppy. There were several good sized duck ponds near the rail.

Favorite Completes Double.

After that it was simple for Arcaro to win with Hamburger Jim, the favorite in the third race. With no more than a "here's mud in your eye," Arcaro and his mount jumped into the lead. They held off the challenge of Whisking in the stretch and captured the purse in 1:03 2-5 for the five furlongs. Hamburger Jim paid $4.30 for a $2 straight ticket.

There was some moaning among the customers [maybe it was only one] who had paired Betty Barrett and Spero, which took the show money in the third race. If Spero had won, a daily double ticket would have been worth more than $4,000.

Jockey Arcaro came back with the winner in the featured fifth race. He rushed his mount, Pulis, into the lead at the start and won by half a length from the fast closing Adelaide A.

Pulis was the only one of three alleged good things to go over. So much money poured into the mutuel machines at post time that Pulis' price dropped from 12 to 1 to 5 to 1. Then when his price was posted it was $16.54, slightly more than 7 to 1.

Betting Coups Go Wrong.

The first and fourth races saw other betting coups go wrong. Little Patriot was backed down from 15 to 1 to 4 to 1 in the first race, but the favorite, Lady Pal, won. Then Little Joyce came along to spoil the plans for those who wanted to put over Diadorius in the fourth. Both Little Patriot and Diadorius finished out of the money.

Arcaro made it four winners for the day when he rode Jack Biener to victory in the eighth race. Jack Biener, which had run out of the money on Monday found Greenwald his only competition, and Greenwald didn't provide much. Jack Biener won by a length and a half, and paid $7.90.

The rain, fog, and cold again appeared to loosen the strings around the fans' bankrolls. They sent nearly $100,000 through the mutuel machines. A check up on Monday's betting showed that $183,000 was handled. So that makes $283,000 for two days, which in these times or any times isn't to be considered small change.

E. J. O'Hare, general manager of Sportsman's Park, announced that Tuesday and Friday of each week will be ladies' day. All the fair fans will be required to pay is one dime, federal tax.

Diaquri, which was hailed as the champion of the half mile tracks last year, will start today in the fifth race, a dash of five furlongs for 3 year olds and up. Diaquri will have to beat, among others Tiny Wrack, a good mud runner, and Miss Melody, sprinter in the Stuyvesant Peabody stable.

There will be quinella betting only on the eighth race hereafter.

Time, :25, :50 4-5, 1:04 2-5 [raining and muddy]. Two dollar mutuels paid: Betty Barrett, $73.24 straight, $21.94 place, $8.98 show; Brooksie, $8.20 place, $6.36 show; Gypsie Chief, $4.80 show. Winner trained by H. D. Stewart. Went to post at 2:50. At post 3 minutes. Start good from machine. Won driving; second and third driving.

BETTY BARRETT, away slowly, saved ground while working her way to the leaders on the turns, withstood a long stretch drive, and outlasted BROOKSIE. Latter saved ground on the turns while racing with the leaders, challenged boldly in the stretch, and made a hard run. GYPSIE CHIEF raced well on first turn while forcing the pace, went wide on far turn, came again in the stretch, and closed strongly.

THIRD RACE—Five-eighths mile out of chute. Purse $500. Three year olds and up. Claiming. Net value to winner, $400; second, $65; third, $25; fourth, $10.

Time, :24 2-5, :49 4-5, 1:03 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Hamburger Jim, $4.30 straight, $2.84 place, $2.80 show; Whisking, $3.38 place, $3.90 show; Spero, $12.38 show. Winner trained by E. Suzzi. Went to post at 3:24 minutes. Start good from machine. Won driving; second and third same. Daily double paid $199.34.

HAMBURGER JIM, away forwardly, saved ground on the turns, was well rated after gaining lead, and withstood a strong challenge by WHISKING. Latter, well placed while working his way up, saved ground on the turns, challenged boldly, and was gaining on the winner at the end. SPERO, rated behind the pace to the stretch, tired when put to final drive.

Time, :25, :52, :58 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Little Joyce, $10.80 straight, $5.28 place, $3.80 show; Cabouse, $4.26 place, $4.10 show; Grey Hip, $4.14 show. Winner trained by H. Cooper. Went to post at 3:40½. At post 4½ minutes. Start good from machine. Won handily; second and third driving.

LITTLE JOYCE, much the best and forced very wide at first turn by FOUR SPOT, gained steadily when straightened out, and won in hand. CABOUSE, rank at the post and placed on outside, saved ground on the turns, took a short lead when LITTLE JOYCE was forced wide, but was not good enough to withstand the winner. GREY HIP showed early speed.

FIFTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Stickney purse, $700. Three year olds. Claiming. Net value to winner, $550; second, $90; third, $40; fourth, $20.

Time, :25 1-5, :51 1-5, 1:18 4-5, 1:26. Two dollar mutuels paid: Pulis, $16.54 straight, $6.44 place, $4.20 show; Adelaide A., $3.84 place, $3.12 show; Dr. Jellson, $4.14 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 4:21. At post 4 minutes. Start good from machine. Won driving; second and third same.

PULIS, away forwardly and well ridden rounding the turns, assumed a short lead at head of stretch and managed to retain it to the end. ADELAIDE A., away slowly, raced wide, moved up gradually, but could not catch the winner. DR. JELLSON, away fast, dropped back early, gradually worked his way up, and finished strong.

SIXTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $475; second, $75; third, $30; fourth, $10.

Time, :24 3-5, :50 4-5, 1:17 3-5, 1:31 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: High Pockets, $44.60 straight, $8.28 place, $4.64 show; Out Bound, $3.30 place, $2.76 show; Memphis Lass, $3.18 show. Winner trained by J. W. Frye Sr. Went to post at 4:50. At post 5½ minutes. Start good from machine. Won driving; second and third driving.

HIGH POCKETS, away fast, took the lead when FOOLHARDY ran out on the turn, withstood a hard drive, and lasted to win. OUT BOUND, possibly best, fractious at the barrier and away poorly when rounding but early poor racing luck was too much of a handicap to overcome. MEMPHIS LASS began fast, dropped back slightly, worked her way up to leader, and tired.

SEVENTH RACE—Mile and 70 yards. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $475; second, $75; third, $30; fourth, $20.

DUELIST, much the best in the going, raced kindly around the turns under restraint and won with something left. BOLD ROBIN, rated off the pace, challenged mildly rounding the far turn, but was not good enough. BETON, away well and saving ground, could not menace the leaders.

EIGHTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse $600. Net value to winner, $475; second, $75; third, $30; fourth, $20.

Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 5:49. At post 1¼ minutes. Start good from machine. Won easily; second and third driving. Quinella paid, $6.34.

JACK BIENER, away fast, well rated around first turn, was taken under restraint on back stretch, repulsed a mild challenge by GREENWALD, and won easily. GREENWALD, saving ground on the turns, was well rated, offered a mild challenge at head of the stretch, but was not good enough. VIOLA STINSON took a short lead early, but tired in the going.

Chlo Boy, at 24-1, Captures Pimlico Race

Baltimore, Md., May 2.—[Special.]—Chlo Boy was the surprise winner of the featured race at Pimlico today when he scored by four lengths and returned $49.00 for $2.00, Johnny Gilbert was the winning rider, getting his horse home in 1:12 2-5 for the 6 furlongs over a fast track.

The 6 to 5 favorite Wise Count, ridden by Silvio Coucci, was second, half a length before Too Late, an outsider in the field of 12, which returned 22 to 1 to show. The race was not truly run, Gay Party being caught in a jam and Jockey K. Langley unseated.

Coucci, who zig zagged with the favorite, went up to the stewards after the finish and explained that he rode that way to avoid hitting other horses when Gay Party fell. Coucci also lodged a claim against the winner, but no change was made in the placing. Chlo Boy carried 118 pounds and led from start to finish.

DON'T LET DERBY TRIALS DECEIVE YOU, SAGE WARNS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 2.—"Don't let fast workouts deceive you and cause you to pick the wrong horse to win the Kentucky Derby," advised old Screw Sanders, the sage of Churchill Downs, early this morning.

"In 1925, the year Flying Ebony won the Derby, the late Walter Hopkins had Captain Hal going miles around 1:39 and the full Derby distance in 2:08 or better. Yet Flying Ebony beat Captain Hal and the time was 2:07 2-5.

When Bubbling Over won the Derby he surprised the players because of the final workouts. Pompey, highly regarded everywhere two days before the Derby had 'blown out' a mile in 1:38 and Bubbling Over seemed to be dead tired working the Derby distance in 2:08 2-5. When it came to racing Bubbling Over made a show of Pompey and ran the mile and a quarter in 2:03 4-5."

REDS' TWO HOME RUNS TRIUMPH OVER BRAVES, 2-1

Durocher and Lombardi Hit Circuit Drives.

Boston, Mass., May 2.—(AP)—Home runs by Leo Durocher and Ernie Lombardi, today enabled the Cincinnati Reds to open their first eastern invasion with a 2 to 1 victory over the Boston Braves. Durocher slammed his homer down the foul line into the left field bleachers in the third inning and Lombardi hit the first ball pitched to him by Ed Brandt in the seventh into the center field stands. CARDINALS, 13; DODGERS, 4.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 2.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals visited Brooklyn today to start the first eastern swing of the western clubs around the National league circuit and battered three Dodger pitchers for a 13 to 4 victory.

Dizzy Dean yielded the Dodgers ten hits but fanned seven. The Cardinals pounded Walter Beck, rookie right hander, for four runs in the first four innings, walloped Joe Shaute for six more and hammered Ray Lucas for a final three runs in the last two innings.

PHILLIES, 6; PIRATES, 5.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 2.—(AP)—After six straight setbacks the Phillies defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 5, today.

The league leaders hammered Rhem for four runs in the first inning, but the Phillies knocked Larry French off the mound in the next and scored five runs, putting them into a lead they never gave up. Chuck Klein hit his second home run of the season with two on base in this inning to drive over the final three runs of the rally. Score:

Seven Games on W-I League Opening Card

Chicago Firemen at Chicago Heights.

Manager John Callahan of the Logan Squares has signed Walter Lindstrom to play second base. Lindstrom is a cousin of the famous Freddie of the Pirates and last year played with Knoxville in the Southern association.

One of the infielders now on the list of the Spencer Coals is Clyde Bower, tried out last year by the White Sox and sent to the Southern association.

Johnny Coulon, a veteran of long experience, will play center field for the Duffys this summer. He formerly was with Newark and Montreal in the International league.

The Madison club is banking heavily on good results from Gob Buckeye, the big southpaw, who once was a star on the pitching staff of the Cleveland Indians. Buckeye weighs far over 200 pounds but is in condition.

Jack Smith, veteran outfielder for many years with the St. Louis Cardinals, has signed to play the outfield for Douglas McWeeny's Aurora club. Smith has always lived on Chicago's west side.

Chet Sullivan predicts his Chicago Firemen will be stronger than ever this summer and the boys have been training regularly and found some hefty recruits for the team.

CHASE DEFEATS KERWIN, 38 TO 29, IN CUE TOURNEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., May 2.—Eddie Chase tonight scored another victory in the city three cushion handicap billiard meet at the Plankinton Arcade when he beat Tom Kerwin in 59 innings, 38 to 29. Kerwin was playing for 44.

Erich Hochstein will meet Perry Dickens tomorrow night.

BY BOB BECKER.

Now is the time for all good sportsmen to take a day from their spring fishing trips to go after crows with a shotgun and No. 7 shot. Through May and June the crow population inflicts serious losses upon our nesting birds by stealing eggs. This marauding habit of the crows has been proved by farmers, game breeders, and others who either own or occupy land on which efforts are being made to grow game birds.

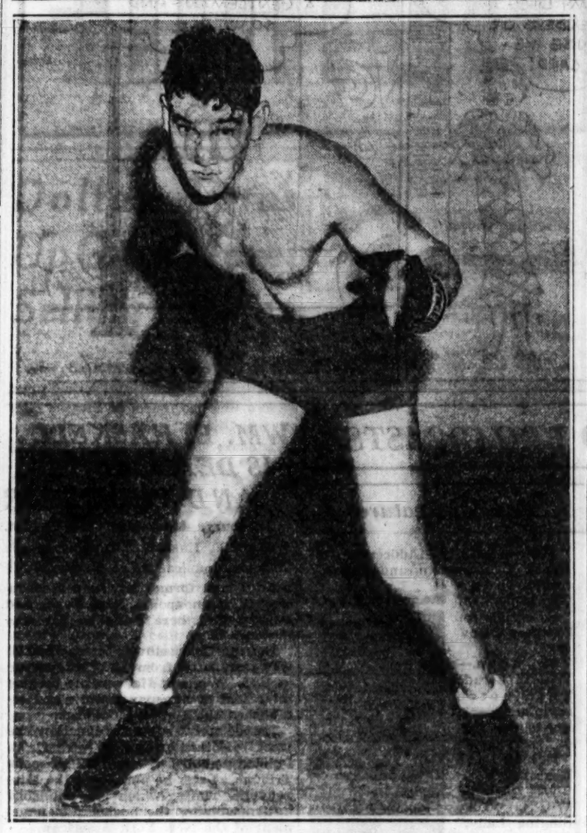
Most of the game breeders with whom we have discussed the crow menace have backed up their accusations with actual instances of how crows steal eggs of nesting birds. Last week when we were hiking through a large tract of woods near Wheaton we were told of a recent crow raid against nesting ducks which, along with swans and wild geese, occupy a large pond surrounded by trees. The observer came down to the pond just in time to see a crow rise from the ground with an egg. One shot from a 10 gauge gun and down went the robber.

Because comparatively little attention is paid to crow shooting the birds, always crafty and smart, increase in number every year. It is imperative to keep the crow population in check and at the same time give the song and game birds help in their battle to rear their young.

During May and June when the countryside is drenched with the fragrance of spring flowers, crow shooting is fun as well as a conservation measure. It is a pleasure to be in the woods and fields. Moreover, crows are so wary and so suspicious that hunting them offers a challenge. It's easy to slide into a good duck blind in a favorable location and shoot ducks with live decoys calling down your birds. To go into a tract of oak woods with a shotgun, find sufficient cover for blind while working a crow caller successfully and then snap shoot your birds through thick brush is another story.

A mounted owl is a big help in fooling the crows, but a crow call is almost as necessary in getting them within gunshot. The other day we fooled a couple of suspicious crows without our mounted owl and dropped one which had answered us. However, for a successful afternoon hunt one should use both a caller and an owl.

CAN YOU TAKE 'EM, KING?



King Levinsky never has been knocked out, but tonight's the night, many predict. He will fight Charley Retzlaff, who carries a wallop. However, King isn't worried. He's confident Retzlaff will be the one to take the count. (Story on page 23.) [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Northwestern Golfers Meet Michigan at Kildeer Today

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

One of the best matches of the conference golf season will be played this afternoon at the Kildeer Country club, where Northwestern and Michigan, defending champion of the Big Ten, meet. It will be the Wolverine's first conference appearance, while Northwestern already has been up and doing, having scored victories over Iowa and Wisconsin. Michigan brings with it Johnny Fischer, holder of both the Big Ten and national intercollegiate individual championships and ranked as one of the best amateurs in the country. Both teams worked out at Kildeer yesterday. Northwestern will play Capt. MacDonald, Brown, Reid, and Flynn against Michigan's Capt. Jolley, Fischer, Dayton, and Markham. Incidentally the match will provide both teams with a test for the conference championships, to be decided at Kildeer May 23 and 24.

JOHNNY FISCHER.

The Roseland Lions will open their tournament season today with a meeting at Indian Wood, Western avenue and Sauk trail. Bill Caley is chairman of the golf committee. Indian Wood will hold its own opening frolic on Saturday.

More than 100 registrations have been received for the sixth annual Royal league national men's golf tournament, according to Fred A. Johnson, general organizer of the society. The tournament will be played on July 27 at the Nordic Country club. Walter Miller, titleholder in 1931 and 1932, will defend his championship.

Neil Christian, one of the leading players of the Pacific northwest, has been signed as assistant professional at Lincoln park. Christian was formerly with the Waverly club of Portland, Ore., and won the Pacific northwest open title in 1924 and 1929 and tied for it in 1931, losing in the playoff.

The St. Charles Country club, through its secretary, Robert F. Munn, has applied for membership in the Chicago District Golf association. St. Charles is one of the livest clubs in the district, offering in addition to golf a swimming pool and tennis and shuffleboard courts.

Locker rentals at Sunset Ridge have been reduced to $15 for large lockers and to $10 on small ones, with ladies' lockers being trimmed to $9 for singles and $6.50 for doubles. Ned Jamieson has returned to assist Dave Tosh as professional. The club is headed by Robert B. Umberger, one of the most energetic presidents in the Chicago districts.

The Toy Manufacturers' association of America will hold a tournament Sunday at Blackheath. This is the first event arranged by A Century of Progress Registration bureau, designed by the C. D. G. A. and the Chicago Golfer and Country Club Review to aid golfing visitors at the World's Fair.

The imposing program of tournaments to be conducted by the Chicago District Golf association this season already has reached as far as Portland, Me. Joe Davis, secretary of the association, recently received a letter from Milton Dunn, of that city, seeking a job as a caddy in the district.

Business duties which will keep him traveling throughout the country much of the time have forced Paul L. Day of Flossmoor to resign as president of the Chicago Hole In One club. Henceforth the club will be conducted by the C. D. G. A.

Late Rush Sends National Open Entries Past 800

New York, May 2.—(AP)—An eleventh hour rush today brought the United States Golf association enough lagging entries for the 1933 open championship to raise the total to between 800 and 900.

It will be at least two or three days before the entries are examined and sorted by districts. The deadline was 6 p. m., but some leeway may be allowed if circumstances warrant. It appears certain, however, the final compilation will fall at least 100 and perhaps 200 under the 1,012 total of 1932.

All except the first 30 finishers and ties in last year's open must qualify May 15 in 21 sectional tests for the 72 hole championship finals at Chicago June 8, 9, and 10. The starting field at Chicago is limited to 150 aspirants for the crown worn by Gene Sarazen.

Among the late entries were those of Densmore Shute, Ryder cup nominee; T. Philip Perkins, former British amateur champion; Mortie Dutra of Detroit, Vincent Eldred of Pittsburgh, and Francis Gallett of Wauwautosa, Wis., all of whom are in the exempt list of 30.

One reason assigned for the smaller entry list is the early date of the open, set ahead of the British open for the first time in years. The open customarily is held late in June or early in July. The early date was set for the benefit of the American Ryder cup team.

SAVOLDI MEETS SONNENBERG ON MAT TOMORROW

Two former pupils of Ed [Strangler] Lewis, veteran heavyweight wrestler, will appear in the windup of the wrestling show at the Coliseum tomorrow night. Joe Savoldi and Gus Sonnenberg, who rose to places among the leading wrestlers in the country under the tutelage of Lewis, will meet in the first show to be held since the Illinois athletic commission lifted its ban on wrestling.

Both use the flying tackle and the headlock, which they were taught by Lewis. Five other exhibitions have been arranged by Promoter John Krone, the first to start at 8:15 o'clock.

Wright Wins Bowling Match from Lenzen

Frank Wright defeated William Lenzen in a ten game bowling match at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium last night, 2,046 to 1,923. They lead the city in individual averages, Wright with 224 and Lenzen with 222.

Kurt Pagel rolled an 1,178 series to take the lead in the Petersen individual classic from Bart Cook of Cincinnati. He averaged 235.3 for his five games. His total is expected to win the first prize of $1,000.

Kruse Undertakers and the De Barry Insurance, leading average teams of the city, will meet tonight. The Mineralites, Randolph league champions, and the Lorenz Knitters, Classic league leaders, will roll tomorrow.

Scores of Wright-Lenzen match:

Pagel's Petersen Classic scores:

BOWLING MEETING JUNE 20

The Bowling Proprietors association of America, which conducted the individual match bowling championship, in which Joe Miller of Buffalo, defeated Stewart Watson of Chicago, will hold its annual meeting in Chicago on June 20.

It is planned to develop the match game championship so that all sections of the country will be represented.

The election of officers will be held at the meeting. The present executive staff is composed of Nick Bruck, Chicago, president; Alex Wino, New York, vice president; Jack Hagerty, Toledo, treasurer, and John Bauer, Detroit, secretary.

ROYAL LEAGUE TO BOWL

More than 400 from Wisconsin, Missouri, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois will compete here tomorrow and Friday in the seventh national amateur bowling tournament of The Royal league. This was announced yesterday by B. A. Glenger, president of the society's bowling association. Championship teams from the five states will arrive here today.

Among the events scheduled, which will take place on Schueneman's Lake View alleys at 3239 North Clark street, are men's, women's and juniors' title matches with the champions of last year defending their titles. After the two days of bowling, the women junior club supervisors and the men junior club athletic directors will compete in teams in a handicap feature match. Trophies and medals will be awarded in all divisions on the evening of May 21.

Lee, Injured Phil Player, to Be Out for 10 Days

Philadelphia, Pa., May 2.—[Special.]—Hal Lee, outfielder for the Philadelphia National league baseball club, who was injured in yesterday's Philly-Pittsburgh game, will be unable to play for ten days. Lee suffered a wrenched shoulder, a twisted wrist, and a sprained ankle in an attempt to stop a grounder batted by Pie Traynor of the Pirates.

POINT FOR 4 TEAM MEET.

Rock Island, Ill., May 2.—[Special.]—Defeated by Carthage, 72½ to 53½ here last Saturday, Augustana track athletes are now drilling for the quadrangular meet at Monmouth Saturday.

Barney Ross to Meet Ghnouly in St. Louis Tonight

Barney Ross, Golden Gloves graduate, will meet Joe Ghnouly at St. Louis tonight in the first of a series of tune-up matches for his lightweight title bout with Champion Tony Canzoneri in Chicago on June 22. Although Ross is expected to win tonight, Ghnouly is not rated a setup. On March 9 Ghnouly lost in 10 rounds to Benny Bass at St. Louis, but he has defeated Cecil Payne and Davey Abad, and held Freddy Miller, featherweight champion, to a draw.

Max Marek, newly crowned National A. A. U. light heavyweight boxing champion and holder of many other titles, will be the featured performer in the regular weekly boxing show at the Catholic Youth center tomorrow night. Marek has been paired with Tom Pacetti, runnerup to him in the C. Y. O. tournament held at the Chicago Stadium last fall.

The semi-windup will be a match between Phil Kenneally, lightweight, and Joe Montella, runnerup to Jimmy O'Connell in the lightweight class in the C. Y. O. bouts at the Stadium. Six other matches are on the card for the evening. The card:

112—Adam Wuchitech vs. Mills Ely.
118—Mike McCann vs. Phil Mario.
135—Mike Kausak vs. Romulo Mastro.
135—Phil Kenneally vs. Joe Montella.
142—Ray Jackson vs. Jim Fontana.
160—Charles Negro vs. George Sluka.
178—Max Marek vs. Tom Pacetti.

Kid Irish, Benld, Ill., featherweight who wishes to defend his state title claim against Eddie Shea of the south side, and Jimmy Lamberson of Valparaiso, Ind., signed yesterday to meet in the six round windup May 12 at the Cicero stadium. Lamberson was substituted for Georgie Nate of South Bend, Ind., who sustained a leg injury in training. A five round semifinal and six matches at four rounds will complete the program.

Bobby O'Hara, Chicago southpaw welterweight, is in Terre Haute, Ind., sparring with Sammy (Kid) Slaughter for Slaughter's encounter against Lou Brouillard, former welterweight titleholder, at Boston, May 15. . . . Eddie Houghton, Philadelphia, and Tiger Jack Fox, Terre Haute, arrived yesterday. . . . Bob Stone, local heavyweight, is booked to face Tim Charles in the eight round semi-final to the Ray Tramblie-Bill Rhoderer match at Louisville on May 15.

Frankie O'Brien, Hartford, Conn., middleweight, is to leave here for Milwaukee Saturday to fight Rosy (Kid) Baker of Indianapolis there Monday. . . . Johnny Pena and his manager, Tony Palazzola, are in Minneapolis, where Pena meets Jackie Sharkey for the second time Friday. . . . Johnny Phagan, west side welterweight, resumed drills yesterday after a layoff of several weeks due to a cut over his eye.

Giants Held to Three Hits as Cubs Win, 11-0

Moore. Vergez flied to Demaree, Mancuso grounded to Jurges, who threw to the boxes, Moore reaching third and Mancuso second. Warneke then fanned Jackson.

The first five Cubs to face Uhle failed to get a hit, but they made up for lost time in the eighth. Bill Herman made his third safety, a single to left. Babe Herman beat out a bunt, and when Vergez threw the ball away Bill Herman went to third and Babe to second. Stephenson walked, filling the bases, and English walked, forcing in Bill Herman. Grimm dropped a single in left, Babe Herman scoring. Jurges flied to Davis and Stephenson scored after the catch. Hartnett then knocked homer No. 2, this one in the left field pavilion, English and Grimm scoring ahead of him. Warneke flied to Ott and Jackson threw out Demaree.

Bill Herman greeted Shores with his fourth single to start the ninth. The Giants rang up their fifth double play when Babe Herman fanned and Bill Herman was thrown out trying to reach second. Stephenson then knocked his homer and English followed with his third single. Critz threw out Grimm.

TINNING WORKS TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 2.—Bud Tinning, Cub pitcher, who has knocked out Kid Pork in their famed spring tournament, will get his first start of the year in tomorrow's game with the Giants.

Manager Charley Grimm decided that Bud had triumphed in his heroic flesh reducing campaign when the young man, making his second relief appearance in last Friday's game with the Cincinnati Reds, fanned Moore, Roettger, and Rice in order in the ninth. In his early spring exhibition games Bud was so plump that he not only was hampered in his pitching but could not bend over to field his position.

After Tinning had shed his alderman he thought he was ready, but Manager Grimm insisted that the fat lad would have to get rid of the layers of flesh on his shoulders and arms. Fungo hitting—plenty of fungo hitting—was prescribed, with the result that Tinning, though still overweight, especially in the legs, now seems ready to take his turn as a starting pitcher.

Umpire Cy Pfirman, who prior to today had umpired in 1,710 consecutive National league games without missing an inning, was to have officiated in today's game, but was forced to break his chain because of organic trouble. Pfirman's record covered a span of 12 years.

The appearance of Capt. Travis Jackson was his first in a National league game since early last season. Jackson made several starts against the Cubs in California this spring, but his ailing knees later acted up, delaying his start in championship play.

Bill Terry, Giants' manager, whose wrist was broken recently by one of Joe Shaute's pitches, made his first appearance in a uniform since the accident, though his hand is in a cast. Today's game was the first in four years in which the Cubs have not seen Terry on first base in a starting lineup

STEFFEN NAMED PRESIDENT OF MAROON C CLUB

Alumni Watch Varsity Grid Teams Scrimmage.

Judge Walter P. Steffen, quarter back on the championship University of Chicago football teams of twenty-five years ago, was elected president of the Order of the C. Maroon letter-men's organization, at a meeting of the order on the campus last night. A. A. Stagg, who has headed the organization since he founded it in 1904, was elected honorary president for life.

JUDGE WALTER P. STEFFEN.

The meeting of C men was part of the first annual spring athletic party held by the Chicago Alumni club, in which more than 600 alumni, undergraduates, and high school students participated. John F. Hagey, '99 was elected vice president of the C men and Harvey Harris, '14, was chosen secretary and treasurer.

Alumni Watch Scrimmage.

During the afternoon Coach Clark Shaughnessy showed alumni the makings of his 1933 Maroon eleven. In a scrimmage which lasted more than an hour a fast, heavy first string team which included six freshmen ran up three touchdowns against the reserves. Two of the scores were made by Jay Berwanger, freshman back from Dubuque, Ia., and the third was scored by Ewald Nyquist of Rockford, another freshman.

The Maroon team, despite the mud, gave the alumni a heartening exhibition of blocking. Spinner plays and lateral passes, mixed up with convincing deception, made up the bulk of the Maroon offensive strategy. The reserve squad was unable to make any headway against the varsity team. Capt. Pete Zimmer remained on the sidelines, favoring his leg, and the varsity back field was made up of Berwanger, Nyquist and Bob Wallace, with Vin Sahlin calling signals.

Coach Lauds Squad.

At a dinner following the practice Judge Steffen and Frank Madden, president of the Alumni club, offered the fullest coöperation of the alumni group to Coach Shaughnessy and to Nelson Metcalf, incoming athletic director.

"We want an athletic program which primarily will benefit the boys," Metcalf said. "We must have both intramural and intercollegiate athletics well developed, so that every boy in the university will acquire skills which he can enjoy for the rest of his life. We want the best possible coaches. But their jobs will depend not upon victories, but upon reasonable evidence that they know their stuff and exert a good influence."

Coach Shaughnessy lauded the morale of the team. "I've never seen a finer spirit," he said. "The boys have worked so hard and progressed so rapidly that we've almost had to hold them back. We ought to make the going hot for our opponents this fall."

RAISE FINANCES FOR NATIONAL COLLEGE REGATTA

Los Angeles, May 2.—(AP)—Maj. Goodsell, University of California at Los Angeles rowing coach, said today financial backing for a national intercollegiate regatta over the Marine course, Long Beach, July 8, had been assured.

Under plans presented to leading citizens of Southern California, pledged to underwrite the regatta, three leading crews from the east will meet the west's three entries.

The western schools will be Washington, Pacific coast champions, California, 1932 Olympic champions, and U. C. L. A.

SHAVING WAS A PAIN IN THE NECK!

"—Until I discovered this special blade made for tough beards and tender skins!"

"I HONESTLY believe I have the world's stubbornest beard. Not only is it tough and dense but the grain runs every which way, especially on the neck.

"I tried one blade after another, and swore at them all—for every shave seemed to leave my skin in worse condition than the last. Almost every morning I cut or nicked myself in some way.

"But now I'm using PROBAKS! This blade is certainly different from any I've ever used before. Now with practically no effort at all, I always get the cleanest, most comfortable shaves I've ever had. It is the only blade for a beard like mine!"

This man's experience is typical. Thousands everywhere are finding new shaving comfort in the same way.

If you have a tough or cross-grained beard, if your skin is tender, or sensitive—try the double-edge PROBAK. It is the one blade specially designed for difficult beards. It is sharper, heavier and especially honed and tempered to cut through the wiriest stubble grown.

To end your shaving troubles—to experience real shaving comfort every day—switch to PROBAK now.

Bundesen Gives Statistics on Infant Deaths.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of health, yesterday promised every out-of-town baby contemplating a trip to A Century of Progress that he or she will find Chicago the healthiest large city in the world. More than that, a comparison of figures from the Illinois state board of health with those of the Chicago board of health reveal that Chicago is the healthiest spot in the state as far as the infant mortality rate is concerned.

Dr. Bundesen, in connection with Baby week now being observed nationally, pointed to Chicago's infant mortality record of 49.8 per 1,000 live births [1932 figures] as the lowest of the cities of the world with population above one million. New York City is second with 50.9; London sixth with 61.9; Berlin seventh with 67, and Paris eighth with 82.4 infant deaths per 1,000 live births.

Downstate Rate Rises Sharply.

A study of the sharp increase in the infant mortality rate in Illinois during last January and February as compared with the same period of 1932 discloses that the state's rate, exclusive of Chicago, increased 15.5 per cent this year over the same period in 1932, whereas the Chicago health department's figures show an increase for Chicago for the same period of only 2.4 per cent. When the infant mortality rate for the state as a whole was determined, it was found, Chicago's low rate pulled down the rate of the state as a whole to 9.8 per cent increase in the first two months of this year over the same period in 1932.

The state department's figures show 1,020 deaths out of 16,444 births in the first two months of 1932 compared with 1,046 deaths out of 15,352 births in the same period this year. The Chicago board of health reports 440 deaths out of 6,666 births in the same two months of 1932 as compared with 418 deaths in 6,179 births this year. In Illinois, exclusive of Chicago, 580 deaths out of 9,778 births in 1932 were reported compared with 628 deaths in 9,173 births

Make Work More Intensive.

In explaining how Chicago controls its infant death rate, Dr. Bundesen said that more intensive work is being done now than ever before to save the lives of infants. The baby is given protection from every communicable disease, he said.

"Despite a budget reduced $500,000 last year, we were able to make Chicago's baby death rate the lowest in its history," Dr. Bundesen said. "When parents bring their babies to the World's Fair they needn't fear for the health of their children. Chicago's milk and water supplies are the safest they'll find anywhere. And on the fair grounds there will be a children's headquarters in the Enchanted Island where every care will be taken to guard the health of every small visitor."

Avenue of Flags at Fair Dedicated; Place Standards

The Avenue of Flags, on either side of the main entrance to A Century of Progress on Leif Ericson drive from the Administration building to the Hall of Science, was dedicated yesterday with the placing of the first standards. Forty-eight structural steel standards painted in aluminum, 85 feet high, will support flag poles and huge flags.

HAROLD TEEN—THAT MAN AGAIN

Retribution

Three youths, found guilty of robbery with a gun by a jury in Criminal court yesterday, were sentenced to one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Michael Feinberg. They are Thomas Biderman, 20 years old; Joseph Gijonola, 19 years old, and Tony Dombrowski, 19 years old.

The youths robbed the haberdashery shop of Walter Oskorep at 5333 Fullerton avenue last Nov. 17, taking $15 and shirts and ties. The ties proved their undoing. Several weeks later, Patrolman Frank Conway saw Biderman in an automobile and questioned him. Patrolman Conway accompanied Biderman to an address he gave and found Gijonola and Dombrowski. He observed Oskorep's label on Biderman's tie and took the three to the station where they were identified as the robbers.

GEN. GORECKI OF POLAND TO BE CHICAGO GUEST

Gen. Roman Gorecki of Warsaw, Poland, president of Fidac, the international association of world war veterans' organizations in the allied countries, will be the guest of the American Legion in Chicago on Saturday. Gen. Gorecki, who is touring the country, will be escorted here by Capt. Wencel F. Hetman, chairman of the Legion reception committee.

The general will arrive at the Union station Friday evening. His program for Saturday includes breakfast at the home of the Polish consul general, Dr. Titus Zbyszewski, at 999 Lake Shore drive; a visit to Mayor Kelly; a conference with officials of the American Bankers' association; the placing of wreaths on the Kosciusko monument in Humboldt park and the Lincoln monument in Lincoln park, and a visit to A Century of Progress.

AUTO HITS CHILD; DRIVER REMOVES BODY AND FLEES

Motorist Trapped After Boy, 6, Dies.

An automobile driven by a youth yesterday struck and fatally injured Walter Collins, 6 years old, 5030 Nevada street, in front of 2516 North Laramie avenue. The driver fled and the boy, taken to the Belmont hospital, died soon afterward.

CARLSTON SMEVOLD.

Witnesses told of the accident. Walter, on his way home from the Lloyd elementary school, was pinned between the bumper and the radiator of the car and was carried more than 200 feet.

Tosses Body in Street.

The driver, the police were told, stopped the automobile and tossed the boy to the street before speeding on.

One of the witnesses, Thomas Derry of 4611 Dover street, pursued the car and obtained a part of the license number. A squad from the Cragin police station investigated a number of licenses and found the driver late last night. He is Carlston Smevold, 17 years old, 5715 Concord place. He confessed to the squad members, Sergts. Walter Rentslejcz, Oscar Knudson, and Martin Kavanaugh.

Find Fender Bent.

Investigation showed that the right headlight had been put out and the fender bent when the little boy was struck. Smevold was locked up for the night.

This death and two others yesterday increased the 1933 Cook county automobile toll to 293. The other victims:

Leonard Stewart, 6 years old, 6727 South Marshfield avenue. Died at Auburn Park hospital from a skull fracture incurred April 28 when he was struck at 67th street and Ashland avenue.

An unidentified man, about 40 years old, carrying a pay envelope with the name P. Hydzik. Struck by an automobile at Mason and Milwaukee avenues. The driver sped away, outdistancing several motorists who pursued him.

BUNDESEN GIVEN POWER TO LIMIT MILK BOUNDARY

The Chicago board of health yesterday adopted a resolution empowering its president, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, to limit inspection of dairy farms supplying Chicago distributors to areas in which more efficient and more frequent inspections may be made.

The action was based upon authority given the health board by the city council March 22 when the milk ordinance was amended to provide that the board of health "may confine its inspections within such bounds and territorial limits as the board of health may, from time to time, deem necessary."

A survey conducted by the health board was made the basis for the new policy. The new ruling provides that, until further order, all dairy farms and milk plants within 100 miles of the city hall, desiring to ship milk or its products to Chicago, shall be inspected and reinspected under direction of the president. The ruling becomes effective May 12.

All other dairy farms and milk plants shall be inspected and reinspected at the special direction of the board, the new policy provides, when such inspection is necessary to provide an adequate supply of wholesome milk and cream for Chicago.

"The board of health's new policy will not mean a drastic change in the marketing of milk and cream in Chicago," Dr. Bundesen declared.

WM. E. HASKELL IS DEAD; EDITOR AND PUBLISHER

Salisbury, Md., May 2.—(AP)—Col. William E. Haskell, a founder of the Crimson, publication at Harvard university, and former newspaper executive in Minneapolis, New York, and Boston, died here tonight. He was 72 years old.

Born in Charlestown, Mass., Haskell was graduated from Harvard college in 1885. While at Harvard he became interested in newspaper work and established the Harvard Crimson.

Immediately after graduation he went to Minneapolis and, with C. M. Palmer, published the Minneapolis Tribune. Later he purchased the Minneapolis Times, which he published until assuming the business management of the New York American.

Later Haskell took over publication of the Boston Herald, of which his father, Edwin B. Haskell, had been editor for years. When the Herald combined with the Boston Traveler he became first vice president of the International Paper company. At one time he also was connected with the Chicago Herald.

Col. Haskell retired six years ago and purchased an estate on the Manokin river on the eastern shore of Maryland.

Surviving are his widow, Helen Eggleston Haskell, authoress, whom he married in 1903; three children by a former marriage, William E. Haskell Jr. and Celia Haskell of New York and Dudley E. Haskell of Paris, France; one sister, Margaret Haskell of Auburndale, Mass.

CHARITY GIVEN $100,000 IN WILL OF MRS. MOENG

The will of Mrs. Helen Moeng, disposing of an estate valued at $250,000, was admitted to probate yesterday by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the probate judge. Mrs. Moeng, who died April 16 at the age of 71, was the widow of Edward D. Moeng, former president of the American Colortype company and the Franklin company.

Bequests totaling $100,000 are given to charity and to various civic projects under the will. The Chicago Historical society, the Field museum, and the Grant hospital are to receive $10,000 each, and the Chicago Symphony orchestra, the Illinois Masonic hospital, St. Paul's house, 3831 North Mozart street; the German Old People's home, Forest Park; Uhlich's Orphan asylum, and the Evangelical Orphan asylum at Bensenville are given $5,000 each. The Union League Foundation for Boys is to be given the Moeng home at 1054 Columbia avenue, valued at $40,000.

AT LAST!
PILES
ACTUALLY REDUCED WITHOUT SURGERY!

Now it is possible to do more than merely soothe Piles. Now it is possible actually to reduce the swollen or enlarged blood vessels which Piles are, without the need of an operation. Now, the first time, a home medicinal treatment is available which not only stops the pains and itching of piles, but at the same time, actually shrinks the enlarged veins.

Perforated Pile Pipe for Correct Medication

Pazo Ointment is a complete and effective treatment for Piles because it does three things. It soothes the sore and inflamed parts. It heals the irritated and torn membrane and tissue. It shrinks or reduces the swollen blood vessels. Thus, it not only merely relieves Piles, but actually tends to correct the condition as a whole. Whether your Piles are painful or itching or whether they are bleeding, blind or protruding Piles, the relief you seek is supplied in Pazo Ointment. The method of application makes Pazo doubly effective. Special Pile Pipe attached to tube permits application high up in rectum so all parts are thoroughly medicated. Thousands say that Pazo gave them the first real relief they ever had from Piles. Thousands say that it saved them the need of a painful operation. One trial of Pazo will convince you that it is YOUR relief, too! All drug stores sell Pazo.

NEW YORK GROUP WINNING FIGHT TO LOWER TAXES

Citizens Campaign to Regain Prosperity.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The effort of a group of New York citizens to reduce the crushing burden of taxation in the Empire state so that business may prosper again and provide a full measure of employment is told in the record of the New York state economic council.

This organization, which has local groups functioning in 50 counties, with a total membership of about 50,000 persons, has been cited by leaders in the campaign against high taxation as a model for similar associations in other states.

Briefly, its purpose is to have business men with records of efficiency coöperate with government officials—state and local—in putting the cost of government on a basis that can be met under present depleted incomes. It asserts that the revival of business and employment is being held up by excessive taxation.

Says Officials Must Economize.

"Face facts," is the warning which the council gives to budget makers in New York state. It frankly states that its economy program calls for curtailment of a number of desirable governmental activities along with undesirable ones, but it asserts that public officials now must cut their cloth to fit their incomes.

"The council is interested in government retrenchment because it believes such a course to be the only way out," the program says. "Men and women must earn good wages. The whole people must have the greatest practicable security against the various hazards of life. But in order to have these things it must be reasonably possible for business activity to be profitably conducted. This cannot be accomplished until a far smaller part of all the people's income is diverted to support government."

Taxes Skyrocket.

Looking back to the events which led up to the organization of the council, it is noted that the cost of government in New York state increased from $32,000,000 in 1907 to 95 million dollars in 1919 and to 315 millions in 1930. The net bonded debt of the state and its subdivisions has risen to well over 3 billion dollars and taxes are reported to have skyrocketed from 335 million dollars in 1913 to over 1 billion 144 millions in 1930.

In the years when the country was still enjoying prosperity a cloud had appeared in the economic skies of New York state. Since 1914 business had been lagging, compared with the principal competing states. This situation was disclosed to the members of the industrial survey commission, which, at the behest of the state legislature, made a three year survey of economic conditions from 1926 to 1929.

Citizens Seek Remedies.

Aroused by the findings of the commission, a group of citizens established the committee of twenty-five for the purpose of finding ways to reverse the economic trend. In March, 1931, this group was reorganized as the New York state economic council.

The members of the council, as a result of their studies, came to the conclusion that much of the extravagance in government could be laid to the indifference of business leaders and the general public to the problems of government. With this in mind the council sent representatives throughout the state to preach economy.

At the end of the first year's work one New York state newspaper credited the council with having been the chief influence in inducing the legislature to make cuts of $20,000,000 in the 1932 state budget. In 1932 it was an important influence in inducing Gov. Roosevelt to call the July conference on state expenditures, which led to the later appointment of the state budget advisory committee.

Council Induces Economies.

In the winter of 1933 the council urged the legislature to reduce the budget by $75,000,000 to $90,000,000. It was actually cut about $64,000,000.

Valuable as this work has been, the council states, the real key to statewide retrenchment lies in the counties and localities. The council has set up county councils in 50 counties and is organizing the rest. The county councils are organizing committees in the cities, towns, and villages to extend the campaign for economy. Some of these groups already have secured reductions in government costs ranging from 10 to 57 per cent.

NEW YORK CITY ADDS A MILLION TO VETERANS' AID

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 2.—The gradual process of nullifying, through authorization of supplemental appropriations, what critics of Mayor John P. O'Brien's 1933 budget termed "bookkeeping economies," was accelerated today. The board of estimate approved an additional appropriation of $1,000,000 for support of soldiers, sailors and marines. Since Jan. 1, administration critics said the vaunted $114,000,000 retrenchment has been offset by borrowings of $25,685,521.

The mayor's opponents contend the city, in order to make a show of economy in the 1933 budget, neglected to provide for mandatory and necessary expenditures, and is now borrowing money which will have to be repaid out of the 1934 budget. The expenditure for soldiers, sailors and marines is mandatory.

Last year the city spent $3,000,000 for the support of veterans, $1,000,000 more than appropriated in the 1932 budget. The mayor trimmed the veterans' appropriation in the 1933 budget to $1,800,000.

Frank J. Taylor, commissioner of the department of welfare, today informed the mayor that the fund already was exhausted—in four months.

The board also approved Mr. Taylor's request for $5,000,000 for work and home relief during May.

600 Millions in Gold, Notes Are Missing

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Now that May 1 has passed and by presidential edict all holders of more than $100 in gold are subject to penalties more severe than those dealt out for forgery or wife beating gold has become a favorite topic of conversation.

According to official estimates there is approximately 600 million dollars of gold and gold crtificates still in circulation in the United States.

This would seem to mean that there are a lot of people who think the administration has been running a bluff and that the courts will not uphold the anti-hoarding edict.

The 600 million dollar figure, on closer inspection, however, appears to be pretty vague. There is no question about the amount of gold and gold certificates that has been turned into the reserve banks since the bank holiday. The tellers have counted that. But who knows how much gold there is still outstanding?

Arriving at a Figure.

Presumably the method of estimating the amount of gold outstanding is to tally up the amount that has been issued, subtract the amount returned, and there you have it.

But, have you? What about allowances for gold coin and certificates lost, strayed, exported, or burned? The writer sorrowfully recalls that there is at least one $20 gold certificate that will not be redeemed at the United States treasury due to the untimely burning of some old letters.

Is it ridiculous to believe that many gold coins and certificates have disappeared? Consider the case of government bonds.

A Liberty bond or other government security is no small piece of paper. It's quite a handful. And yet the official statement of the secretary of the treasury shows that there is a total of 59 million dollars' worth of matured government bonds and notes which have never been presented for payment.

Some Merely Forgotten.

A lot of these are still in safe deposit boxes and will be presented for redemption later, but the amount represented by those that have utterly disappeared runs well into the millions. The treasury statement, for example, reports one item of $1,613,130 of pre-war bonds that matured years ago. Of the third Liberty loan there is still $4,351,850 unclaimed.

Probably some of these bonds have been held by hoarders instead of gold certificates because government bonds are payable in gold. If so, there's no longer any point in hoarding these matured bonds, because they can't be traded for gold, anyway.

The Chicago Clearing House association still has $7,500 on deposit to secure that amount of clearing house scrip of 1907 which has never been turned in for redemption.

The nations of the world began tabulating figures on gold production the year in which Columbus discovered America. From 1492 through 1931 the world produced slightly more than one billion ounces, according to these statistics.

Figuring this gold at $20.67 per ounce the production of gold since 1492 is now worth nearly 22½ billion dollars.

Stocks Half of Production.

Yet the monetary gold stock of all the nations of the world is today reckoned at only 11 billions 940 millions, or about half the total production since Columbus sailed the ocean blue.

The standard deduction is that the rest went into "the arts" and teeth. Probably most of it did. But has not some disappeared entirely?

The United States hasn't fared so badly. Production of gold in this country since 1792 [in dollars at par] is estimated to have been worth 4 billion 679 million dollars. On April 26 the nation's stock of monetary gold was estimated at 4 billion 310 millions.

Dollar Turns Up Once More; Selling Eases

New York, May 2.—(AP)—The American dollar rallied against European gold currencies today, but still was at a discount of some 15 per cent in terms of French and Dutch exchanges.

The French franc eased .06 of a cent to a cable rate of 4.61½ cents, Dutch funds dropped .61 of a cent to 47.10 cents, Belgian belgas lost .15 of a cent and Swiss francs sagged 1-5 of a cent. Trading in most of these exchanges, however, was rather quiet.

The British pound sterling was off around a cent at one time, but came back to $3.89½ for cables, a net decline of only ¾ of a cent. Canadian dollars yielded ½ cent at 87.50 cents, but some of the Scandinavians were up around 1-10 of a cent. German marks lost .35 of a cent.

Lower franc rates were attributed partly to the recent Franco-British stabilization loan agreement. Some offerings of sterling were also reported from the Bank of England control.

DOLLAR RISES IN PARIS.

PARIS, May 2.—(AP)—Paris became one of the chief battlefields of the American dollar and the British pound sterling today with heavy exchange transactions taxing bourse facilities.

The dollar sharply rebounded, increasing 46 centimes in value, while the pound went up 30 centimes, making the American dollar's proportionate increase six times that of the pound. The close of the dollar at 21.76 francs compared with yesterday's final figure of 21.30 and the opening figure of 21.40 francs.

World Trade Pacts Foreseen.

It was felt in some quarters that there may be a general race to complete pending commercial agreements all over the world before June 12, when the world economic conference will open in London.

Interest on the French cities gold dollar loan is being paid here at the gold rate of 25.52 francs to the dollar. Le Journal Des Debats quoting the finance ministry as announcing that French loans placed in America would be paid on that basis if the loans were issued with a clause so specifying.

PUBLIC DEBT RISES TO $170.17 PER PERSON; $2.07 UP YESTERDAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 2.—The per capita public debt in America jumped up $2.07 today, with the issuance by the treasury department of 261 million dollars in notes and with the increase in the total gross public debt to 21 billion 347 million dollars. On April 30, 1932, the total stood at 18 billions 597 millions.

Estimating the country's population at 125,400,000, the treasury's records show that the per capita division of the debt is $170.17, the highest figure since 1925. Before the issuance of the notes today, the per capita share of the debt was only $168.10.

Tomorrow, when the treasury is scheduled to put out another 60 million dollars' worth of bills, the gross debt will mount to 21 billion 407 million, and a little less than another half dollar will be added to each person's share in it.

Approximately a third of the entire outstanding public debt is in relatively short term notes, certificates and bills. The large ratio which the short term debt bears to the total was pointed to today as an indication of the urgency of some refunding operation.

In addition to the 7 billion 118 million dollars short term debt, which has recurring maturities, the treasury has outstanding 8 billion 201 million dollars in callable bonds. These two huge blocks of securities, totaling 15 billion 319 million dollars, form the bulk of the treasury's financing operations for the next few years.

CLEVELAND BANK OFFERS TO TAKE OVER TWO CLOSED

Cleveland, O., May 2.—[Special.]—C. B. Reynolds, president of the National City bank, tonight sent to the organization committee of the proposed First National bank a proposal for the National City to buy the liquid assets of the Union and Guardian Trust companies, expand its size to meet new requirements, and pay depositors of the old banks what they have been promised under the First National plan.

The new plan was reported to have been suggested by the large utility companies. While the First National committee, headed by Herman R. Neff, made no official reply tonight, it is believed the offer will be accepted, insuring new banking facilities for the city and the disbursement of between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 to depositors whose funds have been frozen. The National City plan would terminate the discord which has surrounded the local banking situation.

GARY WILL MAKE STEEL IN BRIDGE FOR GOLDEN GATE

The bulk of the 120,000 ton order for steel to be used in the San Francisco-Oakland [Golden Gate] bridge will be furnished by the Gary mills of the Illinois Steel company, subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, it was reported in Gary yesterday.

The contract, which was awarded to Columbia Steel company, Illinois Steel subsidiary, will be formally signed in the near future, it is understood. Columbia is the Pacific coast unit of United States Steel. The bridge contract is said to be the largest of its kind ever made. It will be high enough to allow battleships to pass under it.

The Gary tin plate plant of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company, another United States Steel subsidiary, is now operating at a rate of 17 turns a week. Peak production calls for 3 turns daily, or 21 a week. The present backlog assures the continuation of the present production rate for 2 months, it is said.

Bankrupt Liggett Drug Co. Lists Assets, Liabilities

New York, May 2.—(AP)—The Louis K. Liggett company filed its schedules in bankruptcy today showing liabilities of $8,616,355 and assets of $8,694,181, but both figures were called "incomplete." The company, which operates a chain of more than 400 drug stores, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy March 31. It was permitted by the court to continue in business pending the appointment of a trustee.

U. S. REVENUE DROPS DESPITE 25 NEW TAXES

Higher Income Rates Produce Less.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 2.—Revenue collections of the federal government through the end of April still were 50 million dollars short of those a year ago, although the government has imposed 25 new taxes and raised the rates on five others, including the income tax, during the intervening year, the treasury department revealed today.

Collections for the first ten months of the fiscal year ended April 29 amounted to one billion 636 million dollars this year, according to treasury reports. During the same period a year ago, before the new taxes had been levied, collections amounted to one billion 686 millions.

Deficit Is Smaller.

Despite the shrinkage in revenue, the treasury's deficit is smaller than a year ago. It stood at 1 billion 586 million dollars on April 29 in contrast to 2 billion 334 millions on the same date a year ago.

The comparatively small deficit in the face of declining income has been made possible by reductions in expenditures due largely to the liquidation of the farm board, the placing of the Reconstruction Finance corporation in a separate budget and a cut in general running costs. Total expenditures have amounted to 3 billion 222 millions, a reduction of 798 millions under those of a year ago.

Fifty millions dollars of this decrease has been offset by the decline in revenue, leaving the net reduction in the deficit only 748 millions. Almost all of the decline in tax receipts has been due to the income tax.

Income Collections Drop.

Total income tax collections this fiscal year are only 583 million dollars, compared with 873 millions during the same period of the preceding year. During the first four months of this calendar year, the period during which higher income tax rates have been in effect, the income tax has brought in only 240 million dollars, compared with 258 millions a year before.

Most of the 290 million dollar decrease in incometaxes has been cancelled, however, by a 237 million dollar increase in miscellaneous internal revenue taxes. This category includes the new beer, gasoline, electricity, and bank check taxes in addition to other new nuisance taxes, and they have caused the increase.

OWEN D. YOUNG RE-ELECTED RADIO CORP. DIRECTOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 2.—Gen. James G Harbord, Betram Cutler, Cornelius N. Bliss and Owen D. Young today were reelected directors of the Radio Corporation of America for terms of three years. Probably Mr. Young will be a director of the company only for two more days, as under the terms of the consent decree ending the relationship between Radio Corporation of America and General Electric company, of which Mr. Young recently was reelected chairman, he must resign from one company by Friday. Mr. Young was not present at the meeting.

Assert Money Printer Plays Joke on U. S. Securities Bill

Some of the bond dealers who have been objecting to the stringent provisions of the new federal securities law as originally drafted have been getting quite a kick out of the way in which the new national currency or "asset money" is engraved.

One of the provisions of the securities bill as first presented was that security advertisements must contain only one size of type. Presumably the intention was to prevent putting the favorable facts in large taype and the unfavorable facts in small type.

The new "asset money" bears the inscription "National Currency, secured by United States bonds deposited with the treasurer of the United States of America," in comparatively large and prominent letters, and "or by like deposit of other securities" in comparatively small letters, about half the size of the type used in the ordinary newspaper story.

"Asset money" has just made its debut in this district, although it has been used in the New York reserve district for several weeks.

If there is in any Chicago bank, closed or open, a deposit made thirteen years ago by Raymond [Chicago Ponzi] Bischoff for Robert Mathews, who claims to be his foster son, the latter would like to be advised. A clearing house official yesterday received the following letter from Mathews in San Diego:

"About Nov. 15, 1920, Raymond Bischoff, alias 'Chicago Ponzi,' deposited in a Chicago bank a sum of money for my education. I was his son by adoption and had been in his care for two years.

"Shortly after this money was deposited he was arrested for oil swindles and sent to the penitentiary. Can you tell me how to find out what bank this money was deposited in?"

Bischoff was sentenced to a ten year term in the penitentiary on April 12, 1925. At the time the Bischoff case was being tried Bischoff's mother and brother figured prominently in the news, but there was no mention whatever of an adopted son.

Individual banks in Chicago are charging stiffer fees to non-depositors for ordinary services such as cashing checks. The service charge for cashing checks between $25 and $50 ranges as high as 15 cents a check at some banks and 25 cents for checks over $50. There is no uniform rate among clearing house banks but the tendency in recent months has been to raise the fees because bank earnings have been near the vanishing point.

Until a few months ago the First National bank furnished cashier checks without charge to customers and non-depositors but has abandoned this practice. Like other Chicago banks it now charges 10 cents for cashier checks of nominal amounts.

British sugar refiners are attempting to satisfy the sweet tooth of Chicago families, says Dow, Jones & Co. It was asserted English refined sugar is offered in the local market at 4.30 cents per pound, or 20 cents per 100 pounds under the domestic refined, while Mexican refined was available in New York at 4.40 cents per pound. American prices are estimated at about ½ cent per pound above a world's parity.

An item in yesterday's TRIBUNE stated that Frank Tierman was head of the Armoured Car Service, Inc., 306 South Wabash avenue, which filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition in federal court Monday. Mr. Tierman states that he withdrew from the company on April 15.

WHEAT EXPERTS CUT ESTIMATES OF COMING CROP

While condition of winter wheat improved somewhat during the last month, the estimates of leading Chicago statisticians given to the trade yesterday suggested the smallest crop since 1904, while the condition is still the lowest on record.

A yield of around 350,000,000 bushels of winter wheat was indicated, or 21,000,000 bushels below the private returns of the previous month and 16,000,000 bushels above the government indication. The figures compare with 462,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

Nearly 30 per cent of the 39,900,000 acres seeded last fall were reported as abandoned owing to prolonged drought. Condition averaged 64.1, or 3 points better than a month ago, but is 11 points below last year and 17.8 points under the 10 year average.

A decrease of over 1 per cent is looked for in corn, while estimates on the oats acreage showed a reduction of 2,300,000 to 3,500,000 acres.

A decrease of around 800,000 acres, or 4 per cent, in the spring wheat acreage was suggested by the reports.

Details on winter wheat estimates follow, with the last six ciphers omitted in the crop and the last three ciphers in the acreage:

U. S. STEEL HEAD SEES CONDITIONS BEST IN 4 YEARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 2.—Economic conditions are better at present than they have been at any time during the last four years, Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, said today at the weekly report luncheon of the Salvation Army appeal committee.

"The outlook is brighter today than at any time in the last four years," said Mr. Taylor. "We are entering our fourth year of the depression that has brought difficulties, despair, deprivation, and sorrow, but we still have the fine faith that has seen us through.

"Now we see an indication of the dawn, the sun is beginning to dispel the gloom. Soon we will emerge; when, no man knows, but soon."

Emms Made Sales Manager of the Kirk Soap Company

David M. Emms, formerly with Calumet Baking Powder company and the Kraft Cheese company, has been appointed general sales manager of the Kirk Soap company, it was announced yesterday. At the same time Walter R. Kirk announced that the company would embark on an extensive advertising campaign in the near future. Mr. Kirk sold out his interest in the James S. Kirk company in 1930 and has just formed the Kirk Soap company, a new concern. He has been in the soap business since 1893.

RAILWAY STOCKS TURN ON STEAM; PULL MARKET UP

Carrier Issues Soar; Industrials Mixed.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 2.—Spirited trading in railroad shares, particularly in the late afternoon trading, enabled the stock market to keep up appearances in spite of a heavy profit taking today. Many industrial shares were a fraction to a point or so lower at the close and the utilities were mixed. Volume was close to 3,900,000 shares.

Buying in the railroad group, however, was sufficiently strong and persistent to whirl prices in most cases up to the best levels of the year and in some instances to new peaks for a considerably longer period. Chesapeake and Ohio reached the highest point since 1931. New 1933 highs were set by Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Atchison, Texas Pacific, Union Pacific, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Delaware and Hudson, Lackawanna, and others. Gains ran as high as 5 points, with higher priced descriptions enjoying the greatest demand.

Two Factors Help Rails.

The sudden enthusiasm for the carriers was based partly on railroad legislation which has been proposed in Washington and partly on reports that several of the roads have experienced a substantial pickup in business. Beer is said to have added materially to the freight revenues of various lines.

Oil shares suffered a setback following the announcement of the omission of the dividend of Socony-Vacuum. Declines of more than a point occurred in Standard of New Jersey and Standard of California, while Socony tumbled more than 2 points before the decline was checked.

Power and light shares were given a whirl or two on the theory that this group is behind the rest of the market, but the close found quite a few minus signs appearing throughout the group. American Telephone finished at 99⅞, off a half point, after touching 101⅞. Public Service of New Jersey was up a point or so and Consolidated Gas nearly 2 points.

Some of Leaders Decline.

Elsewhere net losses were fairly plentiful. Bethlehem Steel, American Can, Du Pont, Sears-Roebuck, Radio, U. S. Rubber, Coca Cola, and General Foods lost fractions. Allied Chemical was down 1½. Tobacco issues were relatively firm.

Many traders believe that the possibilities of the inflation program as so far revealed have about been exhausted and they are inclined to wait for some new development to point a course to future action.

Milwaukee Railway Seeks $9,000,000 R. F. C. Loan

Washington, D. C., May 2.—(AP)—The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad today asked approval of the interstate commerce commission for a $9,000,000 Reconstruction Finance corporation loan. The money would be used to pay principal and interest on equipment trust certificates and interest on bonds due at various periods between July 1 and Sept. 1. The security offered is first and refunding mortgage bonds.

DURING SIXTY-NINE years of conservative, sound banking, The First National Bank of Chicago has adhered to a policy of extending credit to further business and industry. The policy continues today as in the past.

Facilities for the transaction of commercial, savings and foreign banking, and for bond investment, have been developed adequately to meet the requirements of individuals, firms, and corporations.

The business of responsible people is invited.

IOWA LAND BANK SEEKS TO SHRINK ITS BONDED DEBT

Offers to Buy Half at 35 Cents on Dollar.

A plan calling for a 50 per cent reduction in the bonded indebtedness of the Burlington Joint Stock Land bank of Des Moines, Ia., has been submitted to bondholders of the institution.

Holders of the $2,271,000 outstanding bonds are being asked to sell to the bank one-half of their bonds at 35 cents on the dollar, plus accrued interest.

J. C. Morrow, president, said that A. O. Stewart, who controls a large block of the bank's stock, has promised to negotiate a loan for the bank sufficient to retire one-half of the bonds on a 35 per cent basis if the bondholders assent. The loan would be secured by $1,040,900 of the bank's slow assets, consisting of delinquent mortgage loans, loans in the process of foreclosure and real estate.

U. S. Liability Debated.

The joint stock land banks, of which there are about 50 now operating, were organized immediately after the war in an attempt to refinance agriculture, which was in much the same predicament as it is today. Issued under government supervision, the bonds of the banks were declared to investors as the "instrumentalities of the government."

Many lawyers declare that the government is legally liable for the bonds issued. One Supreme court decision, which referred to the bonds as government instrumentalities, is cited in support of this assertion. Many proposals have been made in congress for outright assumption of the bonds by the government but so far these attempts have come to naught.

Set Deposit Date of June 15.

Bondholders agreeing to the plan are asked to deposit one-half of their bonds with the Harris Trust and Savings bank before June 15.

If the plan goes through, the bond debt would be cut to $1,350,000. Mr. Morrow states that this would be more "commensurate with the earning power of the assets of the bank."

Total assets of the bank are $2,462,774. The bonds are currently quoted in the unlisted market around 30 cents on the dollar.

Postal Life Insurance.

Kindly mail in enclosed stamped envelope your latest available report on Postal Life Insurance company of New York. I have a policy in this company and am thinking of taking out another.—H. M. P.

Postal Life Insurance company (New York) was incorporated 29 years ago. It is a stock company. It is licensed in New York, but sells insurance over the counter and by mail, using no agents.

Insurance in force showed an upward trend prior to 1928, but since then there has been a slight downward trend. Face value of policies on Dec. 31, 1932, totaled $49,609,000, against $51,577,000 the year before and $49,797,000 on Dec. 31 1927.

Mortality of policy holders was substantially less in 1932 than in 1931. It amounted to 61.5 per cent of expectancy (based on mortality tables), against 73.4 per cent the year before and 79.4 per cent in 1930.

Against liability to policy holders of $19,458,000 the company reported admitted assets of $21,887,000. Of these, liquid assets comprised $12,784,000 policy loans (which offset liability to policy holders), $1,774,000 bonds (book value), and $48,000 cash. Other assets included $2,724,000 real estate, $2,635,000 city mortgage loans, and $215,000 deferred and uncollected premiums.

The company has foreclosed on only two of its mortgages. All bonds owned are in good standing. It set up a reserve of $250,000 for mortgage loan fluctuation. Borrowed money totaled $312,000.

Postal Savings and Gold.

The postal savings accounts specifically state that they are payable in gold. If payment is demanded now with a request that it be paid in gold, will the payment be made in the yellow metal?—W. H. T.

Due to presidential decree the United States postoffice is not paying off its deposits in gold on demand.

BUTTER FUTURES LOWER

Butter futures declined ¼c on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, with egg futures holdings unchanged to ½c lower. Trading was dull. Butter dropped ¾c near the opening, weakness in other markets bringing out moderate selling. Statistical news was slightly improved, the four markets reporting 53,700 lbs less in than last year, and receipts were light. Eggs failed to respond to the lower levels in other marts and did not react when statistical news again proved bearish. Selling was lacking and new buying continued. The four markets reported 30,000 cases more in than last year. Sales: Butter, 34 cars; eggs, 38 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 2 cars. Prices follow:

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bullish sentiment continues to dominate the grain markets. Prices suffered a fractional decline yesterday at the opening in sympathy with stocks and on scattered commission house selling. Surplus offerings were quickly absorbed, however, and wheat advanced 2⅜ to 2¾ cents from the inside figure to a new high for the season on the July option. The volume of trading expanded on the way up.

Private crop estimates suggesting a reduced winter wheat yield put an effective check to operations on the bear side. Many local traders who sold early became buyers on the way up and some stop loss orders were uncovered above 72½ cents for the July. Final trades were at net gains of 1 to 1⅝ cents; with May finishing at 71⅛ to 71¼ cents; July, 72½ to 72⅞ cents, and September, 73½ to 73⅝ cents.

Claim Long Lines Reinstated.

There was no material pressure on the wheat market on the way up and the action of Winnipeg and Buenos Aires had considerable effect on sentiment. The upturn of nearly 2 cents in the Canadian market from Monday's finish was accompanied by talk of inflation in that country. Buenos Aires cable to Clement, Curtis & Co. reported general speculative buying there for the first time this year and prices were up nearly 2 cents per bushel at midday.

According to some pit brokers there was evidence yesterday that leading operators who recently sold out lines of long wheat were coming back into the market on the buying side. The east was on the buying side early and followed up the market, while there was steady buying in small lots by commission houses. Profit taking checked the bulge.

Corn Receives Support.

Corn developed independent strength yesterday, with an enlarged speculative interest. Introduction of another alcohol-gasoline mixture bill into congress, combined with charters for 1,400,000 bushels of cash grain to Georgian Bay and Buffalo, and reports indicating a smaller acreage for the country than last year, started a buying movement that carried prices up 1¼ to 1½ cents over Monday's finish, and the close was at net gains of ⅞ to 1 cent. May finished at 36¾ to 36½ cents; July, 39 to 39¼ cents, and September, 40¾ to 40⅞ cents.

May oats acted tight yesterday and went to ⅛ cent premium over July. There have been no deliveries of cash oats, so far owing to limited stocks. The close was ⅛ to ½ cent higher with May at 24⅝ cents, July 24½ cents, and September 24¾ cents. Rye gained ½ to ⅞ cent, with May finishing at 48¾ cents and July at 49¼ cents. Barley was unchanged to 1 cent higher. July was 38 cents and September 39 cents at the last.

Broker Tells of Deals at Curb Inquiry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 2.—Of $10,000,000 worth of sales and purchases of Central Public Service corporation debentures registered on the New York curb exchange in 1931 $7,200,000 worth were for the company's account, it was testified today at the state attorney general's investigation of curb practices.

"When the price went up too fast Central Public Service sold," said Morrell Grimshaw, in charge of wholesale accounts for J. G. White & Co., "and when it went down too fast they'd have to buy some."

Later Frank Bethel, curb broker specializing in the issue, said all his records for 1931 had been destroyed.

The handling of Central Public Service corporation securities by the Chase-Harris Forbes corporation and the White firm held the boards all day. Central Public Service has gone into bankruptcy since the time concerning which Grimshaw testified, early 1931.

Notes Rise After Listing.

The debentures had not been listed on the curb when they were first offered at 96½ in 1929; Chase-Harris Forbes had asked to have them kept off. Two years later, when they had fallen to 63, J. G. White undertook a "secondary distribution." The debentures then were listed and sold on the basis of the curb quotations. The first quotation was 70, and the price reached 81; thereafter for a while the debentures ranged between these two figures, Grimshaw said.

George D. Woods, a vice president of the Chase Securities affiliate, described a contract which his company made with Central Public Service, which owns gas properties, in January, 1929. Chase-Harris Forbes was to sell 60,000 shares of C. P. S. class A stock at 33, and got options on 40,000 shares of 6 per cent preferred at $90 and $25,000,000 worth of 5½ per cent gold debentures, due in 1949.

The distributing company paid $33 each for the class A shares, and Mr. Woods was asked how high the stock ranged. He said 64.

Took Up Option.

In February, 1929, the option on the preferred was exercised and it was offered at 95 through a participating group including Harris Forbes, Federal Securities corporation, H. M. Byllesby & Co., and Weston & Co.

Shortly thereafter the option on the debentures was taken up, the price paid being 91 and accrued interest, and the offering price being 96½ and accrued interest.

The profits on the sale of the debentures, it was brought out, totaled $1,192,434 to various firms which took part in the selling.

MEN

DUE TO OUR CONSTANT EXPANSION, SUBSTANTIAL POSITIONS, WITH PERMANENCY OF OPPORTUNITY, ARE AVAILABLE TO A FEW MORE MEN WHO ARE QUALIFIED TO LEARN HOW TO SUCCESSFULLY REPRESENT THIS COMPANY.
These positions are permanent and immediate. Requirements are adaptability and character, rather than previous experience, since all our men receive free training, as well as supplies, equipment and aid of experienced management. There is no deposit, no investment, no rent, collection or service trouble. We sell you nothing, but give you a chance to test yourself in positions paying qualified men $3,500 to $4,000 and up per year regularly.

Our plan of work is just as different from most sales work as our success is. 1932 was by far our biggest year. All the men in our Chicago offices are now enjoying an increased rate of pay. Those who made $2,500 here last year should make $3,500 to $5,000 this year. Those who made $4,000 last year will make $6,000 for 1933. Those who earned $5,000 last year will earn $7,500 or more this year, as the sales of this unique Electrolux invention [not refrigeration] are growing, regardless of times, seasons or conditions.

Those inexperienced in specialty sales work must take the necessary time to learn and acquire skill. During this time they must be willing and satisfied to get along on nominal earnings of $125 to $200 per month if necessary. We cannot tell you how long it will take you to do this—whether one month or six months—but we do know that if you have the qualifications to satisfy our requirements you can, with reasonable study, practice, good character and diligence, be genuinely assured of making a success which will, in commissions alone, bring you the higher earnings.

Last week, for instance, P. B. C. made $92 on Saturday; B. T. B. $75 for the week and $235 for April; W. J. M. and E. A. $50 apiece on Saturday; M. J. $73 last week; F. N. C. $410 for April; P. J. $161 for April; C. J., a new man in this business, $161 for April. We can introduce you to men who make money like this consistently throughout the year, without pointing out exceptional earnings. We can introduce you to men here who have been making that kind of money for the past 2, 3, or 5 years.

These positions are for earnest, hard working, reputable men. If you feel qualified and are permanently settled in the North Side or Lake County, apply at 2 p. m. NO OTHER TIME, at Suite 215 McCracken Bldg., 1046 Wilson-av., Wednesday afternoon, May 3.

NEAR NORTH SIDE

How would you like a little tile roof bungalow tucked away in a little court that no one knows about? One is furnished, one unfurnished. Or a studio with ceiling so high that it touches the sky? Or an apartment so spacious that it has the feeling and freedom of a home? One of 5 rooms, beautifully furnished. Or mayhap a little, cozy studio? All with wood burning fires and all on or near North Michigan-av., and so near the loop that you always walk to your office, get home quickly at night and your leisure time is not spent in riding back and forth. Also wonderful combinations of shops and living quarters.
